MOSCOW CELEBRATES

Fireworks explode over Moscow Monday night as the festively lighted city celebrated the 60th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution. Thousands of people line bridge in foreground.

Hint Russ nuclear offer will lead to treaty banning all underground tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Soviet offer to halt so-called "peaceful" nuclear explosions probably will lead to a treaty banning all undergound tests, a high-level Carter administration official says.

But the treaty will fall short of Kremlin desires in at least one area, he said. The United States will reject a previously unrevealed facet of the offer, a Soviet request for an understanding that testing for civilian purposes be allowed to resume in three years or so.

Even without that concession by the United States, however, the Soviets are expected to agree to a ban.

In fact, the official said, the Russians had no major experiments planned during that three-year period anyway.

The Russians have tested underground nuclear explosions for such projects as reversing the courses of rivers. For years, they wanted these blasts to be allowed even while prohibiting underground weapons tests.

But administration arms experts say the distinction between a "peaceful" and a military test is difficult to verify. Beyond that, they say, it is almost impossible to separate military benefits derived from such a test from the peaceful benefits.

For these reasons, the United States — unsuccessfully until now — has pushed for an accord with the Russians banning both kinds of explosions.

Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev made the offer of a comprehensive ban in a speech last week before the Supreme Soviet, the nation's parliament, in a session marking the 60th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance quickly welcomed the offer as a "major step" toward a comprehensive test ban and "a downturn in the arms race."

The treaty would supersede two Ford administration agreements prohibiting underground tests above 150 kilotons, the equivalent of 150,000 tons of TNT. Those treaties are still awaiting Senate ratification.

Tests in the atmosphere, outer space and under water already are outlawed.

Brezhnev did not make clear in his speech whether he was offering to halt all underground tests indefinitely.

British gird for strike by firemen

LONDON (AP) — Thousands of soldiers began emergency firefighting training today to meet the threat of a strike next Monday by Britain's 43,000 firemen.

The 300 delegates to the Fire Brigades Union conference voted nearly 2-to-1 Monday to strike unless the government allows a 30 percent pay raise, three times the amount permitted by the government's anti-inflation ceiling of 10 percent.

Wages of firemen below officer level range from $5,867.76 to $7,234.23 a year, and they work a 48-hour week.

Home Secretary Merlyn Rees told the House of Commons: "The government will have no alternative but to use all possible methods to protect people's lives."

There were indications Northern Ireland's 500 firemen would join the strike despite the possibility that the Irish Republican Army would intensify its firebomb campaign, which has caused damage estimated at $36 million this year.

The only previous firemen's strike in Britain occurred in Glasgow in 1973 and lasted two weeks. The army supplied emergency service.

The firemen's union is one of many — including the coal miners, railwaymen, power plant workers, auto workers and seamen — seeking wage increases above the government ceiling. The unions are angry because the government refuses to lift the two-year-old ceiling even though North Sea oil is beginning to revive the battered economy.

The government says that the inflation rate is still 15.5 percent and must be brought down further.

In other labor disputes:

—Leaders of 4,000 power plant workers offered to end a two-week-old wildcat strike if the government guaranteed that the strikers' demands for higher pay would be discussed and that they would be paid for the time they were on strike.

The government did not respond immediately. The strike is causing rotating power shutdowns across the nation.

—The government said it would resist "any excessive pay demand" by the 260,000 coal miners at negotiations starting next week. The miners, whose strike helped bring down the last Conservative Party government in 1974, are demanding a 90 per cent increase.

Small quake jars La Habra

LA HABRA (AP) — Residents in this residential community of 43,000 were jolted from their sleep this morning by a small earthquake measuring 3.1 on the Richter scale, authorities reported.

Phyllis Brewster of the Caltech Seismological Laboratory said the quake occurred at 2:52 a.m. and was centered two miles southest of La Habra, just five miles north of the Los Angeles county line.

A spokeswoman from the city clerk's office said she was awakened by the jolt and suspected the worst.

"I thought I was going through that one we had several years ago," said Diane Parker. "I was sound asleep and all of a sudden I felt this jolt and the bed started rocking."

Police said there were no reports of injury or damage.

Dutch arrest three recover most money

UTRECHT, Netherlands (AP) — Police said today they have recovered most of the $1.6 million haul from last week's armored car robbery in this central Dutch city and have arrested three suspects.

Weather

Gusty north and northeast winds tonight and Wednesday. Temperatures to reach up to 78 during the day and as low as the 40s at night. High in Pomona Monday was 74. Overnight low this morning was 44. Sunrise Wednesday 6:18 a.m. Sunset at 4:52 p.m.

Carter will make energy plea in TV talk tonight

WARM GREETING

Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., embraces Golda Meir during a meeting in Humphrey's Capitol Hill office Monday. Mrs. Meir served as Israel's prime minister.

Pollster says he can restore image, if Congress passes bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's pollster says the president's falling ratings in public opinion samplings will bounce back if Congress passes an energy bill to the president's liking.

Carter is making a nationally broadcast speech at 6 p.m. PST tonight to push for his energy package, which is now in a House-Senate conference committee. The speech will be broadcast live on all three major networks.

"The president knew from the start that energy was a politically unpopular issue with everybody," said pollster Pat Caddell in a recent interview.

"But it was a necessary initiative, and if he gets the bill he wants, then he can say that despite all the talk about energy all these years, he was the first president to really do something about it."

On Monday, the White House also announced that Carter's scheduled overseas trip to nine countries has been postponed so he could devote himself to energy legislation.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance said Carter told heads of state that "his personal involvement was vital to the development of a sound energy legislation." Powell said the trip might be rescheduled "sometime after Christmas."

Carter's speech is coming on the heels of a Harris poll released Monday showing that a majority of those polled feel the president is not doing a good job after nine months in office.

The poll, taken the week of Oct. 8-16, indicated that 50 percent of 1,533 adults questioned gave the president a negative overall job rating, while 48 percent were pleased.

In July, Carter's Harris rating was 59-37 percent positive. By October, the president's rating for restoring confidence in the government dropped 20 points and now is 51-44 percent negative, Harris said.

"I think the president feels comfortable with the fact that there's a popularity decline," said Caddell. He said Carter himself had predicted a 15 percent drop because of his energy proposals.

"The president knows that the public has a right to withhold judgment of his performance until things really get done," Caddell said. "He is the least nervous of anybody about his ratings in the polls."

Caddell said the biggest problem facing Carter in his appeal to the people is getting the country to believe that the energy problem is real and important.

"The energy package simply will not work if people don't see the problem," said Caddell, "because the people are the only ones who can turn down the thermostats and drive less."

Since Carter has been in office, Caddell's firm, Cambridge Survey Research, has prepared surveys on a variety of topics for the White House.

These surveys, said Caddell, "are just another tool on how best to restore the credibility of the presidency and build up the kind of confidence in his leadership so he can truly lead the country."

As for Carter's confidence in Caddell, "He seems to still have the same confidence in me as ever," said Caddell. "I have not misled him, and I have not been wrong."

Suspect hospitalized

Four of berserk gunman's 10 victims are paralyzed

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A former Internal Revenue Service auditor accused of wounding 10 persons in a citywide shooting spree was said to be depressed by unemployment and marital problems.

Four of the wounded were in critical condition today and paralyzed, maybe permanently, from spinal wounds, doctors said.

Carlos Poree, 35, had been acting differently since last Dec. 17, when he was fired from his $19,332-a-year government job, said his mother-in-law, Dorothy Broussard. The IRS will not say why Poree was fired.

Three weeks ago Poree's wife, Diane, 34, left him.

Diane and her father, Alvin Broussard, 61, were the first victims Monday. Shot at Broussard's house in a quiet section of uptown New Orleans near Tulane University, both are partially paralyzed with wounds of the neck.

Police said that after Poree shot them, he drove three miles to mid-city and gunned down eight apparent strangers.

Poree was booked with 10 counts of attempted murder, one count of resisting arrest, three counts of simple battery on police officers and one count of armed robbery — the alleged theft of a car at gunpoint.

Poree was hospitalized with serious eye injuries and several facial cuts suffered in a scuffle with police at the city jail.

Police Sgt. Tony Buonagura said Poree attacked an officer and that Poree's face hit the floor in the ensuing fight. Buonagura said the prisoner was not beaten.

Three tourists were wounded in a small French Quarter park after Poree allegedly stopped his car in the middle of Bourbon Street, walked into the park and fired his .38-caliber pistol.

In stable condition were Henry Luther, 67, Gadsden, Ala., and Richard Quarles, 26, Nashville, Tenn. Douglas Martin, 20, also of Nashville was in good condition.

Police said half an hour later and more than a mile away, Poree commandeered a car. A few minutes later, three other men were wounded, two of them critically, in the office of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, a large stock brokerage firm in the business district.

Two men walking by outside were shot on the sidewalk.

Robert Barrell, 45, of Metairie, La., and George Held of New Orleans were listed in critical condition with severed spinal cords. Barrell was paralyzed from the chest down; Held from the neck down.

In stable condition were Wesley Russel, 30, Kenner, La., wounded in the right eye; Alben Carlson, 30, Bay St. Louis, Miss., wounded in the chest; and Hans Anderson of Norway, wounded in the neck.

"He didn't say a word. It was just bang, bang!" said Joyce Saylan, a secretary who was headed out to lunch with her young son when the gunman brushed past her on the way inside.

"The guy walked in the door, went down the hall and started shooting ... Everybody thought it was a joke with a cap pistol because it was so quick. Then everybody started screaming."

Good marks for governor, but signs of discontent

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — About 80 percent of the Californians in a poll released today gave Gov. Edmond G. Brown Jr. fair to good marks after three years in office, but there were signs of some discontent.

In his California Poll, Mervin Field said just 15 percent of the survey of 1,058 adults thought Brown was doing a "poor job," compared to 39 percent who rated his job performance "good" and 41 percent "fair."

But when asked to respond to more specific statements about the state's chief executive, those surveyed displayed some increasingly negative criticism, Field said.

About 51 percent agreed that "for all the talk about how well Jerry Brown is liked, he hasn't really accomplished anything important as governor." A little more than one year ago, 38 percent registered the same opinion, compared to 54 percent who disagreed.

Another 44 percent in the latest survey agreed Brown wasn't "providing public leadership of the kind needed to get things done." The 1976 poll found 31 percent of similar mind and 62 percent in disagreement.

PROTESTING FARMERS

California farmers walk a picket line in Sacramento protesting the 160-acre limit of federal irrigation water. Farmers contend that enforcement of the limit would put many of the state's small family farms out of business.

Mysterious object may be solar system's 10th planet

Discovered between Saturn and Uranus

PASADENA (AP)—A 36-year-old astronomer who discovered two of Jupiter's 14 moons now has found what may be the 10th — and by far the tiniest — planet in the solar system.

But no decision has been made on whether the object is indeed a planet or something else, Dennis Meredith, a spokesman for the California Institute of Technology, said Monday.

"It's not an asteroid, a moon of another planet or a comet," Meredith said of the object discovered last Tuesday by Charles Kowal. "But I think the problem with calling it a planet is that astronomers have never run across anything so small with all the orbital characteristics of planet."

Kowal discovered the object as he used a microscope to look for differences in photographs of the heavens taken on consecutive nights.

The object he found is between 100 and 400 miles in diameter and is orbiting the sun between Saturn and Uranus on the same plane as all other planets in the solar system. It is 1.5 billion miles from earth and takes an estimated 115 years to circle the sun.

Saturn and Uranus are the sixth and seventh planets from the sun.

"Kowal is emphatic that he is not ready to call it a planet," said Meredith. "This is up to the fraternity of astronomers to decide. But if it is a planet, it is by far the smallest."

He said the final decision as to whether it is a planet will be made by the Smithsonian Astrophysical Laboratory in Cambridge, Mass.

Kowal, who graduated with a bachelor's degree in astronomy from the University of Southern California in 1961, has worked since at Caltech's Hale Observatory, seeking new ojects in the sky.

He discovered the 13th and 14th moons of Jupiter and located 80 supernovas, the brilliant but momentary explosions of dying stars.

Meredith termed Kowal "a very unusual man" because the highest degree he holds is his bachelor's degree from USC.

Discrimination suit settlement costs Edison Co. $700,000

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Southern California Edison Co. has agreed to settle a five-year-old discrimination case by paying some 1,700 female and minority employees a total of $700,000.

The consent decree filed Monday in U.S. District Court ends two years of litigation over job bias charges brought by the federal Equal Employment Opportunities Commission and private plaintiffs up to five years ago.

Payments to the employees will range from $200 to nearly $10,000, said Edison attorney Tom Taber.

In addition, an EEOC spokesman said, special hearings for former employees may bring the total to $1 million.

The original charges that the company was discriminating against women and minorities in job placement, promotion, testing, discharge and benefits were brought by EEOC Commissioner Ethel Bent Walsh in 1972. A group of 21 black and Spanish-surnamed plaintiffs filed a private class action suit two years later.

Taber said hearings probably will begin next March to determine whether certain classes of former employes — such as blacks who were fired and women who were terminated because of pregnancy — are entitled to benefits.

The utility also agreed to establish a pilot project giving women physical training for more strenuous jobs, setting hiring and promotion goals for women and minorities and giving special transfer and training opportunities to employees who allegedly suffered discrimination in job assignments.

All attorneys in the case agreed Edison had changed its policies in 1972 when it entered into an affirmative action agreement with the state Fair Employment Practices Commission.

Huey Newton to stand trial for two murders

OAKLAND (AP) — Implicated by the testimony of two prostitutes, Black Panther leader Huey Newton will stand trial on charges he murdered an Oakland streetwalker and pistol whipped his tailor.

Oakland Municipal Court Judge J. Robert Friborg ordered Newton Monday to stand trial on the charges and set Nov. 21 as the date for his arraignment in Superior Court. Meanwhile, he will remain free on $80,000 bail.

Friborg's order came over objections by defense attorney Sheldon Otis that testimony from the two prostitutes who implicated Newton in the Aug. 6, 1974, slaying was not credible.

Testifying against Newton at a preliminary examination were Raphaelle Gary, also known as "Crystal Gray," and Michelle Jenkins, also known as "Candy." Both placed Newton at the scene of the murder of Kathleen Smith, 17, a fellow prostitute.

Newton also is charged with beating his middle-aged tailor, Preston Callins, in a separate incident ten days after the murder.

La Verne backs water bond issue on today's ballot

The La Verne City Council, in an 11th hour action, Monday threw its support behind the $26 million water bond issue which is before voters of the Pomona Valley Municipal Water District today.

The vote was 4-0 with Councilman Robert Neher abstaining. Neher said he felt the endorsement was not for the council to make but for individual voters at the polls.

The resolution was introduced by Councilman Mel Belcher, who said La Verne has "always been in favor of the bond issue but never officially endorsed it. Tonight is the last chance to take official action."

Mayor Mike M. Morales said the valley needed the additional water. "If we don't get the system we are in trouble."

Nixon estate to be opened to tourists

SAN CLEMENTE (AP) — The grounds of former President Richard Nixon's 22-acre San Clemente estate will be opened to tourists for the first time during a one-day charity event this winter, a San Clemente Chamber of Commerce official says.

The bus tours, set for Feb. 26, 1978, were announced Tuesday by Alex Goodman, executive manager of the chamber of commerce. He described them as a fund-raising and educational venture celebrating this seaside city's 50th anniversary.

Says Brown aide

Irrigation limit could kill off family farms

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Brown administration's top farm official says proposed federal rule changes on the 160-acre limit for federal irrigation water are too restrictive and would hurt family farms.

Richard Rominger, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s cabinet-level food and agriculture director, also told a U.S. Department of the Interior hearing Monday that the reclamation law of 1902 should not apply to the Imperial Valley.

"I believe, and have so advised the governor, that the proposed regulations ... are so restrictive as to make it unlikely most family farmers could survive in these times ...." Rominger said.

Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus, on orders from a judge, wrote rules that would tighten enforcement of the 160-acre limit for farms receiving federal water. One rule would require the farmer to live within 50 miles of the farm. Another would use a lottery to select buyers of surplus land.

Rominger told reporters that Brown approved his statement, and told him, "That's fine, Rich. Go ahead and say it."

Elisabeth Coleman, Brown's press secretary, said Rominger was speaking for Brown only when he said he was "not sure that 160 acres is a magic number" and the law should be reevaluated "in the light of present-day factors."

"The rest is Rominger's statement and was approved as Rominger's statement. Consider the rest as approved by the govenor — for Rominger," Ms. Coleman said. She did not know when Brown would take a stand.

So Brown, who has been badgered recently by the California Farm Bureau Federation to take a stand, did not put his name on Rominger's comments that the proposed rules are "too restrictive" or "unreasonable" and the Imperial Valley should be exempt.

Imperial Valley farmers claimed exemption under an agreement with a secretary of interior in the 1930s. But a federal appeals court recently ruled that the law must be enforced in the valley.

About 1,000 persons, mostly farmers and water district officials, applauded Rominger's statement which underscored earlier testimony by farmers, water district officials and the state Chamber of Commerce.

Supporters of the proposed rules were disappointed by Rominger's statement.

Chinese sight what could be new comet

TOKYO (AP) — A Chinese observatory sighted "a fastmoving, blurred celestial body, possibly a new comet," on Nov. 3-4, the Hsinhua news agency reported today.

The official Chinese agency said the Tzuchinshan observatory in Nanking reported the celestial body had a brightness of 13.5 magnitude. A magnitude of more than 6 is not visible to the naked eye.

'One for the road' thief

LOS ANGELES (AP)—How do you celebrate a successful bank robbery?

One Los Angeles man decided to to cap off an $896 heist from a downtown Lloyds Bank branch Monday by strolling around the corner to a bar and buying drinks for himself and the house.

But police said a teller had trailed the man to the bar and waved down a passing squad car.

Police said they recovered $874 of the loot and arrested Andrew McLemore, 33, who was booked for investigation of bank robbery.

The Waldorf bar got the rest of the money, $22, which went to pay for drinks.

Wild horse round-up

SAN DIEGO (AP) - County Humane Society officers turned cowboy for awhile and rounded up eight abandoned and underfed wild horses who were found on a five acre spread in the Jamacha area.

The land, according to owner Bob Martin, had been recently leased to a couple for use as a distribution center for the government-sponsored wild horse adoption program. But the owners, Martin said Monday, had abandoned the property and the horses.

Sierra Club against LNG

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Citing questions of safety and economy, Sierra Club directors have voted to oppose construction of large-scale tanker terminals to import liquefied natural gas.

The directors voted 11-3 Sunday to support a moratorium on site approval for LNG terminals. It was the first time the 147,000-member club has set a policy on the issue.

The club urged that greater emphasis be placed on building insulation and solar energy for heating buildings and water as an alternative to increased LNG imports.

Manufacturer fined

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state Division of Industrial Safety has fined a Los Angeles area manufacturer $1,000 for using a cancer-causing agent without required safeguards for employees.

The division said Monday it shut down Rubber Engineering of California in Irwindale last Thursday until safety measures are taken.

The firm, which has six employees, was cited for using a chemical known as "4-4'-methylene bis" in an open vessel during a manufacturing process, rather than in the required closed vessel, the division said.

Innocent murder plea

SAN BERNARDINO (AP) — A former ice cream vendor on probation from a sex perversion conviction has pleaded innocent to new charges that he murdered and mutilated two young women.

Municipal Court Judge Theodore Krumm Monday set a preliminary hearing date of Nov. 22 for Andrew E. Robertson of Colton.

The 32-year-old was arrested last Thursday after the bodies of the two women were found within two weeks, both disemboweled and with their breasts partially cut off.

Karen Litzau, 20, of Enid, Okla., was found Oct. 20 near Beaumont, and Kimberly Gano, 19, of San Bernardino was found Nov. 1 west of Yucaipa.

Robertson was sentenced to one year in jail in August 1976 for holding a knife to the throat of a 20-year-old woman near Ontario and forcing her to perform oral sex. He was released from jail this year and put on probation for three years.

But business is business

Upland applauds war on alcohol

By CONRAD CASLER
PB Staff Writer

War on alcoholism was lauded by the Upland City Council Monday at 7:04 p.m.

At 7:06 p.m., the council approved several other items which included four liquor outlet applications.

Councilmen awarded James Pollard of the West End Toxic Abuse Service a plaque as the meeting opened for his work with alcoholics.

Pollard estimated there are 3,204 Upland residents suffering from alcoholism out of an estimated 62,069 in San Bernardino County.

Two minutes later, a consent calendar was approved during which no objection was raised against four liquor license applications on Foothill Boulevard and Mountain Avenue.

In other actions, the council tentatively approved a plan by Euclid Place Packing House to upgrade its operation to avoid a public nuisance to nearby residents. The issue has been the center of controversy for more than a month.

Packing house owners said the half-century old facility will be closed generally from now until March when the next crop comes in. But before then, they will reroute trucks into the plant to avoid residential areas, construct a concrete wall to block a truck staging area from neighbors, paint the factory, and maintain conveyors to hold down the noise.

Council members directed city staff members to police the area and see that all improvements are made and maintained.

Councilmen rejected a conditional use permit for a proposed office-commercial-motel-restaurant complex on the southeast corner of Mountain Avenue and Foothill Boulevard. Neighbors had objected to the three-story construction of two buildings which they said would destroy the privacy of their yards.

Vanguard Builders, however, may modify the height of the buildings and reapply for a permit.

The council approved an application by Lewis Construction Co. to renovate an abandoned shopping center and construct additional buildings at Mountain Avenue and Arrow Highway.

A special 7 p.m. meeting Thursday was set to review plans for a senior citizens center east of Memorial Park on San Bernardino Road.

Buried van was not a grave say Chowchilla kidnappers

OAKLAND (AP) — The defense team in the Chowchilla kidnapping trial has launched an effort to prove that the abductors installed adequate ventilation in a van buried deeper than a grave.

In probing cross-examination, defense attorneys repeatedly elicited testimony Monday from prosecution witnesses who conceded that two fans and an exhaust system were operating hours after 26 children and a bus driver escaped the buried van.

But the expert witnesses — two criminalists from the Alameda County Crime Laboratory — insisted the van was a filthy, airless prison.

"It was dark," said Anthony Sprague, recalling the time he spent investigating the underground cell. "I noticed primarily the humidity, a closeness of very stale air. It was warm. It was a very unpleasant atmosphere."

To study atrocities

Nazi hunter proposes L.A. center

SIMON WEISENTHAL

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nazi hunter Simon Wiesenthal says he will donate dossiers from his massive war crime files for a center to be built here to study atrocities committed by the German Third Reich.

"We have monuments and museums but we have no place for young people, especially young rabbis, to learn about what happened," Wiesenthal said Monday.

As adviser to the Simon Wiesenthal Center for Holocaust Studies, the 69-year-old concentration camp survivor said he will organize lectures and seminars and provide films, depositions and government records.

"Our generation was unprepared," Wiesenthal said. "Hitler used to be a Jewish joke because we didn't believe he could do anything. This center will give young people the knowledge about it, so they can fight against every extreme and know how it begins with propaganda."

Wiesenthal said there are 300 open cases of accused Nazi war criminals who have not been brought to justice. But the center will have no connection with his Nazi-hunting operation headquartered in Vienna.

"It will be open to everyone," he said, because "it could happen again.

"The history of man is the history of crimes. Perhaps tomorrow's criminals are being born today."

TOUR GUIDE GOVERNOR

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. has a wide-eyed group of first-graders under his spell while conducting a tour of the capitol Monday. It was the first personal tour ever given by Brown. The tour was set up after a card from the children caught his eye. The card was four feet square. The class is from the Sacramento suburb of North Highlands.

Sentences youth to life for killing

Despite pleas, judge is unrelenting

MIAMI (AP) — Ronny Zamora, who was defended in a murder trial on grounds that television violence drove him insane, stood silent before the TV cameras that recorded his sentencing to life in prison.

Judge Paul Baker brushed aside sentencing advice from famed psychiatrist Karl Menninger and others on Monday as he sentenced the 15-year-old to the life term without possibility for parole for at least 25 years.

Defense attorney Ellis Rubin, in his final plea for leniency for Zamora, waved psychiatric reports and even petitions from schoolmates in front of Baker.

Baker interrupted, saying: "I've even had a letter from Dr. Karl Menninger. But it is not their business. Unfortunately, it is mine."

Zamora's trial and sentencing were open to television and still camera coverage under a one-year experiment ordered by the Florida Supreme Court.

Before sentencing the teenager in the murder of his 83-year-old neighbor, Elinor Haggart, Baker offered Zamora a chance to make a statement to the court. But Zamora stood silent and the judge went ahead with sentencing.

Baker said Zamora should be placed in a "youthful offender facility" where he could receive psychiatric help. Rubin had pleaded that Zamora was "sick" and "suicidal" and should not go to an adult prison.

Watching impassively was Darrell Agrella, 15, who faces a separate trial on the same charge. Agrella's lawyer is challenging the grand jury selection system in the other case.

Zamora's mother sat nearby, wiping tears from her eyes.

During the trial Rubin asserted that the teen-ager lost his ability to judge right from wrong because he had become lost in a make-believe world kept alive by TV violence.

Rubin attempted to have the case thrown out Monday on several points. He said that the prosecution had arranged for two witnesses to talk to one another on the phone and had other witnesses listen to a tape of their conversation. But Baker ruled that the prosecution tactic, while not a good one, was not grounds to throw out the case.

After the sentencing Rubin said he had received permission from the parents to bring a lawsuit against the three major television networks. He said he hoped to show the effect television violence has on children.

"We feel we will be able to prove the networks are responsible for inducing young people to adopt violence as a way of life," he said.

10 DEAD IN FLOODING A house trailer lies smashed on banks of Hominy Creek near Asheville today after heavy rains caused flooding in parts of Western North Carolina. Ten persons have died as a result of the flooding, including a young mother and two children in the trailer.

Aftermath of a roaring current that swept a town

TOCCOA, Ga. (AP) — Unbroken 100-watt lightbulbs rest atop the muck and debris, just yards from cars crushed and trailer homes overturned by the wall of water that smashed into Toccoa Falls Bible College.

"Up that way there were four brick houses. I knew everybody who lived there ... Now most of them are gone," said Dr. Harold Windus, director of elementary education at the tiny school.

Everywhere was evidence of family life disrupted.

Part of a child's tricycle and a pink and yellow baby book, its pages blank, were stuck in the mud. Mattresses, torn and muddied, reminded that most of the 38 victims were asleep when disaster struck.

The few houses that still stand are stained by a muddy waterline.

Officials want to know whose responsibility it was to inspect the 37-year-old Kelly Barnes earthen dam, which apparently broke under the stress of an 80-acre lake swollen by heavy rains.

Survivors today are digging out of the ruins of their homes and classrooms — and preparing to bury their friends and family members who perished in the flood waters Sunday.

Bill Anderson, a Bible college student from Glen Dale, Md., lost his wife, Karen, 29, and two of their five children — Joey and Becky — when their trailer was ripped apart by the roaring current. Services for them will be held here at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Services for six other victims are scheduled at the Toccoa Alliance Church at 2 p.m. Wednesday. Most of the victims will be buried in their hometowns around the country.

The search continues for the body of Paul Williams, 76, a college maintenance worker and the only person unaccounted for.

The body of Dr. Jerry Sproull, 45, a theology professor, was found late Monday beneath an air conditioner only a short distance from where his home had stood.

The bodies of his three children, Melissa, 6; Joslynn, 7, and Joanna, 9, were recovered with 34 others Sunday. His wife, Pat Sproull, survived.

Windus surveyed the battered town of 9,000 and expressed disbelief at the courage shown by members of the interdenominational college.

"I guess because they are Christian young men and women when tragedy does strike, they have some inner strength," he said.

One young women spoke of God's presence on campus. "We pray He'll raise spiritual giants from among us," said Lorene Hays, 24, a senior from Utica, N.Y.

Bike rider hurt

A Pomona youth was injured Monday evening when the bike he was riding and a car collided at Ninth Street and Butterfield Road.

The rider, Rudy Ramos Jr., 16, was treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. The driver of the auto involved was Everett C. Rogers, 27, of Pomona.

Voters throughout the nation going to the polls

By The Associated Press

Voters are choosing mayors in 38 major cities and picking governors in New Jersey and Virginia, on an election day dominated by local issues and dampened by the weather.

Rain has historically benefited Republicans and could affect today's turnouts in both gubernatorial states, where the races are considered close.

In Virginia, where some areas have been flooded, Democrat Henry Howell opposes Republican Lt. Gov. John Dalton.

New Jersey's incumbent Democrat, Gov. Brendan Byrne, is challenged by a Republican state senator, Raymond Bateman.

Rain is also forecast for many of the mayoral cities including New York, where Democrat Edward Koch is expected to win easily regardless of the weather.

In several cities, black candidates are trying to capture city halls.

In New York, the historically accurate Daily News straw poll gave Koch 53 percent of the vote to 39 for his nearest rival, Secretary of State Mario Cuomo.

New York's major issue, Mayor Abraham Beame's handling of the city's finances, disappeared with Koch's defeat of the mayor in the Democratic primary.

Cuomo is the Liberal Party choice. Republican state Sen. Roy Goodman and radio personality Barry Farber, the Conservative Party entry, also are running, but with little hope.

Neighboring New Jersey still has its overriding issue, the state income tax that Byrne supports and Bateman wants to kill.

Byrne, who weathered a tough Democratic primary, had been trailing Bateman, but both sides now agree the outcome is in doubt.

The New Jersey contest was financed mostly out of public funds, with each candidate receiving $1 million from the state treasury.

In Virginia, Howell has said the state's largest electric utility, major banks and insurance companies reflect a "Tory plantation" policy represented by Dalton.

Dalton, a millionaire lawyer, has said Howell is a liberal and a big spender who would bring the state higher taxes and labor control of the government.

Blacks are trying to become the first of their race to win the New Orleans and Buffalo, N.Y. mayoralties.

The New Orleans election will be held Saturday with a black judge, Ernest Morial, facing Councilman Joseph DiRosa in a runoff.

In Buffalo, black Assemblyman Arthur Eve has tried to consolidate the predominant Democratic organization. His opponents in the largely blue-collar city are Democrat-Conservative James D. Griffin; Republican John J. Phelan and Liberal Donald Turchiarelli.

Coleman Young, Detroit's first black mayor, is expected to be an easy winner over Ernest C. Browne, who also is black.

There are a dozen names on the ballot in Houston, where incumbent Mayor Fred Hofheinz is not running.

It is an all-Democratic election in Cleveland, where Dennis Kucinich and Edward F. Feighan are the finalists. Republican Mayor Ralph Perk was eliminated in the nonpartisan primary.

Other big cities electing mayors today include Seattle; Pittsburgh; Minneapolis; Toledo and Dayton, Ohio; Miami; Louisville, Ky.; and Charlotte, N.C.

Youth hurt in crash with school bus

A 16-year-old Los Angeles youth, Richard Levi, suffered minor injuries Monday at 4:05 p.m. when the car in which he was a passenger collided with an Alta Loma Elementary School District bus in the intersection of Base Line Road and Carnelian Avenue.

Patrolmen said none of the children in the bus, which was southbound on Carnelian and driven by Glenna Mae Thomas, 49, Alta Loma, were injured.

The driver of the car in which Levi was riding was listed by officers as Dwayne Foster, 20, Los Angeles.

Details of slaying of Pomona woman revealed

Pomona police today were examining physical evidence gathered Monday at the scene of the slaying of 78-year-old Margaret Idella Wahlberg in an attempt to identify the person who killed her.

The victim, a widow who lived alone with her pet cat at the old two-story house at 1311 Laurel Ave., was found apparently strangled and raped early Monday morning. The discovery was made by a friend, Raymond L. Decker, 66, when he arrived at the house to do some yard work for the victim.

Decker entered the house after becoming suspicious when he found a window louver on the ground and a door open. He found the victim's body, nude and bound hand and foot, on the second landing of a stairway inside the house.

Investigators said the victim had been bound with pieces of torn bedsheets and that one had been tied around her neck. They said they were not sure if she had been strangled manually or if the sheet tied around her neck choked her.

Detective Gordon Zbinden said an autopsy probably would be performed at the coroner's office today

Dead girl was raped, suffocated—autopsy

The 7-year-old girl found dead in an Industry street last Sunday morning apparently died of of suffocation and had been raped, preliminary results of the coroner's autopsy revealed Monday.

The victim was Margaret Elizabeth Madrid, of Valinda. Her body was discovered in the 1100 block of John Reed Court.

Sheriff's investigators set up road blocks Monday to stop and question persons in the neighborhood in an attempt to locate anyone who may have seen the girl before she was kidnapped.

The victim's parents did not know she was missing until Sunday when they learned that she and her sister had become separated. They believed Margaret was with her sister at the home of relatives while the sister thought she had returned to their home.

The dead girl was identified when her parents attempted to file a missing person report about her 12 hours after the body had been found.

Man dressed like woman takes $3,000 rent money

The assistant manager of a Pomona apartment building told police she was robbed of the rent money — about $3,000 — by a man in women's clothing.

The holdup occurred on W. Orange Grove Avenue. The victim, 30, said the man entered her apartment Sunday night, pulled an automatic pistol and demanded money.

She said the robber was black, wore a wig and a pink-and-white gown, was about 24 years old, weighed 150 pounds and was six feet tall. He had a mustache, beard and a deep voice, she said.

Man arrested in theft of fire extinguisher

Arrested was Eric John Konz, 18, of 2423 Vista Drive.

Being sought is a juvenile, 15 to 17 years of age, 5 feet 8 inches tall, of thin build, with straight, blond hair. He was wearing a high school athletic jacket with light sleeves, said police.

Police said a woman called the dispatcher about 10 p.m. to report two men had broken into her garage. Before police arrived, the two men managed to jump into a car and escape.

Minutes later, officers located a vehicle and arrested Konz.

TOTIE'S BACK AND LAUGHING

Comedienne Totie Fields, center, enjoys a laugh with Frank Sinatra, John Wayne and singer Helen Reddy in Los Angeles. The event was the presentation of the annual "Scopus Award" to Wayne.

Miss Fields was just released from a hospital where she underwent a mastectomy. A little over a year ago she had to have a leg amputated.

Lombardo services Wednesday

NEW YORK (AP) — Guy Lombardo, who made millions and delighted millions for half a century with his "sweetest music this side of heaven," will be buried Wednesday.

But Lombardo's brother, Victor, promised that their band, the Royal Canadians, will go on and that the tune most closely associated with the famous bandleader — "Auld Lang Syne" — will be heard again Dec. 31.

Guy Lombardo died at age 75 Saturday night at Houston's Methodist Hospital, where he had undergone heart surgery in September. His wife of 51 years, Lillibelle, was at his side.

Hospital spokesmen said death was not related to the surgery but to a breathing problem that developed later and forced Lombardo's re-hospitalization Oct. 27.

The bandleader is to be buried in the Long Island community of Farmingdale on Wednesday.

Lombardo was a resident of the Long Island community of Freeport, where he owned a restaurant. He also promoted summer spectaculars at Jones Beach. His revival of "Finian's Rainbow" there last summer grossed $1.55 million.

Victor, the youngest Lombardo brother, said the Royal Canadians would stop work Wednesday to attend the funeral, but that the band would be touring Connecticut on Thursday as "Guy Lombardo's Royal Canadians."

Guy Lombardo was an intense worker who began new ventures on stage when many others would think of retirement.

In 1969, 40 years after he first ushered in a new year for a national radio audience, Lombardo took his band to New York for its first appearance at the prestigious Carnegie Hall.

He said he got in the habit of ending each program with "Auld Lang Syne" — a practice copied by many other bandleaders in the days of big swing bands — because he started out with his first orchestra in western Ontario, which was "heavily Scottish."

The bandleader was born Gaetano Lombardo Jr., son of an immigrant Italian tailor, in London, Ontario, and was only 12 when he formed his first band with four other youngsters, including his brothers Carmen and Lebert.

The Lombardo brothers went to Cleveland in 1925. In 1927 they moved the band to Chicago.

In an era when jazz history was being made in the Windy City by Louis Armstrong, Bix Biederbecke and the like, Lombardo managed to become successful with his light, straight - melody music because it suited the dancing style of middle America.

Among the songs he made famous and profitable were "Little White Lies," "Boo Hoo," "You're Driving Me Crazy" and "Seems Like Old Times."

Lombardo once said of his success against the musical tides that "we lose 'em in their teens, but we catch 'em up later ... and when we get 'em we keep 'em."

Psychological wounds for victim

Man who held him hostage acquitted

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The scar where wire held a shotgun to his neck has faded, but mortgage executive Richard O. Hall says psychological wounds were reopened when a jury acquitted the gunman who held him hostage for 63 hours last winter.

"I'll never be the person I was ... My being taken hostage was the worst thing that ever happened to me and to my family," Hall said Monday, 17 days after Anthony Kiritsis was found innocent of kidnapping by reason of insanity.

"I accept the result," Hall, 42, said of the verdict. "But I have a great concern that society in any way would support an act of violence. I would hope nobody would have to go through what I and my family did."

He was abducted Feb. 8 and held in a booby-trapped apartment.

Kiritsis, who contended he was driven insane by the efforts of Hall's company to foreclose on a loan for 17 acres of land, faces a hearing Wednesday to determine whether he is sane and can be set free.

That possibility worries Hall.

"Of course I'm concerned," he told reporters and mortgage company employees at a news conference. "There's been a lot of trauma, there's been a lot of violence that has been demonstrated by Mr. Kiritsis.

"But my position is that I've got to go forward. I've got to live a normal life. I'm not going to hide and I'm not going to be afraid."

Hall said he plans legal action to recover on the defaulted mortgage and is also considering a civil suit against Kiritsis to recover damages for his company, which he said has lost business in the eight months since the abduction.

Hall said that next to being kidnapped, the greatest shock was that some people believed his company had been at fault.

"I very much want everyone to know that Mr. Kiritsis was not taken advantage of or cheated by any of us or our companies," Hall said.

Whatever the outcome, Kiritsis apparently will lose the property he tried to save by holding Hall hostage.

The land was deeded Monday to a trust run by Kiritsis' brother and stepbrother, with Kiritsis as the trust beneficiary.

An attorney for Kiritsis, J. Richard Kiefer, said the trustees are trying to sell the land — valued at more than $500,000 — in order to pay off the $130,000 mortgage owed Hall's firm.

If that fails, Hall said his company will foreclose.

Honolulu

Honolulu, the largest city in Hawaii, was a small village when Captain James Cook discovered the Hawaiian Islands in 1878. It is now a major destination for U.S. and Japanese tourists with 2.8 million persons staying a night or more in 1974.

Smog regulations tightened

Air pollution regulations governing industries in the South Coast Air Basin are expected to be tightened severely over the next several months.

J.A. Stuart, South Coast Air Quality Management District's executive officer, said that his staff is reviewing all regulations and industrial operations to insure the latest and best control technology is applied throughout the area.

"Our regulations are already the most stringent in the nation," Stuart said. "However, further reductions in emissions can and will be made."

He said that while all industries in the four-county district comply with existing rules, it may be possible that recent technological developments can be applied to make further significant reductions in industrial pollution. Stuart expects to propose 40 to 50 new rules and amendments during the next few months.

"If we are to accomplish our goal of attaining air quality standards in Southern California," Stuart said, "we must take advantage of all new technological breakthroughs and apply them to the district's existing control program as soon as possible."

Fall victims

The victims in seven out of every 10 fatalities from falls are elderly persons. Most of these accidents occur in the home.

S.B. County appoints two property tax appeal officers

San Bernardino County property owners scheduled to have appeals hearings on property assessments will be able to do it closer to home, thanks to action by the Board of Supervisors.

The board has authorized appointment of two assessment appeals board hearing officers. Selected were E. Dana Brooks, consultant/appraiser from San Bernardino and former five-year member of the appeals board and Robert R. Walker, retired deputy county counsel and former assessment appeals legal advisor to the Board of Supervisors.

Brooks and Walker will conduct hearings at various locations in the County during December, according to Assessor Robert J. Herbin.

The schedule includes Ontario on Dec. 12, 13, and 14, all at 9:30 a.m.

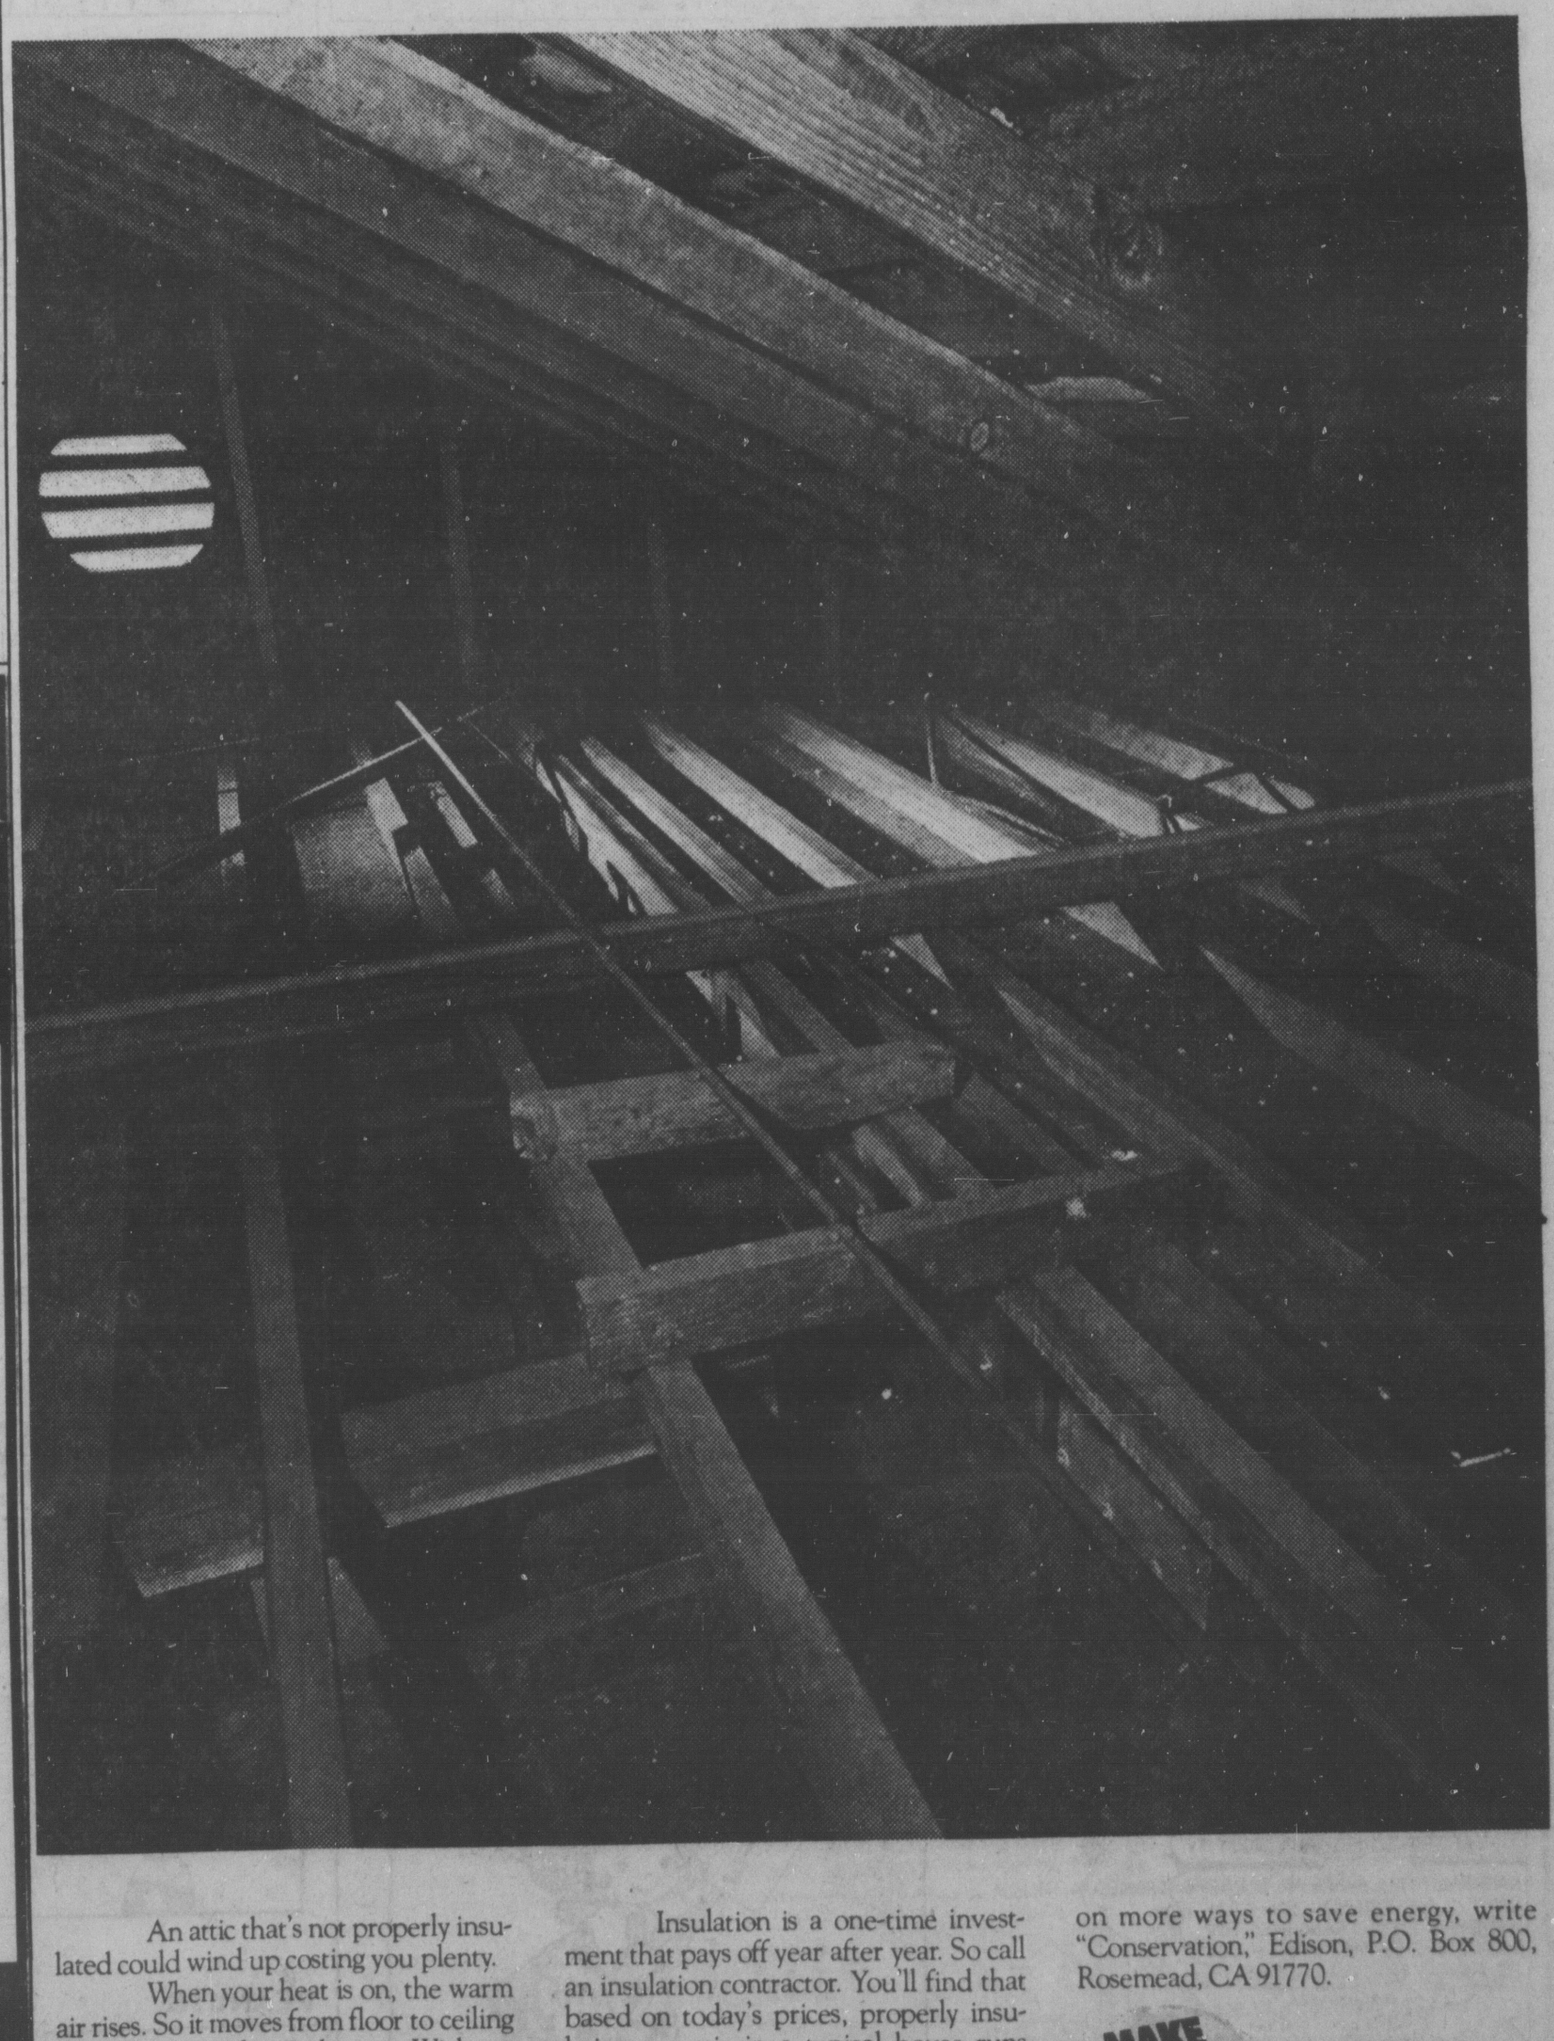
Without insulation this could be the most expensive room in your house.



An attic that's not properly insulated could wind up costing you plenty.

When your heat is on, the warm air rises. So it moves from floor to ceiling in the rooms of your house. Without adequate insulation, the heat can pass through your ceiling into your attic. This waste of heat causes your heating system to work longer and harder. That could cost you money.

By insulating, or increasing the amount of insulation in your attic, you can cut your heating costs up to 40%.

Insulation is a one-time investment that pays off year after year. So call an insulation contractor. You'll find that based on today's prices, properly insulating an attic in a typical house runs between $200 and $300. And what better place to invest your money than in your own home?

You can also look forward to saving up to 40% on your cooling cost in the summer, when it's your air conditioner's turn to go to work.

Probably you have noticed the ridges on the rims of United States dimes and quarters. The ridges were originally put there to prevent people from trimming the edges of the coins.

At one time, coins were made of silver and gold. Each coin had a certain size and was given a certain value, depending on the amount of gold or silver it contained. Silver dimes, for instance, contained 10 cents' worth of silver.

People sometimes cheated by trimming a little gold or silver off the edges of the coins. This lowered the coins' value.

To prevent this, coinmakers began making coins with "milled" edges -- edges that were raised or grooved so that it was easy to see when a coin had been trimmed.

Today coins are made of less valuable metals. But coinmakers still put ridges on coins because people are used to seeing them that way.

Half dollars and "silver" dollars have ridges for the same reason.

Christmas mail

The first suggested Christmas mail deadlines are fast approaching, particularly for mail to military personnel.

Today is the recommended date for parcel airlift (PAL) mail to Armed Forces in the Middle East. Friday is the date for surface parcels to Armed Forces in Africa, Australia, Central and South America, Europe, Far East and Southeast Asia, and for Space Available Mail (SAM) parcels to Armed Forces in Africa, Australia, Central and South America and Southeast Asia.

At the same time an embargo remains in effect for all civilian surface mail to Europe, including the Soviet Union, Greenland, Iceland, Africa, South and Central America, the Caribbean Islands, Puerto Rico and the Middle East.

Airmail service to those countries is available but surface mail will not be accepted.

Tumbling class

The La Verne Recreation Department will sponsor a stunts and tumbling class for boys and girls 6 to 14 years of age starting Nov. 28 from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Classes will run 6 weeks and the fee is $9. The instructor is Lori Blackwell.

PTA luncheon

The PTA at Sycamore Elementary School in Upland will hold its second annual benefit fashion show Saturday at 11:30 a.m. at La Villa Guasti, behind Brookside Winery in Guasti.

Proceeds will benefit the school.

Fashions shown will be hand made or from J.C. Penney's of Montclair Plaza. A luncheon of ham, roast beef, salads, cheese, rolls, coffee and punch will be served, along with wine. Tickets are $6 for adults and $3 for children and may be reserved by calling Carol Gideon at 985-8332 or Rose Brim at 987-3436.

Winter-spring program

Ontario library director Jim Housel said the annual "Winter-Spring Program" of the library will begin Thursday and continue through April 30.

A variety of activities will be featured for all age groups, from children to senior citizens. All programs are free and registration is not required.

Belly dancing

The West End YMCA will sponsor Oriental belly dancing from 7 to 9 p.m. on Mondays with Domita Jo Winsor as the instructor.

The lessons will be held at the YMCA, 215 W. C St., Ontario. Further information is available by calling the YMCA, 986-5847.

Back to school

Parents will be sitting in for their children Nov. 16 when they attend Rowland High School for the annual "back to school" night.

After a brief meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the school gym where Principal Tom Aney and other district personnel will make introductory remarks, parents will follow their children's class schedules for seven, 10-minute periods.

After the class visits, refreshments will be served in the school's multipurpose room where parents and teachers can visit informally until 10 p.m.

Alumni and interested members of the community will be welcome.

Subcontractors meeting

A subcontractor rights rally and dinner meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m., Friday, Nov. 18, at the Holiday Inn, 3223 E. Garvey, West Covina.

The purpose will be to generate support for the "Subcontractor Bill of Rights," a legislative package introduced by Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-Gardena, to protect subcontractor rights in contractual and financial dealings with prime contractors.

Construction industry leaders from the subcontractor ranks will speak at the rally, and the four bills introduced by Sen. Dills will be reviewed and discussed.

Reservations are requested. For additional information, persons may call the California Committee for Subcontractor Rights at (213) 467-1159.

CPR class

Mt. San Antonio College will hold a nine-hour class on cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) Nov. 21, 22 and 23 from 7 to 10 p.m.

Registration will be completed in class at the first meeting in building 26D, room 306.

Lecture, demonstrations and films will be used to show CPR students the proper techniques used in the resuscitation of an adult or a child and the different methods used by one and two resuscitators.

Students completing the program will earn a certificate of proficiency in basic life support.

Course for nurses

San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland is offering a 10-hour course entitled "Drug Alert for Nurses," starting Friday.

It will meet Tuesdays from 4 to 6 p.m. in Aita Auditorium. The course fee is $30.

Instructor for the class will be Pam Gustafson, San Antonio Community Hospital pharmacist and graduate of USC.

Farm speaker

Allan Grant, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, will speak at Cal Poly Pomona Monday, Nov. 28, concerning the farm cost price squeeze. The 2.5 million member federation is the largest farm organization in the U.S.

Grant, 71, will be the second featured speaker in a series of mini-conferences coordinated by the school of agriculture. In addition to the cost-price squeeze, Grant will discuss the provisions of the new farm bill and the short-run outlook for American agriculture.

Persons are invited to attend the 90-minute program which begins at 10 a.m. in the University Union. A no-host luncheon will follow at the Kellogg West Center for Continuing Education.

For further information, persons may phone the university at 598-4122.

Seminar faculty

Seven valley attorneys are listed as seminar faculty members for the California Trial Lawyers Association's San Francisco Convention.

Speakers for the 25 instructional seminars include 151 lawyers, 12 judges, four elected officials and 12 representatives from various fields.

Valley attorneys include George D. Thompson and Raymond Youngquist of Pomona; Stephen Odgers, James Pennington, William Shernoff and Stephen I. Zettenberg of Claremont; and Robert Beloud of Upland.

S.B. County affirmative action program starts

San Bernardino County has started implementing its new affirmative action contract compliance program which specifies that federal contractors may not discriminate against employees or job applicants on the base of race, color, religion, sex or national origin.

An estimated 1,000 letters have been sent to contractors, vendors and others doing business with the county advising them of the new requirements. Those seeking to do business with the county in excess of $10,000 per year must demonstrate an employment and recuritment program aimed at improving work opportunities for women and minorities.

Contractors and vendors will be expected to demonstrate good faith efforts to employ minorities and women at a rate consistent with their respective percentages of the work force. In San Bernardino County, the figures are 19.6 percent for minorities and 36.9 percent for women.

Those bidding for county assignments whose principal place of business is outside the area will be expected to demonstrate efforts to conform to those ratios which apply at their main location.

To implement its new program, the County Administrative Office has established a contract compliance unit within its personnel department. The coordinators are George T. Fitzgerald, who will specialize in construction contracts; Carla E. Triemer, specializing in vendor, lessor and services programs and Patricia Igbokwe, specializing in public works grants.

The Office of Federal Contract Compliance has overall responsibility for the enforcement, said Martin E. Nelson, assistant administrative officer for personnel.

Questions relating to the new compliance program should be directed to the contract compliance unit at 157 W. Fifth St., San Bernardino, 92415.

Tempest in bureaucratic teapot

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's a tempest brewing in one of the teapots of the bureaucracy, and it is worth noting for what it says about the government President Carter is trying to reorganize.

The new boss of the Federal Communications Commission has decided that the agency should be open until 5:30 p.m. each day, so that its hours will coincide at least roughly with those of the people who have business there.

That hardly seemed revolutionary to FCC Chairman Charles D. Ferris, who figured that there should be people around to answer the telephone after 4:30 in the afternoon.

Effective on Nov. 14, there will be.

But not without a hassle, since that means a change in working hours for many of the 1,500 people who work at the commission.

After days of grumbling, a delegation from the Employee Representation Board spent 90 minutes with Ferris last Wednesday, complaining about the change. They told him that an employee survey showed overwhelming opposition to the shift in working hours.

He told them that the agency is supposed to serve the public, even if it is inconvenient.

As Ferris put it in a thoroughly bureaucratic memo, he wants FCC hours "to interface with the business, professional and consumer communities we are charged by law to work with, and thus to provide better services to them ... "

In other words, he figures there ought to be somebody around to take calls and transact business after 4:30 in the afternoon. Under the current schedule, there's no answer at the FCC switchboard after that hour.

There are employee complaints that the change will foul up carpools, make it harder to find parking places and disrupt child care arrangements. One woman complained she'd miss her favorite television program if she had to work until 5:30.

Actually, she may be able to tune in anyhow. FCC employees have an hour's leeway on starting times, under a flexible time arrangement. So a good many of them will be able to stick to the 8-4:30 timetable if they want, and if their supervisors approve. And Ferris has told his section chiefs that they should make adjustments wherever they can to accommodate the needs of the employees.

Ferris doesn't set the hours alone; the commission does that. But after 13 years as a top aide to Senate and then House Democratic leaders, he knows enough to count votes in advance. He got approval from a commission majority before he ordered the change.

He's still surprised at all the fuss over what seemed to him a logical move. "Our own convenience isn't our primary reason for being here," he said.

And that gets to the point.

No reorganization of agencies is going to end public disenchantment with government. If the new office is no more responsive than the old ones, the citizens who have to deal with it will be no less frustrated than they are now.

Politicians are always talking about responsive government, and the officials they appoint echo that promise. But if the promise is to be kept, it has to be done by people far down the line, in rank and in salary.

Carter can't make the government responsive just by saying so. Nor can Ferris do so at the FCC by keeping the place open an hour later. But it is a start.

See 7% hike in eatery prices

NEW YORK (AP) — Whether your taste runs to a burger on a bun or pheasant under glass, you'll pay more for eating out in 1978, but the rate of increase won't be quite as steep as it was this year, the National Restaurant Association said Monday.

Louis Boochever, the trade group's chief economist, predicted that restaurant prices, including alcoholic beverages, will rise 7 percent next year — about half a percentage point less than the boost estimated by the association for 1977.

The federal Consumer Price Index shows the cost of food away from home — not counting liquor — rose 6.7 per cent from December 1976 to September 1977. The cost of food at home went up 7.2 per cent in the same period, which is the latest for which the federal government has provided figures.

It is difficult to talk about typical restaurant bills since costs vary so widely with the type of establishment and meal. A March 1976 study by the restaurant group showed that the average restaurant check for dinner was just under $3 per person. Another study showed that the average check per person at a table service restaurant in 1976 was just under $5.

Boochever said at a news conference here that sales in the food service industry — which covers all types of restaurants as well as institutional feeding operations like those in the military — will total $93.7 billion in 1978, up 9.1 percent from this year's estimated $85.9 billion.

Boochever did not break down the menu price increase according to type of restaurant. He said the rise would be due to an 11 percent increase in labor costs, a 4 percent hike in food prices and a 6.5 percent jump in other expenses, including energy bills.

Consumers now spend 36½ percent of every food dollar eating out. The figure is expected to rise to 40 percent by the early 1980s and Boochever said he saw "the potential for a 50 percent share by the end of that decade."

So-called "limited menu establishments" — mainly the fast-food outlets — continue to account for much of the increase. They now account for just over one-third of all food industry sales and total sales are expected to grow 12.1 percent next year.

The economist said his predictions reflected the impact of the increase in the minimum wage, effective Jan. 1. The figures do not, however, take into account what would happen if tax deductions for business lunches are cut in half. Cutting the tax deduction has been mentioned by the Carter administration as a possible part of the president's overall tax reform bill.

Voters go to the polls to decide water and city issues

Turnout reported heavy in tri-communities

By CONRAD CASLER
PB Staff Writer

Clear skies, drought and a hotly contested city incorporation ballot issue drew thousands of valley residents to polls today.

Heaviest turnout was in the tri-communities area of Alta Loma, Cucamonga and Etiwanda where more than 13,000 voters are eligible to cast ballots in the issue of incorporating into the city of Rancho Cucamonga.

All 39 polling places within the area reported heavier than usual turnouts during early morning hours.

Meanwhile, voters in Los Angeles County were voting on a $26 million bond issue for new Pomona Valley Municipal Water District facilities which would pipe Northern California water into the area.

During an election less than two years ago on a similar ballot proposal, less than 17 percent of the eligible 130,000 voters cast a ballot.

But Stan Kawa, PVMWD general manager, said today that good weather plus more public knowledge and awareness of California's drought crisis could boost the percentage to 25 to 35 percent of eligible voters casting ballots this time.

Kawa said a heavy vote probably would benefit PVMWD while a light turnout would favor those opposing the issue.

Major opposition to the bond issue in both elections has come from Pomona Valley and San Gabriel Valley chapters of the League of Women Voters which successfully killed the proposal last election.

Spearheaded by Claremont's chapter, league members said again this election they believe the issue will be defeated.

A recent poll indicated Alta Loma residents were not in favor of incorporation. But there were almost 30 percent in the poll who indicated they were undecided. Residents of Cucamonga and Etiwanda slightly favor incorporation but both communities have a large undecided electorate, according to the poll.

At the Carnelian School poll today, Alta Loman Walter Novak was first in line to vote almost 10 minutes before the polls opened at 7 a.m. He said he was voting against the issue.

Five other Alta Loma residents were lined up behind Novak when voting began. Chief inspector Dorothy Kneuer, a long-time poll worker, said it was one of the heaviest turnouts she has seen.

In addition to the tri-communities and PVMWD elections, voters in Montclair are voting for directors to serve on their county water district and Walnut Valley voters are balloting for a similar director on the Walnut Valley Water District Board. Both of those elections are expected to draw less than a 20 percent turnout.

Pomona chief reports

Special police team working well

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Police Chief Richard Slaght Monday night reported to the Pomona City Council some encouraging figures on his Major Crimes Task Force and its achievements since April 1.

The task force, composed of 10 of the department's most experienced men, was intended to attack violent crime in the city through "selective enforcement."

Slaght had said he hoped the unit would prevent any increase in violent crime within the next six months, achieve a reduction of 5 percent after one year, and a 10 percent reduction after two years.

Slaght reported Monday night the city had experienced only an .8 percent increase in violent crimes since April 1.

As to another goal set in April — a 5 percent increase in the number of arrests for violent crimes by the end of the first year — Slaght reported a 32 percent increase in the number of major crime arrests.

Slaght said his task force of a sergeant, a senior patrol officer and eight patrolmen used a high profile in the area of street gang problems, that plainclothes officers were used at prime robbery locations, and that they aided detectives in follow-up cases.

He said that the unit has been flexible, and on 20 occasions had their hours changed since April.

He reported that since April 1, 87 persons have been arrested for felony crimes and 157 for misdemeanors.

He also reported the decrease of 3.6 percent in all major crimes which include homicides, robberies, felonious assaults and rapes.

Slaght said the task force will continue to use traditional techniques and procedures.

He said the task force members may be converted to a team police unit.

"Hopefully, we will be able to initiate a crime prevention program," he said.

"I feel the task force in its function has done a competent job," Slaght said.

Slaght explained the team unit as working in a typical area with citizen groups.

As to the street gang problem, Slaght said, "We feel we are moving ahead in this particular area — until a problem pops up."

"We have an officer in our department who is well respected and has good rapport with the youths in the gang areas," he said.

"You can't determine where or when a gang problem will erupt: a wedding or a dance," he said.

Slaght said it is incumbent upon each citizen and each mother and father in controlling the activities of their children as well as it is the police officer's duty.

Referring to a remark by Mayor Charles Bader about gang warfare raging, Slaght said that he doesn't believe it is raging.

He said that Pomona is working with other communities who have similar gang problems.

Bader asked Slaght for written suggestions for improvements in the juvenile justice system.

"We could draw up a resolution to the state Legislature and go on record as urging changes," Bader said.

"Sitting back and shrugging our shoulders isn't enough as far as we are concerned," he said. "I'm not saying that you should lobby to get laws changed, but the council should."

Ontario council OKs City Hall and Civic Center site contracts

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

The Ontario City Council Monday awarded two contracts totaling $3,998,000 for construction of the new City Hall and on-site improvements for the Civic Center.

In awarding the bid to Berry Construction Co. of Upland as the lowest responsible bid, the council also approved a program of spending for the new complex within this fiscal year.

Council members voiced some dismay and concern about the sharp rise in the total construction, on-site and off-site costs. This has gone from an estimated $3.3 million last fall to $5,054,000 now.

John Porter, assistant city manager, attributed the increase to a number of factors including the timing, escalating costs due to inflationary rises from month to month, the construction boom in Southern California, the radical change in material costs, the delays in not getting in the first phase of funding under the Public Works Act and the conflict with the Ontario-Montclair School District on priority projects for the second funding stage; and the change in the funding criteria on the federal grant projects from a project to an allocation basis.

Porter also reported the lowest bidder — C.V. Holder Inc. of Gardenia at $3,875,000 — did not meet the Economic Development Administration requirement of 10 percent of the total federal grant going to minority contractors and suppliers. The federal grant of $2,258,000 requires $225,800 being allocated to minorities. The Holder bid fell $8,350 short. The difference cost the city about $123,000, according to Porter.

The total difference between the estimated costs and figures presented Monday is $1,753,000.

The Berry bid showed $3,388,000 for construction of the City Hall and $610,000 for on-site improvements to include landscaping, lighting, parking lots, walkways and a center pedestrian mall.

The council juggled allocations from local budgets for the 1977-78 funding sources. The total of $1,836,000 will be gleaned from the general fund, $700,000; revenue sharing, $500,000; capital improvement fund, $230,000; gas tax fund, $64,000; storm drain reserve fund, $210,000; water facility fund, $106,000; and sewer revolving fund, $26,000.

The local contribution plus the federal grant show a total of $4,094,000 for the 1977-78 Civic Center costs.

An estimated $960,000 is anticipated to cover 1978-79 costs with sources including the general fund, revenue sharing and capital improvement fund. The respective contributions from these three funds are $600,000, $160,000 and $200,000.

These estimates, according to finance director A.C. Gabriel, are "the best thinking that we have at this point in time, but the source of funding may change as we get closer to the end of the 1977-78 fiscal year."

Plans to build a second high school in the fast-growing Alta Loma-Cucamonga-Etiwanda area moved a step closer to reality Monday night.

Trustees of the Chaffey Joint Union High School District indicated they will ask voters to approve a bond issue on March 7 to construct the much-needed school.

On a 3-1 vote, board members ordered administrators to draw up a resolution calling for the election. The resolution would have to be approved by trustees by Dec. 16.

The proposal to seek funds for a new high school in the tri-communities area to relieve overcrowding at Alta Loma High School had been recommended by a board-appointed citizens committee.

Trustees, acting on a recommendation from Supt. Mike Dirksen, indicated they also would seek funds for classroom improvements at Chaffey High School in Ontario on the same bond issue. The proposal calls for sound-proofing, heating and air conditioning of North and South halls.

Dirksen, however, did not recommend including in the bond proposal remodeling of physical education facilities at Chaffey High. The remodeling had been suggested by the citizens committee, but Dirksen earlier had disagreed with the panel. He said remodeling was not enough and new facilities should be built.

Several other proposals such as a new classroom building at Alta Loma High and transportation and warehouse facilities at the Valley View site also were not included in the bond proposal. Dirksen said he only wanted the measure to contain "top priority" items.

Estimated cost for a 2,500-student capacity high school in the tri-communities would be $17.5 million, according to Dirksen. Renovation of the Chaffey classroom buildings would cost about $1.2 million, he added.

Trustees noted they would seek approval of a lease-purchase bond measure since it would require a majority rather than two-thirds voter approval.

Board members, however, will not finalize the bond measure until next month, and it was clear there could be some changes.

Trustee Ray Sarrio, who voted against drawing up a resolution calling for the election, said he wanted to "sample the electorate" prior to the balloting. He suggested hiring a consultant to poll the community as soon as possible.

Three other trustees — Martha Chapman, chairman Adrian Chalfant and Charles Uhalley — seemed happy with the resolution as recommended by Dirksen. Trustee Jack Carnine was absent.

Sarrio said he wanted to ask local residents what they felt should be included in the bond measure. He added that he was unsure whether the Chaffey High renovations should be on the ballot or not.

"I feel anything other than the new high school on the ballot may detract from its passage," Sarrio explained. "I don't want anything in there that will muddy the waters."

Trustees finally asked Dirksen to investigate hiring a consultant to take a poll of residents after Sarrio pushed strongly for it.

Sarrio exchanged angry words with Mrs. Chapman at one point in the discussion. Mrs. Chapman moved to order drawing up the resolution, but Sarrio continued arguing for the consultant.

Sarrio complained he was being "cut off" from making his point, and cautioned Mrs. Chapman not to be "ridiculous or foolish."

Mrs. Chapman made it clear she disagreed with Sarrio.

Other board members, including Mrs. Chapman, did not want to add any more items to the bon proposal. Sarrio indicated he was not happy with previous efforts to sample the electorate by the citizens committee.

In related action, trustees approved the hiring of Harnish, Morgan and Causey, architects, for services related to the projects; and Stone and Youngberg, bond consultants, for services estimated to cost $12,500.

Subdividers offer $4 million for La Verne water improvements

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

More than a dozen subdividers who want to build homes in La Verne have agreed to pay nearly $4 million to make sure the new residents have sufficient water.

By their action, the developers relieved the city of the cost and responsibility of installing distribution systems in areas which don't have any water right now.

Developer Everett Hughes, a spokesman for the group, said that to his knowledge the agreement was unique through the state.

"I don't know of any community in California that has this kind of an arrangement with the subdividers," Hughes claimed.

For its own part, the city agreed to lift moratoriums on construction imposed three months ago on North La Verne because of the danger of running out of water.

When Hughes said the developers were prepared to pay cash to build a reservoir and other appurtenances in pressure Zone 2, the strip between Foothill Bouelvard and Base Line Road, the council passed an urgency ordinance removing the freeze on construction in that area.

Kenneth I. Mullen, the city's water consultant, said moratoriums in other areas, particularly on the north side of the city, will be removed as the developers pay for the necessary reservoirs and distribution systems in those districts.

The council was elated with the agreement, first proposed by the developers three weeks ago. The council had wanted to continue the freeze on construction indefinitely, but the developers made the counterproposal because La Verne was "one of the few remaining places in Los Angeles County where homes were still selling well."

Under the agreement, the city will set up assessment districts in sections of the city indicating the prorated shares of the cost of bringing water to those areas. Then, as those areas are developed, the subdividers would pay those costs and then charge them against the price of the new homes.

No one who already has a home in the city will have to pay for any part of the new distribution system.

Hughes told the council that 75 percent of all the developers and owners involved already have signed the agreement, even though the proposal was completed only a few days ago.

He said within the next week he expected to have 100 percent participation.

Montclair approves rating system for new developers

To assure quality residential developments within the city of Montclair, the City Council Monday agreed to allow the staff to prepare a rating system on applications for development.

The City Council took a four-part action following a report by planning associate Fred Alley on the background and present status of the sewage allocations for Montclair and other West End communities served by regional sewage plant one of the Chino Basin Municipal Water District (CBMWD).

Alley explained the point-rating system would allow Montclair "to secure the type of developments which is most beneficial to the community. The system would be used to determine the order in which applications shall be accepted and processed, providing that future sewage treatment capacity is available."

The system of evaluation would consider consistency with the general plan and specific plan requirements, location, environmental and aesthetic qualities, social balance, project readiness, date of application and other miscellaneous factors.

The council further directed staff to continue the policy of not accepting formal applications, fees and plans for any residential development until additional sewage treatment capacity is available; accepted and concurred with the final percentage distribution on the regional multiple unit residential pool; and reserved the remaining 118 single family units and 34 multiple units for the use of existing developed and vacant lots within the current city boundaries.

Several months ago, in an effort to avoid citing by the Santa Ana Regional Water Quality Control Board for violation of water quality standards and to avert an increase in the problem of sewage capacity falling short of approved residential building permits, the West End cities and San Bernardino County agreed to an allocation formula.

The region agreed on a growth policy that would restrict future sewage flows by accepting only those tracts guaranteed sewage capacity by CBMWD, Alley said.

$10 million bond election to be considered in Walnut

The Walnut Valley school board Monday requested the district staff to include on its next meeting agenda proposals to call for a $10 million school bond election next March.

The proposal will also ask voters to approve a $22 million state school building loan to finance capital improvements in the rapidly growing district over the next five years.

The board made the request following reports from district staff detailing projected increases in the district's assessed valuation over the next three years and the amount of money the district will need to show in bonds for itself to qualify for the state building loans.

Architect William Davis told the board that capital improvements in the district to be completed over the next five years will cost $36 million. These would include development of the first and second phases of the Diamond Bar high school, four elementary schools, a 10,000-square foot addition to Walnut High School, the first phase of the district administration facility and the acquisition of three additional elementary school sites.

The district already has about $3 million in unused bonds which, when combined with the $10.7 million bond issue slated for a decision at the next meeting, leaves a gap of about $22 million to be filled in by the state loan program.

To each his own

President Carter may be taking the good neighbor policy a step too far in offering to store in the United States nuclear wastes from foreign power plants.

It is one thing for the federal government to dispose of nuclear wastes from American power plants, as the president offered to do the other day.

It is something else to extend that offer to foreign countries, which should be developing dumping grounds of their own for radioactive wastes.

President Carter obviously is worried that other countries will convert spent uranium into bomb-grade plutonium and thereby increase the danger of nuclear war. But turning the United States into a fuel dump for the world is an unusual way to protect American interests.

To be honest about it, the United States has yet to come up with a really satisfactory arrangement for disposing of radioactive materials. Much of the stuff is stored near the 65 nuclear plants now operating in this country. And about two-thirds of these plants will have to build new storage facilities unless the government takes over that responsibility.

Federal energy experts are studying rock and salt formations in 36 states this year and expect to recommend six regional burial sites. But some congressmen already are clamoring for state "veto" power over where the sites are located — which is a sure-fire way to kill the program entirely.

If, as the president says, he wants to encourage nuclear power by giving nuclear plants a place to bury their wastes, he should insist that all parts of the country share the risk. This makes more sense, from a safety and security point of view, than shipping nuclear wastes hundreds or even thousands of miles to a single super-dump in some western or southwestern state.

Chris stopped too soon

Having put that dangerous capitalist reactionary, Ludwig van Beethoven, in his place a couple of years ago, the Communist Chinese have now debunked Christopher Columbus.

The discoverer of America was nothing but a money-seeking opportunist, claims the lengthy article in the official periodical, Historical Research, whose title minces no words: "Columbus the Colonialist Pirate."

Not only was Columbus not the first explorer to visit America, says the article, he refused to believe that what he had stumbled on was not part of the Asian continent, so intent was he on invading and plundering China.

Well, we're sorry the Chinese can still get mad about that after nearly 500 years. But not to jeopardize Sino-American relations, we feel compelled to say that it's really too bad Columbus didn't discover a shorter route to China after all.

Although the Spanish possessed thundersticks, which were a crude development of an old Chinese invention, Chinese civilization of the 15th century would have been more than a match for any would-be plunderers from the West.

"Discovery" by Columbus might well have opened up China to the outside world four centuries before Europeans with much more sophisticated thundersticks did so and spared the Chinese immense suffering and turmoil.

Might even, perhaps, have spared the world from Chinese Communist reinterpretations of historical figures.

Scrapping paperwork

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall has taken a first step toward undoing some of the damage done by cumbersome government regulation of private pension plans.

Marshall is easing up on the red tape so companies don't have to file so many forms or send so many time-consuming reports to Washington under the pension reform law passed by Congress three years ago.

Basically, the reform was a good idea. It protected the pension benefits of 30 million workers. But the Labor Department imposed so much paperwork on private pension plans that even large corporations have been asking for relief. Some smaller companies simply are phasing out their plans rather than pay the added costs.

It's good to know that Secretary Marshall can recognize a bureaucratic maze and that he will try to do something about it.

Fly the flag on Friday

Dear Editor:

It was satisfying and encouraging news in the Progress Bulletin on Oct. 24 that on Nov. 11, 1978 all 50 states will observe Armistice Day, sometimes termed Veterans Day.

How well I remember as a junior in Carlsbad, N.M. High School. At 11 a.m. on Nov. 11, 1918 the whistles blew, the bells rang, school was dismissed, the town band assembled, flags waved, people cheered, and a parade soon began moving to the city park where stirring speeches were heard.

Such a glorious feeling to know that soon the boys would be marching home to the tune of "Over There, Over There." Yes, we had knitted socks, helmets, sweaters, etc. We had kept the home fires burning.

To honor these men, Armistice Day was declared on Nov. 11, 1919. In 1968 Congress began moving holidays around to provide more three day weekends. In 1971 Armistice Day was changed to the fourth weekend in October. This meant confusion.

Let's all get our flags out on Nov. 11 and all other main holidays. Do you see the flags on Holt and Garey avenues seven holidays a year? Did you know that the churches, organizations, business people, and individuals donated those flags, 266 of them and we hope for 300 in all. Did you know that the Kiwanis Club of Greater Pomona puts up those flags? Did you know that the Jaycees gave 55 flags? Do you know about the Avenue of Flags Committee which has sponsored this flag program. Aren't you glad you live in the United States under the protection of the Stars and Stripes? I am.

Agency fiddles, America burns

WASHINGTON — Across America, homes are going up in flames while a government agency fiddles. The federal Nero is the Consumer Product Safety Commission, which has ignored fire hazard warnings for four years.

The Commerce Department has tried since 1973 to get the commission to adopt safety standards for flammable upholstered furniture. "We don't like to say the commission is killing people," a Commerce official told our reporter Valerie Strauss, "but the fact is that safety standards could save up to 1,500 people a year."

In a recent memo, Commerce officials warned tersely: "Upholstered furniture is the first item ignited in 106,000 fires yearly." They added that "43 percent of the injured victims die."

Furniture industry officials have met with the safety commission at least 28 times, meanwhile, arguing that it would cost $1 billion to make upholstery less flammable. Government calculations indicate it would cost closer to $127 million.

The commission continued to stall this year until Commerce official Howard Tipton fired off a private letter to Chairman John Byington, urging him to "proceed with the formal rulemaking process."

In September, the commission finally voted that a mandatory standard for upholstered furniture was needed. But Byington voted against the standard, arguing it was too complicated and imposed too large a burden on small businesses.

It is an unwritten doctrine of government that an unwanted decision will go away if it is studied long enough. The commission after four years of dawdling has now ordered another study.

Footnote: A spokesman said the commission had waited for the furniture makers to act voluntarily but is now weighing the impact of mandatory safety regulations. The staff hopes to have recommendations ready by next April, he said.

Meanwhile, Sen. Wendell Ford, D-Ky., has scolded Byington for failing to act against hazardous home insulation. Many people are turning to cellulose insulation for their homes in response to President Carter's plea to conserve energy. But although the cellulose material can catch fire unless it is treated with a proper amount of flame retardant, the commission is not expected to act for another year.

HOFFA STORY — On Bobby Baker's first night in prison, he heard a voice calling: "Baker, Baker." The irrepressible former Senate aide, once a confidante of the high and mighty, arrived at Lewisburg Federal Penitentiary on January 14, 1971, to begin a tax evasion sentence.

The voice in the night whispered this message: "Jimmy Hoffa said to meet him tomorrow morning in the northwest corner at his table for breakfast."

Baker approached the Hoffa table next morning. The imprisoned union leader was surrounded by a dozen of the meanest looking cons in the prison. They drifted away as Baker settled beside Hoffa. The two men, both brought down from the pinnacles of power, sat eyeball to eyeball over a prison breakfast.

They had met only once previously. "Bobby," Hoffa began, "we've got a lot of mutual friends." He warned that Baker, once a top aide to Lyndon Johnson, represented "the establishment."

There are "at least 150 men" here, said Hoffa, who will be confined for the rest of their lives. They have nothing more to lose. They would love the publicity of "killing you," he told Baker.

"I want everyone to know you're my friend," Hoffa added. It was obvious that he had as much clout in the prison as he did in the Teamsters Union. His blessing, therefore, was a protective mantle. "You've got to watch your ass in this place," was Hoffa's parting advice.

Baker believes Hoffa may have saved his life. The incident will lead off the book Baker is writing about his controversial career in and out of government. He intends to call it "Child of the Senate."

Footnote: The crack investigative reporter, Lester Velie, reports that Hoffa had a stormy relationship with the Mafia. In his new book, "Why Jimmy Hoffa Had to Die," Velie claims Hoffa was first condemned to death by the Mafia at age 19.

As Velie recounts it, Hoffa used the Purple Gang, a Mafia rival, to protect his embryonic Teamsters organization. Furious, the Mafia held a "trial" and ordered a contract on young Hoffa. But the quick-witted labor organizer convinced the Mafia bosses that they would be better off dealing with him than dealing him out.

He maintained close ties with the Mafia but usually managed to outrage them. In 1966, angry Mafia men let Hoffa off again after another "trial." But in 1975, Velie said, the Mafia held another trial and carried out the death sentence.

BOYD BOWS OUT — We recently reported that Robert Boyd, chief administrative law judge for the National Transportation Safety Board, operates his private business affairs out of his government office.

Immediately after the column appeared, the board began an investigation of the allegations. Some of the charges have already been verified. Transportation officials will submit the findings to the Civil Service Commission.

Meanwhile, Boyd has voluntarily stepped down as chief judge but will remain an associate judge, pending the outcome of the investigation.

Our Man in Washington

Will taxes engulf us all?

By TERRY WADE
PB Washington Writer

WASHINGTON — Where will it all end?

Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, in a 1904 court case, proclaimed, "Taxes are what we pay for civilized society."

That was before income tax, Social Security, gasoline taxes, etc., etc.

If Holmes were alive today, one might ask that great statesman and scholar, what price is too high for civilized society?

Or one might wonder what society was like during the early 1900s if the measurement of civilization is by tax dollars. For by that measure they must have been barbarians and we the quintessential civilized society.

In an age when we are taxed for the food we buy, the fuel for our homes, the income we earn, the clothing we wear and an infinite number of other necessities, luxuries and incidentals, it is indeed difficult to appreciate the escalated cost of civilized society.

If in fact we could see a discernible change in the quality of our civilization with each tax increase, perhaps the loss of personal income would be less painful. But the sad truth is, the quality does not seem to improve an iota.

Yet the taxes continue to go up. Where will it all end?

Even as our president hinted at a $17 billion tax cut, he and his congressional colleagues were pushing through the House the largest peacetime tax increase in history.

No it wasn't a direct tax like an income tax, rather it was that sacred levy — Social Security.

Anyone who even suggests Social Security is unjust or unequal, or anything bad at all, risks the wrath of millions, but this latest tax increase epitomizes the problems with the system we have.

There is no doubt that the Social Security system is in dire need of help. Experts are predicting a lack of funds well before most Americans, who will have paid in all their lives, will have an opportunity to take out.

The problem is the system is archaic and if allowed to, will eventually weigh the wage-earning American down with such a heavy tax it could well be the lot of some future Supreme Court justice to sadly explain, "it was the tax that buried civilized society."

Under the House-passed bill, wage earners would face a 21 percent increase in Social Security taxes, if they earn $10,000 per year, by 1987, compared to a 10 percent increase without the change.

We can no longer survive, it seems, without some sort of government-guaranteed retirement system (which is what Social Security has become), but this question begs an answer — where will it all end?

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

Now we can add a "Walk for Hunger," a "Hold Hands for Love" and a "Stay Awake For Charity" to the long list of promotions designed to raise funds for worthy causes. But since similar events have been taking place so often lately, I am beginning to fear the good folks who sponsor such money-raising programs will eventually run out of novel-sounding titles for their efforts. So, to help forestall such an unfortunate situation and to make certain there will always be a worthy promotion available for sweet charity's sake, I now submit a few suggestions for future fund-raising campaigns.

Why not a "Jog for Justice" or an "Eat-a-Thon for Equal Rights?" Then we could "Bicycle for Beriberi" and "Dance for Dysentery." While we are at it, why not "Sing for Sciatica" and do a bit of "Non-Stop Showering for the Heartbreak of Psoriasis"? And finally, since medical science hasn't as yet come up with a cure, why not raise funds for necessary research by setting aside a day to "Curse the Common Cold"?

Part time governor

By EARL G. WATERS

The prospects of California having only a part-time governor for the next three years gives pause to wonder whatever happened to that "dedicated" young man the people elected three years ago.

That was the fellow who was "too busy" to take out-of-state trips, or even travel in-state to attend political party affairs, let alone business and labor conventions. Shunning limousines and other trappings of high office, he conjured up the image of a "non-politician" and had most everyone buzzing about how "refreshingly different" he was. Rejecting all invitations to ceremonial and political functions on grounds the duties of his job left no time for nonsense, his first 15 months were indeed different.

But it was all too good to be true and it wasn't long before the sham was exposed. It came brashly as most things do with Jerry. On what appeared to be a spur-of-the-moment decision he leaped into the limelight as a presidential candidate and, shucking all pretense of busy work at home, flitted about the nation to bask in the adulation which goes with being a political luminary.

Missing the brass ring, there was nothing to do but return home. Still, having sampled the glory of being a national figure, he has since been unwilling to make a complete adjustment back to the humble life. More and more he has sallied forth, embarked upon his "secret" plan to "win it all" next time. He hopes that will be in 1980, for he envisions that a faltering President Carter will afford him the opportunity for a challenge while he still can run as governor of California.

First, however, he must get over the hurdle ahead, that of being re-elected governor next year. So his "dedication" to the job becomes less and less as he commences the buildup necessary to win another term.

If that were not enough to make him a part-time governor, his obsession with the idea of being president finishes it. Already he has commenced travels out of state, attending governor's conferences and on other excuses designed to get him further national exposure.

More than that, realizing the provincialness of a governor in a presidential contest, where knowledge of foreign affairs is deemed essential, he has found pretenses of state business to visit Canada, Mexico and Japan and has plans for trips to England and China next year. If he is re-elected, it can be certain he will dream up flimsy reasons for visits to even more countries. For Brown is a "quick study" type who obviously has the notion that such overnight excursions will qualify him as an "instant expert" on foreign affairs.

So, between now and next November, a full year away, the problems of the state will have to take a back seat as they share the governor's attention with his major goal of getting re-elected.

Should he win, it is also obvious that his energies will then turn to the building of a presidential campaign in preparation for 1980. Considering all this, the state will continue to suffer under a part-time governor who commenced moonlighting on the job way back in the 1976 presidential primaries.

Meanwhile, his lack of accomplishments as governor continue to plague, with economic woes of inflation and unemployment far from stemmed, crime continuing rampant and relief from excessive property taxes still but a promise. This is to say nothing of a soaring state budget which has increased 65 percent during his first three years in office.

Ann Landers

Diseases still pose threat

Dear Ann Landers: Both my sister and I have three children between 4 and 11 years of age. Mary says she is having her children immunized this week against measled, mumps, rubella and whopping cough. She aso mentioned polio.

I have not heard of a child getting polio for several years. I thought this disease was conquered. Also, what about the others? Why go to the trouble if there is no danger?

Please check with your medical consultants and give us the right information. A visit to the doctor's office costs $25 these days. Thank you. — Champaign, Ill.

Dear Champaign: In recent months there has been a frightening increase in measles, rubella and whopping cough. Not many people realize that these diseases can cause mental retardation, deafness, pneumonia and encephalitis.

Polio has NOT been conquered. In 1954, 38,000 cases of polio were reported. In 1976, there were ten. Ten seems like a small number but if your child was one of the ten, it would be a very significant number indeed. This is the problem we are now facing. People have become complacent. We cannot afford to wait for another epidemic to hit before we protect our children.

The United States Public Health Service has just printed a new booklet, "A Parent's Guide To Childhood Immunization." It is available free. Write to Immunization, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

This booklet will tell you what shots your child needs, at what age and where to get the shots without charge in certain communities.

Oral polio vaccines are available free of charge to any school-age child in Chicago and Cook County. Parents should call the Board of Health. They will be referred to the clinic nearest their homes.

I urge every mother and dad to act to protect your children at once. What else will to do today that is as important?

Dear Ann Landers: I get along with my mother-in-law very well — until picture-taking time.

For every major family event (beginning with our wedding) she has spoiled the solemnity of the occasion by insisting on having a photographer on hand. When we sealed our vows with a kiss, the camera was right under our noses.

Last week our daughter was baptized. My mother-in-law hired a photographer (same one) and directed all the picture-taking. When I told her I didn't like the idea she said, "You'll be glad to have the pictures in years to come."

I do enjoy having pictures, but I would prefer fewer pictures and a little more dignity at affairs which are supposed to have religious significance. What do you suggest? — Overpowered

Dear Over: A good commercial photographer knows how to take pictures without getting in the way. Perhaps this is the problem.

In the future, if the event is one you should be in control of (such as the baptism of your child) tell your mother-in-law that you will engage the photographer. You can then engage the photographer of your choice, give him explicit instructions on what you want and what you do not want.

Dr. Miller

Raccoons live on dog kibble

DEAR DR. MILLER: We're feeding some semi-pet raccoons dog kibble with a bucket of water alongside. They seem pretty dependent on it now but I guess they pick up other stuff, too. They get all they want. Do they need any other food to be healthy? — C.H.

DEAR C.H.: No. Good dog food can provide complete nutrition for raccoons, as well as canines. In fact, both species often do better on dog food alone than when combined with "goodies" from the table — or elsewhere.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I can't believe how fast my dog has developed cataracts. Molly has diabetes and, I am told, that is why she got the cataracts. Her doctor is recommending she get a cataract operation. Does this operation in dogs usually work? She is completely blind now so Molly's pretty desperate and so am I. — N.K.

DEAR N.K.: Molly's doctor is the logical one to determine her chances for successful surgery. He wouldn't recommend it if there wasn't a reasonable chance. Generally speaking, if Molly's in reasonably good health otherwise and the diabetes is well controlled, the chances for successfully restoring her sight is good.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My son is proud of his new horse and in just a few days is doing pretty well riding him. One thing that worries me, though. The horse won't give my son his hind leg, he backs away or swipes at him when he tries to lift it off the ground. How do you go about training the horse to tive his hind foot to you? It's a matter of pride with my son that he be able to pick up that hind foot whenever he wants to, but so for it's no go. — A.B.

DEAR A.B.: Horse hind foot handling is best attempted with an expert's guidance. A horse's hind foot is a dangerous weapon. (A veterinarian who was a good friend of mine was killed by a blow to his head from a horse's hoof.) Such training should be slow, careful and deliberate. Step one is gaining the horse's complete confidence because he is surrendering his chief weapon to you when he lets you hold his foot. Training the horse to allow this may take several weeks and should involve patience and proper technique—and respect for horse and hoof.

Astrographs

By Bernice Bede Osol
For Wednesday, Nov. 9, 1977
Your Birthday, Nov. 9, 1977

That brass ring that has been so elusive will not escape your grasp this coming year. You may now obtain what has been so near and yet so far.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is a day when you can take everything in stride. Without looking for anyone to throw down the gauntlet, you would welcome a challenge. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each sign and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24-Dec. 21) Occasionally you tend to blurt things out without thinking. Today, you'll restrain yourself to avoid betraying a confidence.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This is a fortunate day, because most people you deal with, both on personal and business levels, want to do you favors.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Important achievements are possible now, particularly if you take pride in your work. You'll get what you want by keeping your shoulder to the wheel.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Things have a way of working out to your ultimate benefit today. Others will pitch in to help make it all possible.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't take for granted the one you love today. If you've been ignoring him or her, show you care by trying a little tenderness.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Traditional values or customs, always important, are more so today. Actions on your part along these lines will be extra pleasing to your family.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Forget about experimenting with untried procedures in your work today. Time-tested methods will produce the best results.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) The speculative venture most profitable for you today is the one you have to put the least into to get the greatest return.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) That you take your obligations and responsibilities very seriously today gains you added respect and admiration from loved ones.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A secret admirer who has previously not shown any sign of his or her true feelings today may give you an overt indication.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There are still a few obstacles in the path of something for which you've worked long and hard. Today's events could remove at least one of them.

Fattening foods fight back

I was leafing through a magazine the other day when my eyes fell upon a full-page ad of a potato with two eyes, a mouth, and two little gloved hands saying, "I AM NOT FATTENING."

I wanted to believe the little devil. He seemed so sincere. Besides, I never met a potato I didn't like. It occured to me that lately a lot of foods have been fighting back at ugly publicity.

Health enthusiasts have made me uptight over milk products, paranoid over sugar, and a couple of weeks ago I ate a glazed doughnut and felt so guilty I established a Weight Watchers Scholarship in my name.

If more carbohydrates would take a stand, it would certainly make it easier for those of us who are weak and motivated by your basic hunger.

I went to lunch the other week with my friend, Ellie, who gives me a royal pain with her dieting. When my hamburger came with a mound of French fries, I thought she'd break out into a rash.

"Ah . . . ah . . . ah . . . naughty . . . naughty!"

"You are wrong," I said, "Carbohydrates offer you important vitamins and minerals such as Vitamin C, B6 and Niacin."

"Where did you hear that?"

"On Merv Griffin's Salute To Starches night."

"You're lying. You do that all the time to get out of dieting."

"That's not true. I always buy dietary bread."

"And put gravy on it."

"I ate a carrot stick last week."

"With two pounds of dip on the end of it."

"Didn't I buy a whole box of caramel appetite killers?"

"And melted them to put over your ice cream."

"Why would a potato lie to you? What's in it for them?" Addressing the potatoes I asked, "Have we ever met before?"

"I think you've popped your cork," said Ellie.

"No, I want to pursue this. Why would some strange potato single me out to deceive me?"

"I can see you are not motivated to being thin."

"That's all you know," I said opening my purse and sanctimoniously popping a small artificial sweetener pill into my cappucino.

Hopefully the potato ad is a trend. I mean if you can't trust a chocolate eclair looking you in the eye and saying, "I am not a crook", whom can you trust?

Dr. Lamb

Two types of gall stones

DEAR DR. LAMB — Will all gall stones show up on X-rays? I had my gall bladder removed a year ago. A year has passed since then and I have lots of pain in the area where the gall bladder was. I have had X-rays and no stones show up.

I have heard if one has stones that aren't removed they can cause cancer. Is there any other way except by X-ray that they can locate gall stones?

DEAR READER — In general, there are two types of gall stones but there can be mixtures of materials that form stones. The stones formed chiefly from cholesterol are not opaque on X-rays. That is why a person takes gall bladder dye before a gall bladder examination.

The dye is opaque and concentrates inside the gall bladder. The transparent cholesterol stones then stand out from the solid appearing dye and can be seen.

The stones made from bile pigment are small, hard stones that are visible on X-rays without dye and some stones contain other minerals that make them visible.

The opaque stones can be seen by X-ray even if they are in the bile system after the gall bladder has been removed, and if you inject opaque material the others can be seen as well. There are techniques to visualize by X-ray the entire bilary tree.

Discomfort from abnormal drainage of the bile may still be present after an operation. Then there is that frequent problem that the pain the patient was bothered with may not have been caused by the gall stones at all, even if stones were present. The main offender here is pain in the colon, in the upper right abdomen over the liver area. A spastic colon often causes pain in this area whether or not the person has gall stones. When the gall stones are seen on X-ray, it is then assumed that they are the cause of the pain — which may not be the case at all.

In such a case, after the gall stones are removed the spastic colon persists and the pain in the upper right abdomen persists too. The patient may think it is because the gall bladder disease has not been cured, but the truth may be the gall bladder never had anything to do with the pain.

That doesn't mean the gall bladder should not have removed. The weight of evidence is in favor of removing a diseased gall bladder if you have a good surgeon available and are otherwise in good health and unlikely to have complications from surgery. I might add that all the surgeons I know tell me they are very good, but some of them seem to have better results than others.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-9, Gall Stones and Gall Bladder Disease, to give you more information. Others who want information on this subject can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for this issue to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

If you have colon complaints, you may need to go on a program to improve your colon function, including increasing the cereal bulk in your diet.

There is an increased incidence of cancer of gall bladders with stones. Since yours has been removed, I think you don't need to worry about that.

'Booze' came from bottler

Argument continues over whether "booze" as slang for liquor originated from the E.C. Booz name or from the Dutch word for "to drink." Both, in a way. The Booze family of Pennsylvania and New Jersey sold liquor in log-cabin bottles, and it became the custom of drinking pioneers to ask for a Booz bottle and eventually a bottle of booze. But the Booz people came from Holland originally, and it's likely their name harked back to the old Dutch word.

PINK

Q. "How come bubble gum is usually pink?"

A. Because it was the only food coloring at hand when Walter Diemer by trial and error came up with a non-plastering bubble in 1928. The tradition got started right then. Diemer was an accountant with an ambition to invent. If he'd had green food coloring instead, most bubble gum would probably be green now.

Q. "I can't find that poetic word 'zarf' in my dictionary. . . ?"

A. It's a holder for a handleless coffee cup. Poetic? What's it rhyme with? Besides barf. Never mind.

Q. "Can you name the films in which Mrs. Pat Nixon appeared when she was an aspiring actress?"

A. "Ben Hur," "Small Town Girl" and "Becky." She was an extra.

Q. "What does the Bible have to say about prejudice?"

A. Nothing. That word isn't in it.

No, our Love and War man cannot verify the report that about 25,000 husbands or wives in this country practice that thing called polygamy. Such folk do not tend to report how many matrimonial mates they live with at a given time. Opening lead — 10♣

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

Here is a hand from a match between Spain and Germany. The German bidding as shown in the box was straight forward enough provided you know that South's three-spade bid showed a solid suit.

Declarer looked over dummy, remarked that he guessed he had underbid and wished he was in seven. He let the club come around to his king, cashed two high spades, burst into happy laughter when East showed out, played out the trumps and made only six on account of the horrendous trump break.

The Spaniards started with an artificial club and somehow or other South became declarer at six notrump after North bid all around the mulberry bush. A heart was opened. He won the trick, came to his hand with the king of clubs, led the ace of spades, noted the spade nine, then worked out the play to make six notrump.

It wasn't a tough one. He simply cashed the other three top spades while discarding one heart and three clubs and then led the 10 of diamonds for a finesse.

Aftermath of Toccoa tragedy

WIDE DESTRUCTION — Here are scenes in the aftermath of the earthen dam collapse at Toccoa, Ga. In photo above, workmen use heavy equipment to clear debris from under a bridge. In lower photo, students from Toccoa Falls Bible College survey area of Kelly Barnes Lake, where the dam burst, sending floodwaters down the falls and into college's dorm area.

VICTIM REMOVED — Rescue workers remove a body from the flooding waters near the Toccoa Falls Bible College. Water also destroyed a wide area of homes and trailers.

Victim has encouraging words for the Carters

TOCCOA, Ga. (AP) — A man who lost his wife and son in the flood that overwhelmed this northeastern Georgia community found words of encouragement for President Carter's wife, who sought to comfort him in a hospital.

"We'll be praying for you and the big things you have to do," Jeffery Metzger said as Rosalynn Carter left his room.

Metzger and a daughter, Debbie, survived the flood. But his wife and son were among those killed in rampaging waters.

A rain-swollen lake burst through an earthen dam early Sunday, sending tons of water crashing down a falls and through Toccoa. Especially hard hit was the Toccoa Falls Bible College.

Metzger was among several persons Mrs. Carter visited in a brief stopover at the hospital on a hill just above the area where the flood waters struck as most of the college's students and staff slept.

She flew by jet from Washington to Anderson, S.C., then by military helicopter to Toccoa. She returned to Washington Sunday night.

When Mrs. Carter arrived, she saw dozens of bulldozers churning through muddy debris, clearing away remnants of homes and school buildings.

"It was indescribable," the first lady said at a news conference. "It's a terrible tragedy."

Private services slated

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The family of Florence Vidor planned private funeral services Sunday for the silent screen actress, who died at the age of 82.

Miss Vidor, once married to director King Vidor and later to violinist Jascha Heifetz, died Thursday night at her Pacific Palisades home, her daughter, Suzanne Vidor Parry, said.

The actress' silent films included "A Tale of Two Cities," "Grand Duchess and the Waiter," "Magnificent Flirt" and "Chinatown Nights."

Florence and King Vidor came from Texas to Hollywood in 1918, where he worked as an actor and director. She started as an extra in films and rose to stardom shortly after her cart ride to the guillotine in "A Tale of Two Cities."

She divorced Vidor in 1925 and stopped acting after her marriage to Heifetz in 1928. She was divorced from Heifetz in 1946.

In addition to Mrs. Parry, she is survived by two children from her marriage to Heifetz, Josepha and Robert.

Monster is well insured

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Godzilla, the movie monster known as the scourge of cities and human life, is protected by insurance.

"When we were approached to issue the insurance," said Edward Yerger, resident vice president of Fireman's Fund Insurance Companies branch here, "no one had the nerve to turn Godzilla down.

"But we're not complete pushovers. We'd heard Godzilla has breath that would fry a chicken, so we wrote the policy to exclude any loss caused by extreme temperatures, as well as wear and tear, dishonesty, flood and mysterious disappearance," Yerger added.

The request for coverage, made by Cinema Shares International, was actually for a monster costume used to promote a Godzilla film at theaters around the country. The insurance firm wrote a scheduled articles floater with a $5,000 limit.

After three tough years

Scott claims survivor status in Hearst case

By BOB BAUM

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Jack Scott, the man who Patricia Hearst says drove her and two fellow fugitives across country to elude the FBI, considers himself a survivor.

After what he calls "three tough, miserable years" of battling the FBI and the U.S. Justice Department, Scott and his wife, Micki, have bought a comfortable turn-of-the-century home in northwest Portland. They have a child, Jonah Gregory, born on Labor Day, and express "an implicit faith in the future."

Scott talks of writing a book about his knowledge of the Hearst case and of the terrorist organization that kidnapped her, the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Miss Hearst has testified that the Scotts drove her from California to Pennsylvania, along with SLA members Bill and Emily Harris, and let them use a farmhouse the Scotts rented near Jack's hometown of Scranton, Pa.

Scott, now 35, still carefully avoids admitting whether he helped the fugitives shortly after six of their comrades were slain in a shootout with police in Los Angeles.

But he drops grenade-sized hints.

"Sure I'm going to write about it," Scott said. "If I was there a day or two after the massacre in Los Angeles and I can portray Patty Hearst's state at that time, I think it's worth writing about.

"Let's say I was in those situations," he said. "Whatever I write, some of it would portray her in a sympathetic manner and some would show that she lied under oath."

Scott, once the unconventional athletic director at Oberlin College in Ohio, said he feels the government has no further interest in his connection with the Hearst case.

"The word was communicated to us that the Carter Justice Department wasn't going to pursue the Hearst case any further," he said.

But the Scotts still recall with bitterness those three years, which included a five-month disappearance "underground."

"What we kept saying is, 'If we've done something wrong, please give us a trial,'" Scott said. "Suppose we did do it, and it was the right thing to do because it saved lives, we have the faith that even in Scranton a jury would be able to decide who the real criminals were. It would have been the government that was on trial, not us."

Micki recalled an incident after they were subpoenaed in Portland to appear before a grand jury in Harrisburg, Pa.

She had used the telephone to order concert tickets from a Portland music store, Longhair Records.

"I said 'My name is Micki Scott and I'll be right there to pick them up.' When we got downtown and pulled up at Longhair Records there were like three carloads of marshals waiting for us."

Then the FBI came knocking at the door, and Rolling Stone magazine published an article, complete with dialogue, on Scott's alleged cross-country trip.

"Eight different times in a 2½-year period the national networks ran stories that Micki and I were about to be indicted in Pennsylvania," he said. No indictment came.

"We found out they (the FBI) had hired a team of psychiatrists to find out how they could most effectively get us to talk," he said.

Intimidation and an offer of a $200,000 bribe to Scott's father did not work, he said.

Scott said the Hearst cloud started to lift when Micki was hired as the director of the community center in Linnton, a small industrial section of north Portland.

With that part of their lives behind them, a $20,000 advance for a book on basketball star and friend, Bill Walton, in their pockets, and a belief that "at least 50 percent" of Americans now share similar values, the Scotts decided to have a child.

"Having Jonah shows a certain faith in the future based on our experience over the last three years," Scott said.

Pat Vincent works for Kaiser Steel. But after a full day at the office she's still got a lot of work to do—for United Way. This is the third year in a row that Pat has volunteered her time to see that the deserving get their share of United Way funds.

It's a time-consuming job. She's a member of one of the volunteer panels that looks into the needs of a great variety of organizations to assure that United Way funds are distributed fairly. Tough decisions, but the satisfaction of being able to help makes it all worthwhile.

Pat Vincent, Kaiser Steel employee and United Way volunteer.

The rest of us at Kaiser Steel believe in doing our part, too. This year $300,000 was raised through payroll deductions for the United Way and other charitable organizations. In addition, the company is giving a total of $96,000 to United Way drives in Corona/Norco, Greater Fontana, Pomona, Redlands, Riverside, San Bernardino, and West End, which support a total of more than 200 organizations.

We have a lot of people like Pat who give time and money to help our neighbors, both young and old, enjoy a better life. We hope you'll give your fair share, too.

Chinese to ally with opponents of their enemies

TOKYO (AP) — In a lengthy review of the state of the world, China's Communist leaders make clear that they have settled on a policy of being friends, at least temporarily, with anyone opposed to their enemies.

The article last week in the official Peking People's Daily disclosed there had been some disagreement over such points as how capitalists could be allies of the Chinese Communists. The decision was to set aside some doctrinaire points in favor of practical results.

This explains the recent relatively good relations between Peking and Washington despite the article's assertion that the United States and the Soviet Union are exploiting, bullying superpowers, "the common enemies of the people of the world."

Declaring that the Soviet Union is the more ferocious, reckless and treacherous of the two, the article said putting it on a par with the United States "blurs the primary target," meaning the Soviet Union.

The opposition to being friends with ideological foes was led by the "Gang of Four," the radical leaders arrested last October, the article indicated.

"They opposed China's support to the Third World, opposed China's effort to unite with all forces that can be united, and opposed our dealing blows at the most dangerous enemy," the article said.

"They vainly tried to sabotage the building of an international united front against hegemonism and to disrupt China's anti-hegemonist struggle, doing Soviet social-imperialism a good turn."

Arguing for the united-front policy, the article praised the Soviet alliance with the Western allies against Germany in World War II and the Chinese Communists' alliance with the Nationalist Chinese government against Japan.

These were necessary, it said, to safeguard the Soviet and Chinese Communists from the greatest danger at the time.

Later, the Chinese Communists went back to war against the Nationalists, driving them from the mainland in 1949, and the Soviet Union took a hostile stance toward the capitalist West.

The Chinese view is that the nations of the Third World will naturally fight imperialism because they have been subjected to its most ruthless oppression. It considers Africa, Latin America and Asia, including China but excluding Japan and the Soviet Union, in the Third World.

"In the common struggle against the Soviet Union and the United States, it is both necessary and possible to ally with the Second World under given conditions," the article said.

It did not spell out these conditions.

The Second World is Japan, Canada and Europe.

While the Second World has exploited the Third World, the article continued, it also "is being subjected to interference, control and bullying by the two hegemonist powers and to their war threats, particularly on the part of the Soviet Union."

Scientists linked by satellite

ANAHEIM (AP) — Testing a way for scientists to exchange new ideas without leaving their laboratories, brain researchers on both coasts have discussed recent findings — complete with drawings and slides — through a two-way color satellite hookup.

The satellite relay linked scientists in Washington, D.C., and Lexington, Ky., with the opening Sunday of the Seventh Annual Meeting of the Society for Neuroscience.

Said to be the fastest-growing scientific society in the nation, the group includes more than 5,000 researchers probing human behavior by studying how messages are transmitted in the brain and nervous system.

The video link got underway with a message from Dr. Thomas Bryant, chairman of the President's Commission on Mental Health, who gave greetings from President and Mrs. Carter. With Bryant in the studio at the National Institute of Mental Health in Bethesda, Md., were Nobel laureates Dr. Julius Axelrod and Dr. Marshall Nirenburg.

Through a split-screen effect, viewers in the three cities could see several researchers at once. At one point, Dr. Floyd Bloom of the Salk Institute and president of the society, presented a drawing of the brain showing the location of cells that are receivers of chemicals called endorphins, naturally occurring pain-killers, currently of intense interest in brain studies.

In Lexington, Dr. William Martin of the University of Kentucky, former head of addiction research at the National Institute of Drug Abuse, viewed the drawing and answered questions posed by Bloom about how the two researchers' work fit together.

Bloom said that while some small conferences have used satellite hookups previously, this was the first two-way color link used by participants in a large multidisciplinary meeting. The ATS satellite and the Communications Technology satellite were employed in the relay.

BRONCO LEADERS

Talented AIA cagers visit Cal Poly tonight

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

The best amateur basketball team to visit the Pomona area this season will be at Cal Poly's Kellogg Gym tonight to help Coach Don Hogan unveil the 1977-78 Bronco varsity.

Poly doesn't figure to have much of a chance against the taller and most experienced Athletes in Action team but Hogan welcomes the opportunity of letting his youngsters meet a polished outfit like AIA in an exhibition-type contest which doesn't count on the season record.

There's no question about AIA's talent.

The Tustin-based team is coming off an incredible 36-7 campaign which included victories over college powers San Francisco and Nevada Las Vegas.

AIA opened the current season last week by knocking off the Soviets, 93-84, followed by victories over Point Loma, 95-57, and the University of San Diego, 97-86.

"They sound even more awesome than last year," Hogan said about tonight's opponents. "We consider it quite a challenge to play the team many consider the best amateur team in America."

Tickets for tonight's 8 o'clock tipoff are available at the door. Prices are $1.50 for adults, $1 for students and 50 cents for children under 12.

While Hogan hopes his team can do well in front of the home fans this evening, he also realizes he has a lot of new faces making their first appearance together.

"We have to use this game to evaluate what we have done do far," Hogan says. "Then we will need to piece together some of the things we need to work on."

Poly will open its regular schedule on Thanksgiving weekend on a three-game trip to Stanford, California and Nevada Reno.

The Broncos will open with a pair of veteran guards in seniors Tom Ispas (5-7) and Charles Johnson (6-2), the co-captains.

Ispas, a four-year starter at Poly, is the team's playmaker while Charles Johnson averaged 10.7 points a game.

Junior Broderick Hunter (6-6), the former Ganesha High star, will open at one of the forward spots with walk-on Geoff Worley (6-3), a transfer from San Diego Mesa, at the other. Worley led the South Coast Conference in rebounding last year with 8.8 per game.

Sophomore David Fitzgerald (6-6) of Redlands High will open at center tonight because 6-11 junior Don Johnson, last year's starter, is currently ill and is a doubtful participant.

The rest of the Bronco roster consists of newcomers.

Other JC transfers are Claremont High product Marcus Sears (5-7) from Chaffey, Mike Scarano (5-9) from Riverside and Stewart Gibson (6-3) from Santa Barbara.

Hogan recruited three freshmen in Carl Underwood (6-2) from Riverside's Ramona High, Leonard Meeks (6-3) from Gary, Ind. and Don DeWitt (6-3) from Auburn, Ind. A freshman walk-on is Henry Lindsey (6-3) from Los Angeles High.

"We have a good blend," Hogan said, "and this group has a very positive attitude."

AIA is again led by former UCLA center Ralph Drollinger (7-2). Other returning starters are guard Brad Hoffman (5-9) plus forwards Tim Hall (6-8) and Irvin Kiffin (6-9).

Top newcomers on the AIA roster this season include former San Diego State star Steve Copp (6-7) plus Alonzo Bradley (6-7) of Texas Southern, the NAIA Player of the Year last season.

The list also includes seven-foot center Ed Gregg of Utah State and guard Mike Jackson (6-3) of Tennessee.

Colts hitting peak at the right time

BALTIMORE (AP) — It was another Monday night victory, not as impressive as a year ago, perhaps, but right on schedule as far as the Baltimore Colts were concerned.

The Colts slogged through the mud in Memorial Stadium to score a 10-3 decision over the Washington Redskins, with a 12-yard pass from Bert Jones to a diving Freddie Scott providing the winning points early in the final quarter.

While it pushed Baltimore's record to 7-1 and kept it alone atop the AFC East, the hard-earned triumph in the defense-dominated clash of neighborhood rivals was in sharp contrast to the last Monday night game here, one year ago against Houston.

The Colts hosted the Oilers, also in the season's eighth week, and thundered to a 38-14 victory. It proved to be their best effort of the year as they dropped two of their final five games before being easily eliminated in the first round of the playoffs.

But although the margin of victory over the Redskins was much smaller, the Colts felt their latest nationally televised win would show up more decisively in the long run.

"We're hitting our peak at the right time this season," said defensive end Fred Cook.

Cook, a four-year veteran, and the rest of the Colts' "Sack Pack" front four put intense pressure on Redskins quarterback Joe Theismann, sacking him five times and helping to create a pair of interceptions by linebacker Stan White.

The Baltimore offense, meanwhile, was controlling the ball, with Jones & Company running off 80 plays to Washington's 54 and using up 12½ more minutes of playing time.

"I said early in the week that we couldn't leave our defense out there all game and still beat the Colts. Well, that's exactly what we did, and I didn't help them any," said Theismann, who completed 11 of 27 throws for 168 yards.

Theismann and the rest of the Redskins, now 4-4 and in third place in the NFC East, throught they had gained a shot at a tie on the final play.

The quarterback's toss from the Baltimore 13 was caught in the end zone by Calvin Hill. But the officials, who had stopped the clock with two second remaining as defensive players lined up, ruled that time had run out before the ball was snapped.

A poor play by the special teams, a perennially strong point of Allen-coached squads, led to the Colts' winning points in the game played in a steady rain on a field soaked by two days of downpour.

Late in the third period, with the score knotted on field goals by Toni Linhart and Mark Moseley, Washington punter Mike Bragg shanked a 22-yard kick out of bounds at the Baltimore 39.

From there, the Colts moved steadily downfield, with Jones suddenly finding the range on passes that earlier had been sailing over the heads of open men or splashing in the mud in front of diving receivers.

"It was hard to really zip the ball in this kind of weather," said Jones, who completed 13 of 27 passes for 180 yards.

On a third-and-seven situation, Jones hit Scott with a bullet over the middle, gaining the first down by inches at the Washington 14. Then after a two-yard run, Jones and Scott connected again, this time for the winning TD on a pass that the Amherst graduate had to stretch full-length to grab in the end zone.

Rangers ink Richie Zisk

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The Texas Rangers of the American League signed free agent outfielder Richie Zisk today to an undisclosed, longterm contract, a spokesman for the baseball team announced.

Zisk, who played for the Chicago White Sox last season, had been chosen by the Rangers in the free-agent re-entry draft last week.

ACA to host CIF playoff

American Christian Academy will host Faith Baptist at John Galvin Park Saturday at 6 p.m. in the first round of the CIF Eight-man football playoffs.

The Minuteman won the Christian League championship while Faith Baptist, a Canoga Park school, finished as Delphic League runnerup. Both teams have 5-3 records, but ACA had to win its final five regular season games to post that mark.

Bukich will get his big opportunity

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Film script in the making: Son of a one-time Rose Bowl star for Southern California goes to arch-rival UCLA instead, and when it looks like he'll be the starting quarterback, the coaches pick somebody else.

But near the end of this very real UCLA football drama of 1977, approaching the climactic USC game, first team quarterback Rick Bashore injures a rib and lung and they finally give the ball to Steve Bukich.

The script needs a little work before USC can act surprised. Bukich first gets a lower-budget starring role against Oregon State this Saturday, followed by a two-week layoff, before the maybe-epic meeting with USC Nov. 25.

"Steve has waited all year long for the opportunity to play and he's a very strong competitor and has a lot of confidence in his ability," UCLA Coach Terry Donahue said Monday.

UCLA, USC and Washington are currently tied for the Pacific-8 conference football lead with 4-1 records, so a Rose Bowl berth to the Nov. 25 winner is a strong possibility. UCLA must beat Oregon State and USC would have to get by Washington this Saturday to light the fuse for the Nov. 25 game.

The game against Oregon State, 1-8 so far, is at the Los Angeles Coliseum Saturday afternoon. Bashore, suffering from a fractured rib and collapsed lung, definitely will miss this weekend's game, but may be ready for some duty against USC Nov. 25.

In 1953, Rudy Bukich was chosen player of the game for Southern California in a 7-0 Rose Bowl victory over Wisconsin.

The younger Bukich, a 6-1, 215 pound junior, was backup quarterback for the Bruins in 1976, but missed a good share of 1977 spring drills because of a rib injury of his own.

Sophomore Bashore made the most of the opportunity, got to start UCLA's first game against Houston, and played brilliantly although the Bruins lost 17-13.

It's been rough season at Pomona-Pitzer

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

It's been a rough season for Pomona-Pitzer coach Walt Ambord.

"I'd read about that high school coach who pulled his team off the field and put them on the bus at the half because he was trailing 63-0," Ambord said at the Progress Bulletin football luncheon Monday. "Well, I decided to do that Saturday at the half at our game at Whittier, but when I called for the bus the driver said it wouldn't start!"

Such is life for a coach whose team is now 0-6 on the year and wound up losing 53-6 at Whittier Saturday.

Ambord's witty comments spiced Monday's weekly P-B luncheon, but there was also talk of a more serious nature as a couple junior college showdowns loom on the horizon.

Winning the Offensive Player of the Week award at the four-year level was Azusa Pacific split end Randy McElveen, who caught six passes for 103 yards in the Cougars' 13-0 loss to Cal State L.A.

The defensive award for the four-year schools went to Don Chester of Claremont-Mudd, who intercepted two passes in the Stags' 21-7 loss at Occidental.

Both JC awards went to Chaffey College players. Bob Pleasant rushed for 82 yards, caught four passes for 42 more yards, scored two touchdowns and had a 92-yard kickoff return for a TD called back in the Panthers' win at Southwestern. Craig Ralston, who made 11 tackles, one quarterback sack and recovered two fumbles, was tabbed as the defensive player.

Others nominated were Tim Gaffney of APC and Dana Lanier and Lucio Sagasta of La Verne.

Quoting the coaches:

AMBORD, Pomona-Pitzer: "Whittier poured it on us, I'm just glad I'm not one of their second or third stringers, I'd never get to play. Their coach, John Godfrey, is a good friend of mine. I'd hate to think what might have happened if he were my enemy!

"Lyle Lansdell came on late in the game and led us to a touchdown, so that was a bright spot for us. He'll definitely be our starting quarterback Saturday vs. La Verne.

"We played La Verne earlier this year and they kicked the hell out of us. We'll try to make a better game of it this time around."

MAL EATON, MSAC: "We had a bye last week, this week we play Fullerton. They have been the number-one ranked team in the national JC polls since the start of the season and they deserve it. They are a well-balanced team and throw the ball exceptionally well. They have no major weaknesses that I can see.

"We're looking forward to playing them. We have a positive attitude, we feel we've got a shot at them if we avoid mistakes."

MIKE MERANDI, Chaffey: "We went down to Southwestern last week, they were a good team. We led only 3-0 at the half but played a flawless third quarter. We had three long drives and scored 21 points to put the game away.

"We play Saddleback this week, they are an extremely strong football team with a powerful defense. They play with poise. We have the ability to beat them if we don't make any errors. We're looking forward to it, they are a super team coaching-wise and it should be an outstanding game."

ROLAND ORTMAYER, La Verne: "We played Redlands and they beat us so we still have a goose-egg (0-3) in our conference. They handled us pretty well, although we hurt ourselves pretty badly with some penalities. Having played both of them, Whittier-Redlands should make a good contest. It's tough to pick a winner between those two.

"This week we stay closer to home. We play Pomona, we obviously have a decided advantage in sheer manpower and that makes it rough on them."

JOHN ZINDA, Claremont-Mudd: "We lost 21-7 at Oxy but we gave them one of their touchdowns so it should have been 14-7. We led 7-0 at the half but a couple fumbles in the third quarter really hurt us.

"I thought our defense played a whale of a game, all in all we are not embarrassed with our performance. We just are not the kind of team that can afford to make mistakes.

"We play Redlands this Saturday, right now we're spoilers in our conference. The pressure will be on Redlands. They are a good football team but they're beatable. We just need an error-free football game to beat them."

JOHN STRYCULA, Citrus: "Saddleback deserved to win their game with us Saturday. We felt we could beat them going in but our execution and skills didn't match our effort. They're the sort of team which doesn't need any help but we gave it to them, we spotted them 16 points on three fumbles and you just can't do that.

"We hope to bounce back this week against Riverside City College. They're a good ballclub and will give us a battle."

JACK COSBY, APC assistant coach: "It rained almost our whole game with CSLA, and as a result there were something like 14 turnovers in the contest. We just couldn't run on them, our defense played well but we just had no offense.

"This week we play Cal Lutheran. We will try to throw the ball more against them, they have been more inconsistent this year than previously but are still a tough team to beat."

GRAYLE HOWLETT, Cal Poly Sports Information Director: "We played probably our worst game vs. Fullerton. Coach Jones said today that we're not 0-7 players and he's not an 0-7 coach, that he definitely wants a win this year in our final three games.

"Fullerton was a good team with good personnel, but we did not play well against them. This week we host Santa Clara, it will be Homecoming for us. Santa Clara has lost its last five games but they did not have their star quarterback in four of those losses. He will be back for us Saturday."

OFFENSE — Wayne Morris, running back, St. Louis Cardinals, carried 27 times for 182 yards — the second highest total in team history — and scored twice as the Cards upset the Minnesota Vikings 27-7.

DEFENSE — Spike Jones, punter, Philadelphia Eagles, kicked the ball out of bounds inside the 10-yard line four times, keeping New Orleans buried in poor field position and helping the Eagles beat the Saints 28-7.

Stags post pool win

Claremont-Mudd ran its SCIAC water polo record to 5-1 recently with a 14-9 win over Pomona-Pitzer. The win kept the Stags in second place in the SCIAC standings.

Louie Caron led the way for the Stag swimmers with four goals. C-M's only conference loss was a 18-13 defeat at Occidental.

The Stags will host Whittier at 4 p.m. Wednesday, and have a showdown battle with Oxy coming up Nov. 19.

Nelles School realizing its dream

WHITTIER — There is a kind of football fever sweeping the Nelles School here as the resident Nitehawks have won six of their first seven games in public high school competition.

There is even talk of an invitation to the California Interscholastic Federation playoffs at the end of the season, and for Nelles this is something of an impossible dream.

The grid fever is different than what you might normally expect at a high school. There are no bands, no cheerleaders and no pom-pom girls, and much of the Nelles student body has a disconcerting habit of rooting for the opposing team.

This is because Nelles is a California Youth Authority institution for high school-age offenders and many of its students tend to be perverse.

"Anyway," explained coach Jeff Baker, "they all wanted to be on the team so they are filled with sour grapes. That's why most of them cheer us only when we fumble or throw an interception or the other team scores a touchdown."

As it has turned out so far this year, the students have had few opportunities to cheer as the Nitehawks have stampeded their way through Sherman Indian, Santa Monica JVs, Servite JVs, Capistrano Valley and Don Lugo and Irvine high schools, losing only to Cypress in the second game of the year.

"We got off to a slow start," explained Baker, but he added that slow starts are an inevitable part of the Nelles football scene.

For one thing, he said, he had to start the 1977 season with only four holdovers from the previous year because the average length of stay at Nelles is less than a year, and most of the football players get paroled between football seasons. A few players go on parole during the season itself and Baker anticipates, with a touch of sadness, that he may lose a few of his key performers before the CIF playoffs are scheduled.

Team readiness at the beginning of the year also has been hampered by the process of selecting the players. Baker does his recruiting from the school's living units, each of which fields an intramural flag football team, and Baker has to scout prospects painstakingly before making final selections. As a result, the raw material for the team has not been in place before September.

Baker, who began his CYA career in 1968 as a youth counselor at Nelles is now a physical education teacher, is a former college football player at Fullerton Junior College and Long Beach State. He came up with the idea of fielding a high school football team at Nelles six years ago because, he said, "I thought it was important to develop some team spirit." The school administration, after some soul-searching, gave him the green light and the first official team took the field in 1971.

Over the next three years, Nelles was able to schedule only two or three games a year with public high schools.

"I think there was some fear about getting involved with us," he said. "Eventually the word got out that we played hard, but we played clean."

"I won't tolerate rough stuff," Baker said, "and the guys know it. They know that if they do something out of line they will have to deal with me."

Last week the Nitehawks' on-field deportment received a nod from principal of Capistrano Valley, vanquished earlier this year, who sent a letter to his counterpart at Nelles, Jerry Reiser, praising the Nelles team for its "outstanding sportsmanship."

The Nitehawks achieved another milestone during the game with Don Lugo at the latter school's Chino Field.

It was the first-ever game played by Nelles away from home, a step approved with some hesitation by school officials.

Eight staff members were on hand to root for their team, while keeping an eye on them. The players' families also turned up, and they were rewarded with a stirring game in which the Nitehawks scored a last minute touchdown and a two-point conversion to eke out a 14-13 victory.

Baker said the Nelles team is almost always outweighed by its opponents because bigger, older Youth Authority wards are generally sent to other institutions. He has had to devise special strategies which emphasize speed and surprise to overcome the opponents' size advantage, including a defense which features stunting and formation changes.

Since virtually all of the team members are juvenile offenders whose names may not be publicized, the Nitehawks are truly a no-name aggregation.

Nevertheless, it has its stars, including a classic, drop-back quarterback who throws with pinpoint accuracy and has a 59 percent completion average; a linebacker who plays fullback on offense and is the natural team leader; and a speedy, elusive halfback who has been averaging six yards per carry.

There are 30 young men on the squad all told, ranging from 15 to 18 years of age, and most play either defense or offense. Only four go both ways.

Only two of the team members played high school football before coming to Nelles.

"Most," Baker said, "simply don't have the discipline to play in the community. Here, though, the discipline is mandated."

Baker does have a problem stemming from his dual role as a football coach and a Youth Authority staff member. By CYA policy, wards may file formal grievances if they feel they are being unfairly treated and Baker sometimes has to respond to

Meeting slated on prep 'forefeit'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Wilson-Lincoln high school football game, in which Lincoln didn't come out for the second half after being routed 63-0, will be the subject of a special meeting of a Los Angeles school system athletic committee Wednesday.

A sports information spokesman for the public school system, Jerry Weiner, says the two coaches and principals from the schools have been invited to attend the 8 a.m. meeting, which will include a report by referees of last Friday's game.

Among the issues to be discussed is alleged failure of Lincoln coaches to say they weren't coming back for more. But the school system spokesman indicated possible "pouring it on" aspects of the first half may also be discussed.

There were seven on-side kicks by Wilson, in efforts to recover the ball for more scoring opportunities. Lincoln, demoralized by loss of five on-side kicks and five pass interceptions, resorted to punting on first down on some occasions when it was their turn to have the ball.

Coach Dave Loera said it was his decision to forfeit because it was "physically unsafe" for his players to continue. He said injuries had reduced the team to 15 players, including three who were ineligible, and he was worried about being forced to cancel two remaining games if further injuries resulted.

Weiner reports that when Lincoln did not appear back on the field within one-half hour, the referees and Wilson officials checked the door of the Lincoln dressing room, and found it locked with the players and coach inside.

A total of two hours passed before, still in their uniforms, the Lincoln team boarded a bus to return to their school.

"We weren't going for records," Wilson Coach Vic Cuccia said when asked about the unrelenting first-half pressure. He said he planned to lift his first-string players during the second half, and the second-and-third string team members were shocked and disappointed when the game was cut short.

Lincoln Coach Loera said he had no knowledge that Wilson planned to bench the first-string after halftime. He said that the Wilson first team played all the way in beating his team 49-0 a year ago.

Longshots sweep Russell Handicap

ARCADIA (AP) — Two longshots, All Hope and Antique, captured their divisions of the Henry P. Russell Handicap Monday-closing day of the Oak Tree meeting at Santa Anita.

Bill Shoemaker had seven mounts in a bid to overtake Darrel McHargue as leading rider of the 24-day meeting, but failed to score a victory. McHargue had 36 victories and Shoemaker 33.

Shoemaker's mounts Monday included two second-place finishes, and three horses were third. McHargue has been sitting out a suspension since last Friday.

French-bred All Hope moved out of a wide lead and carried it strongly for a 2½ length victory in the $33,375 first division of the handicap, timed in 1:48 1-5 for the 1⅛ miles on turf. It was the second victory in four races in the United States for the horse that campaigned in Europe earlier in the year.

O.J. throwing hip fakes

BUFFALO (AP) — Reporters interviewing O.J. Simpson about his football future Monday got a taste of what National Football League defenses have gone through the past nine years.

Every time a question seemed to have Simpson nailed down, he'd throw a hip fake and be gone again.

The Buffalo Bills' superstar will undergo surgery for cartilage damage to his left knee Tuesday or Wednesday and will be out for the season. As for his plays for next season, he was as elusive as he ever was on the field.

"I don't want to end my career sitting on the bench," said Simpson, explaining he would not return in less than peak form.

Then, the reporters said, he most certainly is through, since most players who have knee surgery — such as Gale Sayers — lose something.

Well, no. He said surgery won't be serious.

"I'm glad it's a cartilage and not a ligament. If you have to have a knee injury, mine is the kind to have. You often don't need a cast and are off crutches after three to four weeks," Simpson said.

"I've been meeting directors and getting tons of scripts," he said, indicating that his acting career is booming and that he would have no motivation to return to football.

But then he said, "I'd like to play one more year for two reasons: first, pride. Second, I'd like to end my career on a positive note."

Simpson, whose request to be traded last season didn't pan out, then seemed to leave the door wide open for another trade request.

"If I were traded to a championship team, I wouldn't be unhappy. I would play for a lot less money," Simpson said. He also said, for the first time, that the contender wouldn't necessarily have to be near his Los Angeles home, mentioning Minnesota and Pittsburgh as possibilities.

However, Simpson then quickly added, "I'm not looking to be traded. I definitely won't ask for one."

Simpson, who's been frustrated in his goal to play in a Super Bowl, listened as reporters talked about the possibilities.

"Yeah, Oakland. Oakland would be nice," he said, stroking his newly-grown beard and grinning.

"The opportunity to be in a backfield with Chuck Foreman (Minnesota) would be a kick," he said.

"I would not be an unhappy man if I were traded to Los Angeles," he added.

Simpson arrived in Buffalo Sunday night not long after the Bills, fresh from their 24-14 upset victory over the New England Patriots, were greeted by about 300 fans at the airport.

"I think adversity many times can give a team a psychological lift. They were really charged up. Look at the Baltimore Colts when Johnny Unitas was hurt and Tom Matte was quarterbacking. They won some games they shouldn't have," he said.

Simpson said the Bills "have some excellent players" but "are a few years away from a championship."

Simpson was unsure when his knee was first injured, but said surgery was recommended by doctors because it was beginning to atrophy. He laughed when asked if he was using the injury as an excuse to end his career with the struggling Bills.

"That would be rather drastic, to have an operation, don't you think?".

Mt. Baldy Aquatics honors swimmers

The Mt. Baldy Aquatics Club recently held its annual awards dinner in Claremont.

Girls winning Most Valuable Swimmer awards at their respective age levels were Vicki Easton, Julie Presecan, Kathie Haase, Marianne Telles, Donna Sedgwick and Leila Fernandez.

Boys winning similar MVS honors at their age levels were Jeff Schwarzer, Shane Brooks, Steve Weck, Derek Jones, Jay Robnett and David Oakes.

The following won Most Improved Swimmer honors: Brian Lund, Michele Lyon, Mike Odom, Gail Swanger, Don Porter, Carmelita Abramovitz, Barry Kimbrough, Jennifer Clark, Steve Friend and Lisa Clark.

The Ken Cochren Award for the most valuable and most inspirational swimmer on the team went to John Moffet. This was the second year in a row that Moffet has won this award.

Mother of the Year award went to Dolores Weck. Special presentations were made to Dolores and Chuck Weck for their efforts in helping make MBA run smoothly, and to Dottie and Tony Morandi for making the snack bar a success.

complaints that the football drills are too tough.

"That's when I have to tell them that I'm the coach and we have these drills so we can win," he explained.

Baker hopes that some of his players continue playing football at schools at home when they are paroled, but so far it hasn't happened, so far as he knows.

"I'm sure a few of the guys this year could go on to college and do well on the football field," he said. "But I'm still looking for the first guy to make it."

Baker views the Nelles football program not only as an athletic tour de force, but as an important rehabilitation effort.

"It's a chance for them to compete in the real world without any particular edge," he said. "It's something that takes self-sacrifice, discipline and effort and when they go out there and win, it's the first time that any of them have ever won anything."

This view is seconded by Victor Mack, superintendent of the Nelles School.

"The team is composed of young people of all races who are frequently at odds with each other in the institution. On the team these barriers break down and they work together as a team."

It's still too early to tell if Nelles will get its coveted post-season playoff bid, but Baker wants to be ready.

The team has been equipped with black jerseys, since the white jerseys are worn only by visiting teams. Last week, Baker ordered a complement of white jerseys, "so we can be prepared to play on the field of any school we may have to face."

Wisconsin fans get their wish

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — What sickened John Jardine's players most about his sudden resignation Monday was that some ill-mannered fans got their wish.

And Jardine himself acknowledged that an ugly scene after his University of Wisconsin football team lost a fourth successive game last Saturday was the main factor for his decision to quit after nearly eight seasons as head coach.

Several fans sitting near the tunnel connecting the field and locker rooms taunted Jardine with refrains of "Good-bye Jardine, Good-bye, Jardine, Good-bye Jardine, we're glad to see you go." The players also were jeered and some were pelted with apples and toilet paper.

"The fans pay their eight bucks and they can do whatever they want. I mean that sincerely," a red-eyed and drawn Jardine, 41, told a hastily arranged news conference.

"But what happened to my players really affected them," he said. "Some wanted to go back out in their shorts and do battle with those people. I had to break up the postgame press conference to stop them. I just said then, 'That's it.' I don't ever again want to see that.

"My stomach has not been too good lately, but the main thing was what happened right after the game," he said. "They can boo the coaches all they want. But I don't think players should ever be booed."

Jardine said that, in the interests of a smooth transition, he will coach the Badgers' last two games, against Iowa here Saturday and at Minnesota Nov. 19. Athletic Director Elroy Hirsch, who said he tried to persuade Jardine to stay, said a search for a successor would begin immediately.

Jardine, hired to succeed John Coatta in early 1970, brought respectability and excitement to a program that had a 3-26-1 record in Coatta's three seasons. But while Wisconsin has been among the nation's leaders in attendance for several years, Jardine's only winning record here was 7-4 in 1974.

His current team won its first five games against suspect opposition, but has been outscored 129-7 in successive defeats by Michigan, Michigan State, Ohio State and Purdue. His record at Wisconsin is 37-45-3.

Defensive tackle Tom Houston said he was sure the incident involving the fans Saturday had been the main factor in Jardine's decision.

"It was the reaction of the fans, and what that did to the players," Houston said. "He didn't want that for his family. We love him very much. He's a super guy who means a whole lot to us."

Defensive end Scott Erdmann deplored Saturday's incident.

"It was very low class," Erdmann said. "I'd rather have 10,000 real fans behind us than 80,000 like that. It gave me a gut rot feeling. It was like hearing someone in your neighborhood saying something bad about your father, and Coach Jardine is like a father to me."

Jardine did not disclose future plans, but said he will never coach again. He has been hospitalized twice this year for treatment of nervous tension, according to Hirsch.

Barons lose Sabourin

RICHFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Veteran right wing Gary Sabourin of the Cleveland Barons is scheduled to undergo a second operation on his right knee later this week and will be lost to the National Hockey League club for the remainder of the season.

Sabourin, 32, underwent the first operation to repair cartilage damage last winter, but has continued to have problems. He was on skates during the Barons' preseason training camp, but has not seen any action since the regular season began.

Aztecs hoping for bowl

SAN DIEGO (AP) — When San Diego State battles the highly rated Florida State football team Nov. 19, the outcome could lead to an invitation to a postseason bowl game.

Representatives from the Sun, Peach and Gator bowls plan to be at San Diego Stadium for the confrontation on the day that teams can begin accepting bowl bids.

Because of a 6-1 record, and a ranking of 15th among the nation's college teams in The Associated Press poll last week, Florida State is the main attraction for bowl scouts.

"If San Diego State would beat Florida State, I'd think they would have to be in somebody's picture," Gator Bowl chief Ted Emery said Monday.

San Diego State, despite a record of 7-1, isn't mentioned on anybody's bowl game or top 20 lists right now. But the Aztecs' last outing was an impressive 29-7 decision over Pacific, and in the last four games San Diego State has outscored its opponents 150-28.

"We really came together, we did some awfully good things," Aztec coach Claude Gilbert said of the Pacific game. "If we can tontinue to play the way we did Saturday, we'll be very pleased."

"I wouldn't want to make book on San Diego's chances," said the Peach Bowl's George Crumbly, "but we certainly would think about them if they could continue to win."

Almost every bowl game is watching Florida State, and a lot of people will be in San Diego that weekend trying to sign them, so San Diego State will be noticed if they play well," the Peach Bowl official said.

Niekro seeks Braves' job

ATLANTA (AP) — Veteran Atlanta Braves pitcher Phil Niekro says the team officials considering whether to make him the next manager of the National League team are worried about his ability to pitch and manage at the same time.

"The biggest thing everyone is worried about is whether I could pitch and manage on the same day. That's the big question," he said Monday following a meeting with Braves' owner Ted Turner and Bill Lucas, director of personal management.

"Bill and Ted and I strictly talked the managing end today. We talked about what coaches I would have working with me, pitchers, any trades I would make. We talked at length," the 39-year-old Niekro said.

"I still feel the same as I did when I said I wanted to manage," he added. "I haven't backed off at all."

Niekro, who has been with the Braves organization for 18 years, said he would make some surprising decisions if he were hired to fill the slot left open when Dave Bristol was fired last month.

"I would make some changes. I'm not apt to say what. The Braves have some good talent, but the changes I would make would surprise a few people," he said.

Niekro has stiff competition for the job, including minor league manager Ken Boyer, Braves Richmond farm team manager Tommie Aaron, and New York Yankees Coach Bobby Cox.

Cox, a former Braves farmhand and a Class AAA manager at Syracuse, is considered the frontrunner.

But Niekro said, "Lucas and Turner said nothing about it" (choosing Cox), and said he felt he was as much a contender as anyone.

"None have managed the big leagues, although you're looking at some AAA managing experience. We'll all keep our hopes up until they say who the manager is," he said. "I'll keep hoping until they make the final decision."

The new manager, no matter who it is, will not affect his pitching, Niekro said. "I'm going to pitch the same for one guy as the other. The manager has never made my play any different."

Powerlifting seminar set

Three members of the National AAU Championship powerlifting team will participate in a physical fitness seminar Saturday at 1 p.m. at the International Health Spa in Pomona.

The spa is located at 2449 N. Garey Ave. The event is free to the public.

Included in the powerlifters to be at the spa Saturday are locals Marvin Phillips, Louie Hernandez and Larry Kidney.

Phillips is the current world heavyweight record holder in the squat event with a lift of 810 pounds. Hernandez is the current state record holder in the 198-pound class deadlift, while Kidney is also a former record holder.

The three weight-lifters are all members of the Pomona Police Department.

For further information on the seminar, call 593-2583.

Market activity

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks turned mixed early Tuesday, although investors were encouraged by General Motors' record dividend declaration and indications the Federal Reserve Board has relaxed its credit policies. Trading was moderate.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off 1.99 points to 814.45 shortly before noon EST.The Dow has gained 15.59 points the past three sessions, including 6.50 Monday.

General Motors, a market pacesetter, heartened investors late Monday when it declared a $1 regular quarterly dividend, up from 85 cents, and a $2.25 extra dividend.

Early buying also was sparked by a growing belief the Fed, which has taken steps to force interest rates higher to counter a surge in the nation's money supply, has relaxed its hold.

But some investors were concerned about speculation OPEC nations would raise oil prices when they meet in Caracas, Venezuela in December. The increase is expected to be small, but it still would be inflationary.

Advances led declines, 611 to 480, among the 1,586 issues crossing the tape. The 495 unchanged issues reflected some investor uncertainty.

General Motors was the most active NYSE issue, up ½ to 68⅞. The stock gained 1½ Monday when it announced its dividend increase.

Middle South Utilities was the second most active issue, up ⅛ to 16½. Florida Power was third, unchanged at 30 in trading that included a block of 100,000 shares at 30.

Beech Aircraft, a 1⅝-point winner Monday, was ahead 1 and General Dynamics, which climbed ⅞ the previous session, was ahead ¾. The companies announced Monday they had terminated merger discussions.

PepsiCo was off ¼ in active trading. The firm Monday completed its acquisition of Pizza Hut.

Prices were higher in moderate trading of American Stock Exchange issues. Allied Thermal, trading for the first time since Friday, was ahead 4. Interpace Monday upped its tender offer for Allied to $30 a share. This was better than Jim Walter's $26-a-share bid.

Christiana Cos Inc.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (BW) — The Christiana Cos. Inc. announced earnings of $815,000, or 31 cents a share, for its first fiscal quarter ended Sept. 30.

Last year the company reported earnings of $335,000, or 12 cents per share, for the like period. Revenues for the quarter were $5,360,000 compared to revenues in the comparable 1976 period of $6,748,000.

"Christiana is pleased to report continued strong earnings following the record fiscal year ended June 30, said Martin Fenton Jr., chairman and president of Christiana. As long as the general economy remains steady, the company anticipates another record year in fiscal 1978, despite the inevitable quarterly earnings fluctuations which characterize our business."

Supreme Court to rule on nuclear liability

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, in a case the government says could determine the future of nuclear energy development in the United States, agreed Monday to decide whether power plant operators ever may be sued for more than $560 million for a nuclear accident.

The justices said they will review a decision by a federal judge in North Carolina that the liability ceiling approved by Congress is unconstitutional.

Congress passed the Price-Anderson Act in 1957 to help encourage private development of nuclear energy. Several amendments to the original legislation have upped the maximum amount of liability facing nuclear plant owners for a major nuclear accident or catastrophe.

U.S. District Judge James B. McMillan ruled last March that such a limit denies persons who might be injured in such a "nuclear incident" their right to due process and equal protection of the law.

Justice Department attorneys, appealing McMillan's ruling for the federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission, said it "could stand as a major impediment to further private development of nuclear energy in this nation."

Because available insurance is inadequate, the goverment said, power companies would not build plants if confronted with unlimited liability.

The trial judge's decision also was appealed by the Duke Power Co.

The controversy stems from a lawsuit filed by the Carolina Environmental Study Group against Duke Power involving two power plants under construction in the Charlotte, N.C., area.

The environmental group challenged the federal law limiting Duke Power's liability in accidents at the plants, and McMillan ruled that area residents "are threatened with certain injury of relatively minor nature, and with the reasonable likelihood of major or perhaps catastrophic injury, without assurance of adequate compensation."

In other matters Monday, the court:

LIBEL

The court declined to consider an appeal of a $214,000 libel award against TODAY, a newspaper published in Brevard County, Fla. The newspaper had asked the justices to rule that public officials and public figures are not entitled to punitive damages in libel suits.

FEDERAL REVIEW

The justices refused an Ohio prosecutor's request that it further limit the access of state prisoners to federal courts. The court declined to consider a case in which a federal appeals ordered a new trial for an accused rapist and murderer who contended he was denied the rights of legal counsel and protection against self-incrimination.

The Supreme Court ruled last year that prisoners who receive "full and fair" chances in state court to appeal convictions on claims that evidence against them was obtained through illegal searches do not have a right to carry such appeals to the federal level.

DOUBLE CHARGES

The court ruled 6-3 that a man convicted in a state court of robbing safe-deposit boxes in a Miami Beach hotel should not have been forced later to stand trial on federal charges stemming from the same crime.

The defendant argued that the double prosecution violated established federal policy and he was supported in that view by top Justice Department officials.

RV dealers see increased sales

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Recreational vehicle sales, which declined sharply after President Carter announced tougher energy policies last April, expects 1978 to be a record year for dollar volume, a spokesman has said.

David Forward, president of the Recreation Vehicle Industry Association, said during the weekend that 1978 sales would top 575,000, making it the second best year behind 1975's 582,000 sales. Forward's association represents most makers of major recreational vehicles.

People who postponed buying such vehicles after Carter's energy announcement were "back in the market now, and that pent-up demand should carry over well into 1978," Forward said.

"We'll continue to grow because people will demand our products," he added. "Increasing recreation time has caused people to want more ways to get out and away."

Forward said that although manufacturers were redesigning their campers, motor homes and travel trailers to save fuel, they were not making them smaller. He noted, however, that smaller motor homes have gained in sales, perhaps at the expense of larger ones.

Forward made his remarks during an interview at the Recreation Vehicle and Manufactured Housing Show at Dodger Stadium.

Business Mirror

Leisure time study revealing

NEW YORK (AP) — Many of us tenaciously believe the road to greater happiness is paved with leisure time, but a man who claims to know says the view is full of potholes.

John Robinson measured to the minute how people use their 24 hours. He convinced 1,244 urban and suburban individuals to keep diaries, and then he dissected and analyzed and correlated the results and asked for more.

The pattern is unmistakable: "Too much free time is a greater burden than to little free time." Robinson found that people least satisfied with life were those with the most time to exercise options or choices.

Further conclusions may be drawn from the evidence, but one that particularly intrigues Robinson, whose research was financed by National Science Foundation grants, is that free time might be an idolatrous god.

No, the work ethic isn't dead, but for many the goal of work is leisure — on evenings, weekends, vacations, retirement. It is the target of unions. Sociologists sometimes advocate it, advertising almost always. Leisure may in fact be the national ambition.

Robinson, a Ph. D., communications professor and director of communications research at Cleveland State University, maintains we ought to reflect more about what we do with our time. Perhaps keep a 24 hour diary.

His cross-section of Americans did that and then turned the sheets over to him. After years of computer analysis he recently produced "How Americans Use Time" (Praeger Publishers, New York).

While the individual respondents might have been surprised at their own revelations, Robinson probably wasn't any less so. Maybe you won't be either.

—The dominant difference in the way time-usage breaks down is along lines of sex. Only minimal differences result from age, income, region, education and the like. But 80 per cent of time given to housework-child rearing is by women.

The men simply do not contribute what seems to be a fair share aound the house. Even when the woman works outside the home, the man is unlikely to make a major contribution. And many women say they don't want his help.

With more women entering the labor force, there could be immediate consequences of this division of labor. If, for instance, women have less time for child rearing, and the men don't help, how will children be brought up?

—Americans are more likely than Europeans to spend time visiting, in sports activities and in watching television. About two to 2½ hours a day are spent before the TV set — strike that and make it read: With the TV set on.

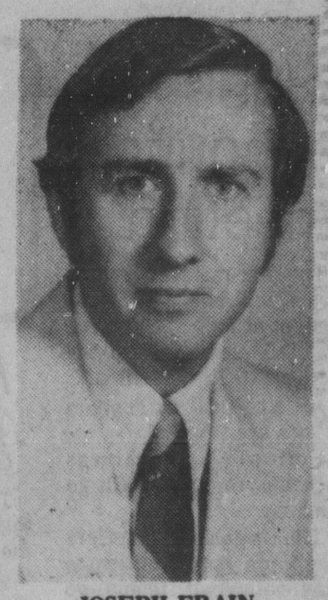
There is a reason for the choice of phrasing. Robinson is an inquisitive and wary person who once attached cameras to home television sets. Monitoring them, he often found the set on and the room empty.

People also divide their TV time, as they do other activities, with knitting, eating and, contradictory though it seems to be, reading newspapers, books or magazines. Their eyeballs, he says, are not always aimed where you think they are.

One-half hour of that TV time, fact, is secondary viewing. Only the French measure higher in this category, and that's because TV has become part of the French dinner hour, or two or three.

American men spend 40 minutes with newspapers, which makes them more avid newspaper readers than men in other nations, Robinson finds. But 14 of those minutes are secondary. For housewives the numbers are 21 and 10.

There is no limit to John Robinson's computer facts. This is only a fragment. But an observation rising out of the statistical mass is that most of everyone's day is structured — by work, sleep and travel.



JOSEPH FRAIN

Walnut man promoted by bank

JOSEPH R. FRAIN, of Walnut, has been promoted to systems development officer in Security Pacific Bank's Automated Data Processing Department. Frain was formerly project manager in the bank's systems development division. A native of Illinois and an alumnus of Cal State Los Angeles, he joined the bank as a trainee in 1969.

Pesticide developed

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Australian scientists have developed a new range of insecticides which preliminary tests indicate are among the most potent in the world and yet are harmless to humans and animals, Science Minister James Webster announced today.

Webster's statement said scientists of the government-financed Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization synthesized 18 new biodegradable pesticides called insecticidal esters and are now seeking companies to collaborate with them on further development and testing.

The minister said early tests show the new compounds to be effective against a wide range of insect pests, including the housefly, bushfly, fruit fly, mosquito, hide beetle, cluster caterpillar, granary weevil and flour beetle.

Trustee fees waived on accounts opened now through December 31, 1977.

Take advantage of Money Saving Retirement Plans

Now with new added deduction for non-wage earning spouse

Effective 1977, contributions to Individual Retirement Accounts may be made up to $1,750 jointly between both wage earner and non-wage earning spouse (or 15% of annual earned income up to $1,750). The amount is divided equally into two accounts in the name of each individual. Even though contributions may be made as late as 45 days after the end of your tax year you must open your account by the end of the year to allow for income tax deductions.

Start taking advantage of tax savings immediately. In addition to IRA, there is the Keogh account for the self-employed person, allowing federal contributions of 15% up to $7,500 (10% up to $2,500 for state taxes). Another tax benefit in addition to deduction of contributions, is the deferment of taxes on interest earnings. So the sooner you deposit your money the more interest you will earn, thus increasing the amount you save on your income taxes.

Ask us now about special arrangements that must be made to meet deadline of December 31, 1977.

Earn 7¾% and realize an annual yield of 8.06% by compounding daily.
IRA/KEOGH—no minimum balance—3-year term.
Federal regulations permit withdrawals from certificate accounts before maturity, but there is a substantial reduction in interest earnings.

Foothill Committee awards to be given

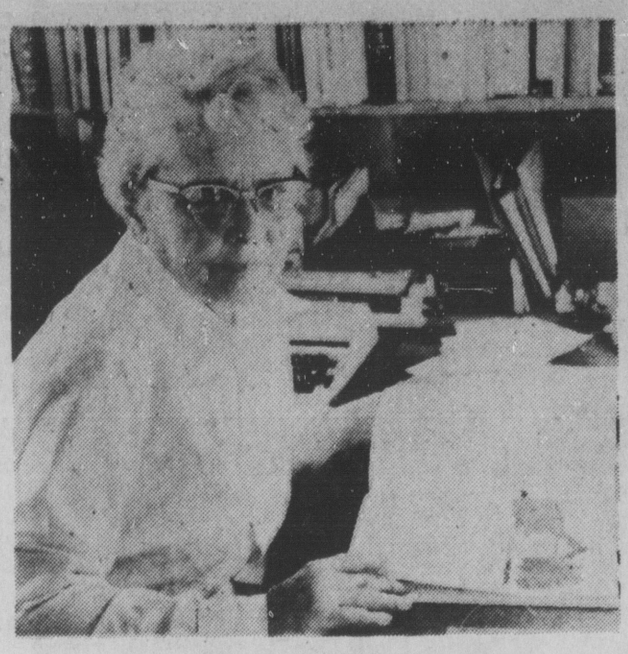
Two top awards will be the cause for celebration at the Foothill Philharmonic Committee's meeting at 10:30 a.m., Thursday in the home of Mrs. D. Kenneth Baker in Claremont.

The committee president, Mrs. Stanley Lawton of Glendora, will announce the Symphony Series Sweepstakes Connell Trophy award which was won for the third consecutive year by the Foothill membership for the largest number of new season ticket sales to the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra Music Center contests.

She will also acknowledge the achievement of Mrs. R. W. Weingartner, who individually sold more season tickets than anyone else in the 23 affiliate committees of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Association.

Mrs. Weingartner will receive an expense paid weekend for two in San Francisco with two box seats to the San Francisco Opera.

The pre-lunch program will be a lecture-recital by Sister Nancy Fierro, pianist and professor of music at Immaculate Heart College in Los Angeles. She has performed and lectured on women's music in Europe and in this country. She will speak briefly about women composers and the obstacles faced by them, and will follow with a performance of works written by celebrated women composers.



MRS. ESTHER BOULTON BLACK

Illustrated lecture planned Saturday

Pi Lambda Theta, Alpha Iota Chapter, will present an illustrated lecture at its Saturday meeting at Rancho Cucamonga County Library, 9191 Baseline Road, Cucamonga.

The lectures, which begins at 2 p.m. will feature Esther Boulton Black, who will impersonate Dona Merced of Rancho Cucamonga. Douglas Black will man the projector as Mrs. Black recounts the tragic and dramatic events of Dona Merced's life.

Mrs. Black wrote the historical account of Dona Merced in the book "Rancho Cucamonga and Dona Merced" which this year won the Ella Victoria Dobbs award for outstanding published research.

Following the presentation by the Blacks, chapter members will proceed by caravan to Casa de Rancho Cucamonga, 7869 Vineyard Ave., Cucamonga. Tea will be served by Ruth Goodrich, Edith Frances Eells, Margaret Regnery, Glenice Perrin and Rhea Wenger.

Members should call Louise Perkins at 626-1984 for reservations.

Hospital auxiliary schedules luncheon

Dr. Merle E. Hausladen, director of in-patient service, Mental Health Department of San Bernardino County Hospital, will be the speaker at the noon luncheon meeting of San Antonio Community Hospital Auxiliary when the group meets in Aita Auditorium, Nov. 21.

A graduate of the University of Texas-Medical Branch, Dr. Hausladen was formerly in private practice in Riverside and has served as a clinical instructor and consultant at various hospitals in Southern California.

His topic will be "Mental Health Delivery — Now and in the Future."

Interested persons in the community are invited to attend. Reservations should be made by Nov. 17 by calling the hospital auxiliary office at 985-2811.

Bazaar, luncheon planned

The Young Ladies' Institute of Pomona will hold its annual Christmas bazaar and luncheon Saturday at Orlando's in Pomona.

The bazaar and social hour will begin at 11:30 a.m. and a buffet luncheon will be served at 12:30 p.m.

A selection of handmade Christmas decorations, centerpieces, baked goods and gifts will be available for purchase.

In charge of the event are Mrs. William Crow and Mrs. Herbert Ehler. Other chairmen are Mmes. Matt Markey, Henry Bastien, Tony Recupero and Norman Reininger.

Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Andy Korientz, 629-6061, or Mrs. Carl Holzeberger, 622-4246.

Dinner charted by BPW

The Montclair Heights Business and Professional Women's Club has completed plans for a membership dinner to be held Thursday at the Phoenix restaurant, 9645 Central Ave., Montclair. The social hour will begin at 6:30 p.m.

The program will include three speakers. Janet Wilson, San Orco District membership chairman, will discuss membership. Debra Derho Misumi will discuss a unique approach to women's fitness and self protection. Michele Rosas, Girls Stat representative from Montclair High School, will outline her experiences while attending Girls State seminar.

For dinner reservations call 981-4811.

Joyce Brothers

Unhealthy environment

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: I've been married for ten years and my husband has always been a very excitable man. If something goes wrong at his office, or if there's a lot of traffic on the way home, he may explode if dinner isn't ready on time. When this happens, he sometimes hits me. He's never hit the children. I'd never stand for that and he knows it. I've gotten used to his mean streak. Not that I like it, but I don't see there's much I can do about it. Last week, he went on a rampage. I ended up with a black eye and a swollen arm. My neighbor was shocked when I told her. She said I should report him. Since he doesn't bother the kids, I don't know if I should. — A.Y.

DEAR A.Y.: Your husband's actions are very destructive to your children even though he may never hit them. After all, they are aware that a man they should love and respect is beating their mother. It's bound to have a profound emotional and psychological effect. This is an extremely unhealthy environment for your family.

I believe you should try to reason with your husband when he's not angry. Tell him that you will not tolerate physical abuse. If he attacks you, call for help. Call the police, and if they take no action, then take the children and get out of the house. Go to a neighbor's, to a hotel, to the police station, or to a community service organization in your area.

Children who witness violence in the home grow up believing that violence is the acceptable way to cope with problems. Children model themselves on their parents. Take action immediately to protect them and yourself.

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: My husband is a professional athlete and our 14-year-old son is also deeply involved in sports. They both suffer so much when they lose, it upsets me terribly and I find it difficult to handle. My husband often goes off by himself and won't talk to anyone in the family for days. His temper often gets out of hand when he loses. He becomes angry over the slightest thing, and verbally abuses me and our son. There's no joy living with this kind of rage and temperament. I can see my son taking on the same attitudes and I don't know if I can cope with two males who behave like children everytime they lose. M.J.

DEAR M.J.: Unless your husband changes his behavior, you can expect to have an increasing problem with your son. Children imitate their parents who are their role models. This is especially true when the father is in a profession the sun may aspire to.

It would be ideal if your son or husband could put more emphasis on competing against himself, but I realize this is something over which you have little control. A person's goal should be to do better than he did before as this provides the greatest impetus for growth. It's the pleasure of playing the game, of participating and stretching oneself that should provide the interest in almost any activity.

Dr. Lee Salk, professor of psychology in pediatrics and psychiatry at the Cornell University Medical College, says the attitude of the adult is the key to whether a child develops a sense of his own integrity. People have more difficult cooperating than competing in life.

Your husband is setting a bad example of sportsmanship and team play. Try to talk to him and let him know what he's doing to his son.

Snedeker-Logue vows are said

MRS. BRADFORD SNEDEKER

Miss Toni Joleyn Logue of Pomona and Bradford Wayne Snedeker of La Verne were married in the First Church of God in Pomona.

The daugnter of Eugene Logue and Mrs. Patricia Sanborn and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Snedeker were wed in an afternoon ceremony by the Rev. C. A. Peterson.

Honor attendant was Miss Roberta Franklin of Alta Loma. Bridesmaids were Miss Lee Ann Coogan of Agoura, Miss Betty Ann Snedeker of La Verne, Theresa and Diane Arballo of Pomona, Vicki Logue of Pomona and Susan Haynes of La Verne.

Standing as best man was Jeff Bennett of La Verne. Ushers were Ryss Tyner of Chino, Jeff Hill of La Verne, Terry Logue, Alex Arballo of Pomona and John Haynes of La Verne.

Following the rite, a reception was held at the church.

When the couple returns from a wedding trip to San Diego they will establish a home in La Verne.

Meeting planned

The subject, "Your Health, Who's in Charge?" will be addressed by Dr. Ruth Harmer when the Claremont Branch of the American Association of University Women meets at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, in the Bidwell Forum of Glendora Library and Cultural Center at 140 S. Glendora Ave., Glendora.

Arrangement for the program have been made by Muriel Sasaki and Patricia Prather.

Dr. Harmer has, through her writings, been instrumental in awakening a reconsideration of our attitudes toward our personal health and well being. She has also been a precipitating agent in the development of innovations in medical care delivery systems.

She has been a professor of English and modern languages for 17 years at Cal Poly Pomona. In 1977 Dr. Harmer was chosen Cal Poly's outstanding professor and in 1976 she was named volunteer of the year for her work in cooperatives by the Los Angeles Human Relations Committee. She earned her B.A. degree from Barnard College, her M.A. from Columbia University and her Ph.D. from the University of Southern California. All women holding baccalaureate degrees are eligible for membership in AAUW.

Piano recital slated

Pianist Alice Shapiro will perform at the Claremont Colleges' Faculty House, 701 North College Way, at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. This will be the third in a series of eight Sunday afternoon concerts covering the complete 32 Beethoven Sonatas. The series is appropriately called "Strictely Beethoven."

The program will include Sonata in A Major, No. 2, Sonata quasi una Fantasi in C Sharp Minor, No. 2, Sonata in G Major, No. 1 and Sonata in C Major.

Tea and conversation will follow the performance in the parlor-like atmosphere of the Faculty House Lounge.

TERESA ZYLIS-GARA will sing Richard Strauss' "Four Last Songs" with the Los Angeles Philharmonic in the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center Thursday, Friday and Sunday. Zubin Mehta will lead the orchestra in "Don Quixote," by Strauss, and "Till Eulenspiegel."

'Lady Julie'

LVC offers Strindberg

The Theater Company of La Verne College will present August Strindberg's "Lady Julie" in the Dailey Theater at 8 p.m. Nov. 18 and 19. Admission is 50 cents.

The cast, headed by Carole Harmer, Debra Steckel and David A. Glasa, includes a large dance chorus. John R. Woodruff directs.

Strindberg's tale is that of the confrontation of Lady Julie, the last of a played-out line of an aristocratic family, and Jean, her father's valet, who vacilates between love of the heights and hatred of those who have already achieved them.

Jean is played by Glasa, who is chairman of the Theater Company. In the past three seasons, Glasa has been seen in major and supporting roles in "The Enchanted," "The Devil's Disciple," "Desire Under the Elms," "Night Must Fall" and "An Inspector Calls." Glasa also designed the lighting for this performance of "Lady Julie."

Miss Harmer will alternate in the roles of Julie and Kristin. She is a LV-Capa student returning to the classroom this year after long training and practice in ballet. She was seen last month in the LVC production of "An Inspector Calls" and acts as the theater's wardrobe mistress.

Alternating with Harmer in the roles of Julie and Kristin is Debra Steckel. She is also a member of the Theater Company board of directors. She is a native of Anchorage, Alaska, where she is actively engaged in children's theater.

Andrea Wagner, the set designer, newly arrived from Bay Area theaters, has provided the setting for the play's eerie, night-long twilight of Midsumer Eve.

Gossett to star in cop film

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Louis Gossett Jr. and Joe Don Baker star in "To Kill a Cop," a four-hour movie for NBC.

Gossett plays an exiled radical leader who returns to the United States and hopes to start a revolution by killing policemen. Baker is a maverick chief of detectives.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS CALLING FOR BIDS
POMONA UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT
ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT ADMINISTRATION
PROJECT NO. 07-51-26806

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Pomona Unified School District of Los Angeles County, California, acting by and through its Governing Board, hereinafter referred to as the District, will receive up to, but not later than 3:00 P.M. on the 1st day of December, 1977 sealed bids for the award of a contract for:

MULTI-PURPOSE BUILDING AT MARSHALL JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

All bids shall be made on a bid form furnished by the Architect and shall include all EDA forms and requirements.

Bids shall be received in the office of the Assistant Superintendent of Business, Pomona Unified School District, 800 South Garey Avenue, Pomona, California and shall be opened and publicly read at the above stated time and place.

Each bid must conform and be responsive to the contract documents, copies of which are now on file in the office of the Architect, Cashion-Horie, Architects, Inc., 720 North Avenue, Pomona, California and the District Administration office, above address. Plans and specifications and all pertinent contract documents may be obtained for bidding at the office of the Architect, upon execution in writing the form "Acknowledgement of Receipt of Plans and Specifications." This form required the payment of $50.00 by the bidder to the District if bidder fails to return the plans and specifications in good condition within 10 days after the opening of bids.

Attention is directed to the provisions in Section 1777.5 (Chapter 1411, Statutes of 1968) and 1777.5 of the Labor Code concerning the employment of apprentices by the Contractor or any subcontractor under him. Pursuant to the California Labor Code, Part 7, Chapter 1, Article 2, Sections 1770, 1773 and 1773.1, the Director of Industrial Relations has ascertained the general prevailing rate of wages and employer payments for health and welfare, vacation, pension and similar purposes applicable to the work to be done. Said rate and scale are on file with the District, and copies will be made available to any interested party on request. The general prevailing wage rates as determined by the Secretary of Labor, U.S. Department of Labor, pursuant to the provisions of the Davis-Bacon Act wage decision applicable for this project location are incorporated herein by reference, a copy of which is included in the contract documents. The minimum wage rates for this project shall be not less than the higher of the Federal or State rate by trade. Contractor shall post a copy of the above wage rates at each jobsite.

Each bid shall be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check or bid bond for ten percent (10%) of the amount of the bid made payable to the order of the School District.

Said check or bond shall be given as a guarantee that the bidder will enter into the contract if awarded to him. In the event that bidder refuses to execute said contract, the use by the public of said structure will be delayed, and the public will suffer great damage. From the nature of the case, it would be extremely difficult and impractical to fix said amount of damage. Therefore, the District and the Bidder agree that the above sum shall be paid to the District under the condition above set forth as liquidated damages and not as a forfeiture. If a bond is submitted, the issuing company shall not exceed their United States Treasury limit.

The District reserves the right to reject any or all bids and waive any irregularities or informalities in any bid or in the bidding.

No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of sixty (60) days after the date set for opening thereof.

This project is wholly or partly funded by the Economic Development Administration (EDA) of the Department of Commerce under the Local Public Works Capital Development Act of 1977 (Pub. L. 95-28), and as such includes binding Federal requirements not normally a part of District's contracts. This law and EDA regulations thereunder require this agency to assure that at least ten percent of the amount of each grant of funds be expended for contracts with and/or supplies from minority business enterprises. The grant to this agency may be terminated by EDA for breach of any of the terms of this assurance. Therefore, by submitting a bid, the bidder agrees to comply strictly with the terms and conditions of this asurance. Total grant amount for this project is $212,600.00.

As an aid to bidders seeking minority subcontractors and suppliers, a copy of the OMBE (Office of Minority Business Enterprises) Funded Organizations Directory is included in the bid package.

A pre-bid conference to discuss the ramifications of the Federal requirements is scheduled as indicated on page 5 of "Minority Business Enterprises Requirements" in the contract documents. All interested parties are urgently advised to attend.

Bidders are advised that once underway, the Federal Government will monitor the contract to assure itself that its requirements are being compiled with and will use its findings to determine if any portion of the grant due at the time will paid to the District. The Contractor shall understand that noncompliance may result in loss of any grant monies due and cancellation of the contract.

MOSCOW CELEBRATES

Fireworks explode over Moscow Monday night as the festively lighted city celebrated the 60th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution. Thousands of people line bridge in foreground.

Hint Russ nuclear offer will lead to treaty banning all underground tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Soviet offer to halt so-called "peaceful" nuclear explosions probably will lead to a treaty banning all undergound tests, a high-level Carter administration official says.

But the treaty will fall short of Kremlin desires in at least one area, he said. The United States will reject a previously unrevealed facet of the offer, a Soviet request for an understanding that testing for civilian purposes be allowed to resume in three years or so.

Even without that concession by the United States, however, the Soviets are expected to agree to a ban.

In fact, the official said, the Russians had no major experiments planned during that three-year period anyway.

The Russians have tested underground nuclear explosions for such projects as reversing the courses of rivers. For years, they wanted these blasts to be allowed even while prohibiting underground weapons tests.

But administration arms experts say the distinction between a "peaceful" and a military test is difficult to verify. Beyond that, they say, it is almost impossible to separate military benefits derived from such a test from the peaceful benefits.

For these reasons, the United States — unsuccessfully until now — has pushed for an accord with the Russians banning both kinds of explosions.

Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev made the offer of a comprehensive ban in a speech last week before the Supreme Soviet, the nation's parliament, in a session marking the 60th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance quickly welcomed the offer as a "major step" toward a comprehensive test ban and "a downturn in the arms race."

The treaty would supersede two Ford administration agreements prohibiting underground tests above 150 kilotons, the equivalent of 150,000 tons of TNT. Those treaties are still awaiting Senate ratification.

Tests in the atmosphere, outer space and under water already are outlawed.

Brezhnev did not make clear in his speech whether he was offering to halt all underground tests indefinitely.

British gird for strike by firemen

LONDON (AP) — Thousands of soldiers began emergency firefighting training today to meet the threat of a strike next Monday by Britain's 43,000 firemen.

The 300 delegates to the Fire Brigades Union conference voted nearly 2-to-1 Monday to strike unless the government allows a 30 percent pay raise, three times the amount permitted by the government's anti-inflation ceiling of 10 percent.

Wages of firemen below officer level range from $5,867.76 to $7,234.23 a year, and they work a 48-hour week.

Home Secretary Merlyn Rees told the House of Commons: "The government will have no alternative but to use all possible methods to protect people's lives."

There were indications Northern Ireland's 500 firemen would join the strike despite the possibility that the Irish Republican Army would intensify its firebomb campaign, which has caused damage estimated at $36 million this year.

The only previous firemen's strike in Britain occurred in Glasgow in 1973 and lasted two weeks. The army supplied emergency service.

The firemen's union is one of many — including the coal miners, railwaymen, power plant workers, auto workers and seamen — seeking wage increases above the government ceiling. The unions are angry because the government refuses to lift the two-year-old ceiling even though North Sea oil is beginning to revive the battered economy.

The government says that the inflation rate is still 15.5 percent and must be brought down further.

In other labor disputes:

—Leaders of 4,000 power plant workers offered to end a two-week-old wildcat strike if the government guaranteed that the strikers' demands for higher pay would be discussed and that they would be paid for the time they were on strike.

The government did not respond immediately. The strike is causing rotating power shutdowns across the nation.

—The government said it would resist "any excessive pay demand" by the 260,000 coal miners at negotiations starting next week. The miners, whose strike helped bring down the last Conservative Party government in 1974, are demanding a 90 per cent increase.

Small quake jars La Habra

LA HABRA (AP) — Residents in this residential community of 43,000 were jolted from their sleep this morning by a small earthquake measuring 3.1 on the Richter scale, authorities reported.

Phyllis Brewster of the Caltech Seismological Laboratory said the quake occurred at 2:52 a.m. and was centered two miles southest of La Habra, just five miles north of the Los Angeles county line.

A spokeswoman from the city clerk's office said she was awakened by the jolt and suspected the worst.

"I thought I was going through that one we had several years ago," said Diane Parker. "I was sound asleep and all of a sudden I felt this jolt and the bed started rocking."

Police said there were no reports of injury or damage.

Dutch arrest three recover most money

UTRECHT, Netherlands (AP) — Police said today they have recovered most of the $1.6 million haul from last week's armored car robbery in this central Dutch city and have arrested three suspects.

Carter will make energy plea in TV talk tonight

WARM GREETING

Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., embraces Golda Meir during a meeting in Humphrey's Capitol Hill office Monday. Mrs. Meir served as Israel's prime minister.

Pollster says he can restore image, if Congress passes bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's pollster says the president's falling ratings in public opinion samplings will bounce back if Congress passes an energy bill to the president's liking.

Carter is making a nationally broadcast speech at 6 p.m. PST tonight to push for his energy package, which is now in a House-Senate conference committee. The speech will be broadcast live on all three major networks.

"The president knew from the start that energy was a politically unpopular issue with everybody," said pollster Pat Caddell in a recent interview.

"But it was a necessary initiative, and if he gets the bill he wants, then he can say that despite all the talk about energy all these years, he was the first president to really do something about it."

On Monday, the White House also announced that Carter's scheduled overseas trip to nine countries has been postponed so he could devote himself to energy legislation.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance said Carter told heads of state that "his personal involvement was vital to the development of a sound energy legislation." Powell said the trip might be rescheduled "sometime after Christmas."

Carter's speech is coming on the heels of a Harris poll released Monday showing that a majority of those polled feel the president is not doing a good job after nine months in office.

The poll, taken the week of Oct. 8-16, indicated that 50 percent of 1,533 adults questioned gave the president a negative overall job rating, while 48 percent were pleased.

In July, Carter's Harris rating was 59-37 percent positive. By October, the president's rating for restoring confidence in the government dropped 20 points and now is 51-44 percent negative, Harris said.

"I think the president feels comfortable with the fact that there's a popularity decline," said Caddell. He said Carter himself had predicted a 15 percent drop because of his energy proposals.

"The president knows that the public has a right to withhold judgment of his performance until things really get done," Caddell said. "He is the least nervous of anybody about his ratings in the polls."

Caddell said the biggest problem facing Carter in his appeal to the people is getting the country to believe that the energy problem is real and important.

"The energy package simply will not work if people don't see the problem," said Caddell, "because the people are the only ones who can turn down the thermostats and drive less."

Since Carter has been in office, Caddell's firm, Cambridge Survey Research, has prepared surveys on a variety of topics for the White House.

These surveys, said Caddell, "are just another tool on how best to restore the credibility of the presidency and build up the kind of confidence in his leadership so he can truly lead the country."

As for Carter's confidence in Caddell, "He seems to still have the same confidence in me as ever," said Caddell. "I have not misled him, and I have not been wrong."

Suspect hospitalized

Four of berserk gunman's 10 victims are paralyzed

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A former Internal Revenue Service auditor accused of wounding 10 persons in a citywide shooting spree was said to be depressed by unemployment and marital problems.

Four of the wounded were in critical condition today and paralyzed, maybe permanently, from spinal wounds, doctors said.

Carlos Poree, 35, had been acting differently since last Dec. 17, when he was fired from his $19,332-a-year government job, said his mother-in-law, Dorothy Broussard. The IRS will not say why Poree was fired.

Three weeks ago Poree's wife, Diane, 34, left him.

Diane and her father, Alvin Broussard, 61, were the first victims Monday. Shot at Broussard's house in a quiet section of uptown New Orleans near Tulane University, both are partially paralyzed with wounds of the neck.

Police said that after Poree shot them, he drove three miles to mid-city and gunned down eight apparent strangers.

Poree was booked with 10 counts of attempted murder, one count of resisting arrest, three counts of simple battery on police officers and one count of armed robbery — the alleged theft of a car at gunpoint.

Poree was hospitalized with serious eye injuries and several facial cuts suffered in a scuffle with police at the city jail.

Police Sgt. Tony Buonagura said Poree attacked an officer and that Poree's face hit the floor in the ensuing fight. Buonagura said the prisoner was not beaten.

Three tourists were wounded in a small French Quarter park after Poree allegedly stopped his car in the middle of Bourbon Street, walked into the park and fired his .38-caliber pistol.

In stable condition were Henry Luther, 67, Gadsden, Ala., and Richard Quarles, 26, Nashville, Tenn. Douglas Martin, 20, also of Nashville was in good condition.

Police said half an hour later and more than a mile away, Poree commandeered a car. A few minutes later, three other men were wounded, two of them critically, in the office of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, a large stock brokerage firm in the business district.

Two men walking by outside were shot on the sidewalk.

Robert Barrell, 45, of Metairie, La., and George Held of New Orleans were listed in critical condition with severed spinal cords. Barrell was paralyzed from the chest down; Held from the neck down.

In stable condition were Wesley Russel, 30, Kenner, La., wounded in the right eye; Alben Carlson, 30, Bay St. Louis, Miss., wounded in the chest; and Hans Anderson of Norway, wounded in the neck.

"He didn't say a word. It was just bang, bang!" said Joyce Saylan, a secretary who was headed out to lunch with her young son when the gunman brushed past her on the way inside.

"The guy walked in the door, went down the hall and started shooting ... Everybody thought it was a joke with a cap pistol because it was so quick. Then everybody started screaming."

Good marks for governor, but signs of discontent

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — About 80 percent of the Californians in a poll released today gave Gov. Edmond G. Brown Jr. fair to good marks after three years in office, but there were signs of some discontent.

In his California Poll, Mervin Field said just 15 percent of the survey of 1,058 adults thought Brown was doing a "poor job," compared to 39 percent who rated his job performance "good" and 41 percent "fair."

But when asked to respond to more specific statements about the state's chief executive, those surveyed displayed some increasingly negative criticism, Field said.

About 51 percent agreed that "for all the talk about how well Jerry Brown is liked, he hasn't really accomplished anything important as governor." A little more than one year ago, 38 percent registered the same opinion, compared to 54 percent who disagreed.

Another 44 percent in the latest survey agreed Brown wasn't "providing public leadership of the kind needed to get things done." The 1976 poll found 31 percent of similar mind and 62 percent in disagreement.

PROTESTING FARMERS

California farmers walk a picket line in Sacramento protesting the 160-acre limit of federal irrigation water. Farmers contend that enforcement of the limit would put many of the state's small family farms out of business.

Mysterious object may be solar system's 10th planet

Discovered between Saturn and Uranus

PASADENA (AP)—A 36-year-old astronomer who discovered two of Jupiter's 14 moons now has found what may be the 10th — and by far the tiniest — planet in the solar system.

But no decision has been made on whether the object is indeed a planet or something else, Dennis Meredith, a spokesman for the California Institute of Technology, said Monday.

"It's not an asteroid, a moon of another planet or a comet," Meredith said of the object discovered last Tuesday by Charles Kowal. "But I think the problem with calling it a planet is that astronomers have never run across anything so small with all the orbital characteristics of planet."

Kowal discovered the object as he used a microscope to look for differences in photographs of the heavens taken on consecutive nights.

The object he found is between 100 and 400 miles in diameter and is orbiting the sun between Saturn and Uranus on the same plane as all other planets in the solar system. It is 1.5 billion miles from earth and takes an estimated 115 years to circle the sun.

Saturn and Uranus are the sixth and seventh planets from the sun.

"Kowal is emphatic that he is not ready to call it a planet," said Meredith. "This is up to the fraternity of astronomers to decide. But if it is a planet, it is by far the smallest."

He said the final decision as to whether it is a planet will be made by the Smithsonian Astrophysical Laboratory in Cambridge, Mass.

Kowal, who graduated with a bachelor's degree in astronomy from the University of Southern California in 1961, has worked since at Caltech's Hale Observatory, seeking new ojects in the sky.

He discovered the 13th and 14th moons of Jupiter and located 80 supernovas, the brilliant but momentary explosions of dying stars.

Meredith termed Kowal "a very unusual man" because the highest degree he holds is his bachelor's degree from USC.

Discrimination suit settlement costs Edison Co. $700,000

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Southern California Edison Co. has agreed to settle a five-year-old discrimination case by paying some 1,700 female and minority employees a total of $700,000.

The consent decree filed Monday in U.S. District Court ends two years of litigation over job bias charges brought by the federal Equal Employment Opportunities Commission and private plaintiffs up to five years ago.

Payments to the employees will range from $200 to nearly $10,000, said Edison attorney Tom Taber.

In addition, an EEOC spokesman said, special hearings for former employees may bring the total to $1 million.

The original charges that the company was discriminating against women and minorities in job placement, promotion, testing, discharge and benefits were brought by EEOC Commissioner Ethel Bent Walsh in 1972. A group of 21 black and Spanish-surnamed plaintiffs filed a private class action suit two years later.

Taber said hearings probably will begin next March to determine whether certain classes of former employes — such as blacks who were fired and women who were terminated because of pregnancy — are entitled to benefits.

The utility also agreed to establish a pilot project giving women physical training for more strenuous jobs, setting hiring and promotion goals for women and minorities and giving special transfer and training opportunities to employees who allegedly suffered discrimination in job assignments.

All attorneys in the case agreed Edison had changed its policies in 1972 when it entered into an affirmative action agreement with the state Fair Employment Practices Commission.

Huey Newton to stand trial for two murders

OAKLAND (AP) — Implicated by the testimony of two prostitutes, Black Panther leader Huey Newton will stand trial on charges he murdered an Oakland streetwalker and pistol whipped his tailor.

Oakland Municipal Court Judge J. Robert Friborg ordered Newton Monday to stand trial on the charges and set Nov. 21 as the date for his arraignment in Superior Court. Meanwhile, he will remain free on $80,000 bail.

Friborg's order came over objections by defense attorney Sheldon Otis that testimony from the two prostitutes who implicated Newton in the Aug. 6, 1974, slaying was not credible.

Testifying against Newton at a preliminary examination were Raphaelle Gary, also known as "Crystal Gray," and Michelle Jenkins, also known as "Candy." Both placed Newton at the scene of the murder of Kathleen Smith, 17, a fellow prostitute.

Newton also is charged with beating his middle-aged tailor, Preston Callins, in a separate incident ten days after the murder.

La Verne backs water bond issue on today's ballot

The La Verne City Council, in an 11th hour action, Monday threw its support behind the $26 million water bond issue which is before voters of the Pomona Valley Municipal Water District today.

The vote was 4-0 with Councilman Robert Neher abstaining. Neher said he felt the endorsement was not for the council to make but for individual voters at the polls.

The resolution was introduced by Councilman Mel Belcher, who said La Verne has "always been in favor of the bond issue but never officially endorsed it. Tonight is the last chance to take official action."

Mayor Mike M. Morales said the valley needed the additional water. "If we don't get the system we are in trouble."

Nixon estate to be opened to tourists

SAN CLEMENTE (AP) — The grounds of former President Richard Nixon's 22-acre San Clemente estate will be opened to tourists for the first time during a one-day charity event this winter, a San Clemente Chamber of Commerce official says.

The bus tours, set for Feb. 26, 1978, were announced Tuesday by Alex Goodman, executive manager of the chamber of commerce. He described them as a fund-raising and educational venture celebrating this seaside city's 50th anniversary.

State briefs

'One for the road' thief

LOS ANGELES (AP)—How do you celebrate a successful bank robbery?

One Los Angeles man decided to to cap off an $896 heist from a downtown Lloyds Bank branch Monday by strolling around the corner to a bar and buying drinks for himself and the house.

But police said a teller had trailed the man to the bar and waved down a passing squad car.

Police said they recovered $874 of the loot and arrested Andrew McLemore, 33, who was booked for investigation of bank robbery.

The Waldorf bar got the rest of the money, $22, which went to pay for drinks.

Wild horse round-up

SAN DIEGO (AP) - County Humane Society officers turned cowboy for awhile and rounded up eight abandoned and underfed wild horses who were found on a five acre spread in the Jamacha area.

The land, according to owner Bob Martin, had been recently leased to a couple for use as a distribution center for the government-sponsored wild horse adoption program. But the owners, Martin said Monday, had abandoned the property and the horses.

Sierra Club against LNG

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Citing questions of safety and economy, Sierra Club directors have voted to oppose construction of large-scale tanker terminals to import liquefied natural gas.

The directors voted 11-3 Sunday to support a moratorium on site approval for LNG terminals. It was the first time the 147,000-member club has set a policy on the issue.

The club urged that greater emphasis be placed on building insulation and solar energy for heating buildings and water as an alternative to increased LNG imports.

Manufacturer fined

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state Division of Industrial Safety has fined a Los Angeles area manufacturer $1,000 for using a cancer-causing agent without required safeguards for employees.

The division said Monday it shut down Rubber Engineering of California in Irwindale last Thursday until safety measures are taken.

The firm, which has six employees, was cited for using a chemical known as "4-4'-methylene bis" in an open vessel during a manufacturing process, rather than in the required closed vessel, the division said.

Innocent murder plea

SAN BERNARDINO (AP) — A former ice cream vendor on probation from a sex perversion conviction has pleaded innocent to new charges that he murdered and mutilated two young women.

Municipal Court Judge Theodore Krumm Monday set a preliminary hearing date of Nov. 22 for Andrew E. Robertson of Colton.

The 32-year-old was arrested last Thursday after the bodies of the two women were found within two weeks, both disemboweled and with their breasts partially cut off.

Karen Litzau, 20, of Enid, Okla., was found Oct. 20 near Beaumont, and Kimberly Gano, 19, of San Bernardino was found Nov. 1 west of Yucaipa.

Robertson was sentenced to one year in jail in August 1976 for holding a knife to the throat of a 20-year-old woman near Ontario and forcing her to perform oral sex. He was released from jail this year and put on probation for three years.

Says Brown aide

Irrigation limit could kill off family farms

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Brown administration's top farm official says proposed federal rule changes on the 160-acre limit for federal irrigation water are too restrictive and would hurt family farms.

Richard Rominger, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s cabinet-level food and agriculture director, also told a U.S. Department of the Interior hearing Monday that the reclamation law of 1902 should not apply to the Imperial Valley.

"I believe, and have so advised the governor, that the proposed regulations ... are so restrictive as to make it unlikely most family farmers could survive in these times ...." Rominger said.

Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus, on orders from a judge, wrote rules that would tighten enforcement of the 160-acre limit for farms receiving federal water. One rule would require the farmer to live within 50 miles of the farm. Another would use a lottery to select buyers of surplus land.

Rominger told reporters that Brown approved his statement, and told him, "That's fine, Rich. Go ahead and say it."

Elisabeth Coleman, Brown's press secretary, said Rominger was speaking for Brown only when he said he was "not sure that 160 acres is a magic number" and the law should be reevaluated "in the light of present-day factors."

"The rest is Rominger's statement and was approved as Rominger's statement. Consider the rest as approved by the govenor — for Rominger," Ms. Coleman said. She did not know when Brown would take a stand.

So Brown, who has been badgered recently by the California Farm Bureau Federation to take a stand, did not put his name on Rominger's comments that the proposed rules are "too restrictive" or "unreasonable" and the Imperial Valley should be exempt.

Imperial Valley farmers claimed exemption under an agreement with a secretary of interior in the 1930s. But a federal appeals court recently ruled that the law must be enforced in the valley.

About 1,000 persons, mostly farmers and water district officials, applauded Rominger's statement which underscored earlier testimony by farmers, water district officials and the state Chamber of Commerce.

Supporters of the proposed rules were disappointed by Rominger's statement.

Chinese sight what could be new comet

TOKYO (AP) — A Chinese observatory sighted "a fastmoving, blurred celestial body, possibly a new comet," on Nov. 3-4, the Hsinhua news agency reported today.

The official Chinese agency said the Tzuchinshan observatory in Nanking reported the celestial body had a brightness of 13.5 magnitude. A magnitude of more than 6 is not visible to the naked eye.

War on alcoholism was lauded by the Upland City Council Monday at 7:04 p.m.

At 7:06 p.m., the council approved several other items which included four liquor outlet applications.

Councilmen awarded James Pollard of the West End Toxic Abuse Service a plaque as the meeting opened for his work with alcoholics.

Pollard estimated there are 3,204 Upland residents suffering from alcoholism out of an estimated 62,069 in San Bernardino County.

Two minutes later, a consent calendar was approved during which no objection was raised against four liquor license applications on Foothill Boulevard and Mountain Avenue.

In other actions, the council tentatively approved a plan by Euclid Place Packing House to upgrade its operation to avoid a public nuisance to nearby residents. The issue has been the center of controversy for more than a month.

Packing house owners said the half-century old facility will be closed generally from now until March when the next crop comes in. But before then, they will reroute trucks into the plant to avoid residential areas, construct a concrete wall to block a truck staging area from neighbors, paint the factory, and maintain conveyors to hold down the noise.

Council members directed city staff members to police the area and see that all improvements are made and maintained.

Councilmen rejected a conditional use permit for a proposed office-commercial-motel-restaurant complex on the southeast corner of Mountain Avenue and Foothill Boulevard. Neighbors had objected to the three-story construction of two buildings which they said would destroy the privacy of their yards.

Vanguard Builders, however, may modify the height of the buildings and reapply for a permit.

The council approved an application by Lewis Construction Co. to renovate an abandoned shopping center and construct additional buildings at Mountain Avenue and Arrow Highway.

A special 7 p.m. meeting Thursday was set to review plans for a senior citizens center east of Memorial Park on San Bernardino Road.

Buried van was not a grave say Chowchilla kidnappers

OAKLAND (AP) — The defense team in the Chowchilla kidnapping trial has launched an effort to prove that the abductors installed adequate ventilation in a van buried deeper than a grave.

In probing cross-examination, defense attorneys repeatedly elicited testimony Monday from prosecution witnesses who conceded that two fans and an exhaust system were operating hours after 26 children and a bus driver escaped the buried van.

But the expert witnesses — two criminalists from the Alameda County Crime Laboratory — insisted the van was a filthy, airless prison.

"It was dark," said Anthony Sprague, recalling the time he spent investigating the underground cell. "I noticed primarily the humidity, a closeness of very stale air. It was warm. It was a very unpleasant atmosphere."

To study atrocities

Nazi hunter proposes L.A. center

SIMON WEISENTHAL

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nazi hunter Simon Wiesenthal says he will donate dossiers from his massive war crime files for a center to be built here to study atrocities committed by the German Third Reich.

"We have monuments and museums but we have no place for young people, especially young rabbis, to learn about what happened," Wiesenthal said Monday.

As adviser to the Simon Wiesenthal Center for Holocaust Studies, the 69-year-old concentration camp survivor said he will organize lectures and seminars and provide films, depositions and government records.

"Our generation was unprepared," Wiesenthal said. "Hitler used to be a Jewish joke because we didn't believe he could do anything. This center will give young people the knowledge about it, so they can fight against every extreme and know how it begins with propaganda."

Wiesenthal said there are 300 open cases of accused Nazi war criminals who have not been brought to justice. But the center will have no connection with his Nazi-hunting operation headquartered in Vienna.

"It will be open to everyone," he said, because "it could happen again.

"The history of man is the history of crimes. Perhaps tomorrow's criminals are being born today."

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. has a wide-eyed group of first-graders under his spell while conducting a tour of the capitol Monday. It was the first personal tour ever given by Brown. The tour was set up after a card from the children caught his eye. The card was four feet square. The class is from the Sacramento suburb of North Highlands.

Sentences youth to life for killing

Despite pleas, judge is unrelenting

MIAMI (AP) — Ronny Zamora, who was defended in a murder trial on grounds that television violence drove him insane, stood silent before the TV cameras that recorded his sentencing to life in prison.

Judge Paul Baker brushed aside sentencing advice from famed psychiatrist Karl Menninger and others on Monday as he sentenced the 15-year-old to the life term without possibility for parole for at least 25 years.

Defense attorney Ellis Rubin, in his final plea for leniency for Zamora, waved psychiatric reports and even petitions from schoolmates in front of Baker.

Baker interrupted, saying: "I've even had a letter from Dr. Karl Menninger. But it is not their business. Unfortunately, it is mine."

Zamora's trial and sentencing were open to television and still camera coverage under a one-year experiment ordered by the Florida Supreme Court.

Before sentencing the teenager in the murder of his 83-year-old neighbor, Elinor Haggart, Baker offered Zamora a chance to make a statement to the court. But Zamora stood silent and the judge went ahead with sentencing.

Baker said Zamora should be placed in a "youthful offender facility" where he could receive psychiatric help. Rubin had pleaded that Zamora was "sick" and "suicidal" and should not go to an adult prison.

Watching impassively was Darrell Agrella, 15, who faces a separate trial on the same charge. Agrella's lawyer is challenging the grand jury selection system in the other case.

Zamora's mother sat nearby, wiping tears from her eyes.

During the trial Rubin asserted that the teen-ager lost his ability to judge right from wrong because he had become lost in a make-believe world kept alive by TV violence.

Rubin attempted to have the case thrown out Monday on several points. He said that the prosecution had arranged for two witnesses to talk to one another on the phone and had other witnesses listen to a tape of their conversation. But Baker ruled that the prosecution tactic, while not a good one, was not grounds to throw out the case.

After the sentencing Rubin said he had received permission from the parents to bring a lawsuit against the three major television networks. He said he hoped to show the effect television violence has on children.

"We feel we will be able to prove the networks are responsible for inducing young people to adopt violence as a way of life," he said.

10 DEAD IN FLOODING

A house trailer lies smashed on banks of Hominy Creek near Asheville today after heavy rains caused flooding in parts of Western North Carolina. Ten persons have died as a result of the flooding, including a young mother and two children in the trailer.

Aftermath of a roaring current that swept a town

TOCCOA, Ga. (AP) — Unbroken 100-watt lightbulbs rest atop the muck and debris, just yards from cars crushed and trailer homes overturned by the wall of water that smashed into Toccoa Falls Bible College.

"Up that way there were four brick houses. I knew everybody who lived there ... Now most of them are gone," said Dr. Harold Windus, director of elementary education at the tiny school.

Everywhere was evidence of family life disrupted.

Part of a child's tricycle and a pink and yellow baby book, its pages blank, were stuck in the mud. Mattresses, torn and muddied, reminded that most of the 38 victims were asleep when disaster struck.

The few houses that still stand are stained by a muddy waterline.

Officials want to know whose responsibility it was to inspect the 37-year-old Kelly Barnes earthen dam, which apparently broke under the stress of an 80-acre lake swollen by heavy rains.

Survivors today are digging out of the ruins of their homes and classrooms — and preparing to bury their friends and family members who perished in the flood waters Sunday.

Bill Anderson, a Bible college student from Glen Dale, Md., lost his wife, Karen, 29, and two of their five children — Joey and Becky — when their trailer was ripped apart by the roaring current. Services for them will be held here at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

Services for six other victims are scheduled at the Toccoa Alliance Church at 2 p.m. Wednesday. Most of the victims will be buried in their hometowns around the country.

The search continues for the body of Paul Williams, 76, a college maintenance worker and the only person unaccounted for.

The body of Dr. Jerry Sproull, 45, a theology professor, was found late Monday beneath an air conditioner only a short distance from where his home had stood.

The bodies of his three children, Melissa, 6; Joslynn, 7, and Joanna, 9, were recovered with 34 others Sunday. His wife, Pat Sproull, survived.

Windus surveyed the battered town of 9,000 and expressed disbelief at the courage shown by members of the interdenominational college.

"I guess because they are Christian young men and women when tragedy does strike, they have some inner strength," he said.

One young women spoke of God's presence on campus. "We pray He'll raise spiritual giants from among us," said Lorene Hays, 24, a senior from Utica, N.Y.

Bike rider hurt

A Pomona youth was injured Monday evening when the bike he was riding and a car collided at Ninth Street and Butterfield Road.

The rider, Rudy Ramos Jr., 16, was treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. The driver of the auto involved was Everett C. Rogers, 27, of Pomona.

Voters throughout the nation going to the polls

By The Associated Press

Voters are choosing mayors in 38 major cities and picking governors in New Jersey and Virginia, on an election day dominated by local issues and dampened by the weather.

Rain has historically benefited Republicans and could affect today's turnouts in both gubernatorial states, where the races are considered close.

In Virginia, where some areas have been flooded, Democrat Henry Howell opposes Republican Lt. Gov. John Dalton.

New Jersey's incumbent Democrat, Gov. Brendan Byrne, is challenged by a Republican state senator, Raymond Bateman.

Rain is also forecast for many of the mayoral cities including New York, where Democrat Edward Koch is expected to win easily regardless of the weather.

In several cities, black candidates are trying to capture city halls.

In New York, the historically accurate Daily News straw poll gave Koch 53 percent of the vote to 39 for his nearest rival, Secretary of State Mario Cuomo.

New York's major issue, Mayor Abraham Beame's handling of the city's finances, disappeared with Koch's defeat of the mayor in the Democratic primary.

Cuomo is the Liberal Party choice. Republican state Sen. Roy Goodman and radio personality Barry Farber, the Conservative Party entry, also are running, but with little hope.

Neighboring New Jersey still has its overriding issue, the state income tax that Byrne supports and Bateman wants to kill.

Byrne, who weathered a tough Democratic primary, had been trailing Bateman, but both sides now agree the outcome is in doubt.

The New Jersey contest was financed mostly out of public funds, with each candidate receiving $1 million from the state treasury.

In Virginia, Howell has said the state's largest electric utility, major banks and insurance companies reflect a "Tory plantation" policy represented by Dalton.

Dalton, a millionaire lawyer, has said Howell is a liberal and a big spender who would bring the state higher taxes and labor control of the government.

Blacks are trying to become the first of their race to win the New Orleans and Buffalo, N.Y. mayoralties.

The New Orleans election will be held Saturday with a black judge, Ernest Morial, facing Councilman Joseph DiRosa in a runoff.

In Buffalo, black Assemblyman Arthur Eve has tried to consolidate the predominant Democratic organization. His opponents in the largely blue-collar city are Democrat-Conservative James D. Griffin; Republican John J. Phelan and Liberal Donald Turchiarelli.

Coleman Young, Detroit's first black mayor, is expected to be an easy winner over Ernest C. Browne, who also is black.

There are a dozen names on the ballot in Houston, where incumbent Mayor Fred Hofheinz is not running.

It is an all-Democratic election in Cleveland, where Dennis Kucinich and Edward F. Feighan are the finalists. Republican Mayor Ralph Perk was eliminated in the nonpartisan primary.

Other big cities electing mayors today include Seattle; Pittsburgh; Minneapolis; Toledo and Dayton, Ohio; Miami; Louisville, Ky.; and Charlotte, N.C.

Youth hurt in crash with school bus

A 16-year-old Los Angeles youth, Richard Levi, suffered minor injuries Monday at 4:05 p.m. when the car in which he was a passenger collided with an Alta Loma Elementary School District bus in the intersection of Base Line Road and Carnelian Avenue.

Patrolmen said none of the children in the bus, which was southbound on Carnelian and driven by Glenna Mae Thomas, 49, Alta Loma, were injured.

The driver of the car in which Levi was riding was listed by officers as Dwayne Foster, 20, Los Angeles.

Details of slaying of Pomona woman revealed

Pomona police today were examining physical evidence gathered Monday at the scene of the slaying of 78-year-old Margaret Idella Wahlberg in an attempt to identify the person who killed her.

The victim, a widow who lived alone with her pet cat at the old two-story house at 1311 Laurel Ave., was found apparently strangled and raped early Monday morning. The discovery was made by a friend, Raymond L. Decker, 66, when he arrived at the house to do some yard work for the victim.

Decker entered the house after becoming suspicious when he found a window louver on the ground and a door open. He found the victim's body, nude and bound hand and foot, on the second landing of a stairway inside the house.

Investigators said the victim had been bound with pieces of torn bedsheets and that one had been tied around her neck. They said they were not sure if she had been strangled manually or if the sheet tied around her neck choked her.

Detective Gordon Zbinden said an autopsy probably would be performed at the coroner's office today

Dead girl was raped, suffocated—autopsy

The 7-year-old girl found dead in an Industry street last Sunday morning apparently died of of suffocation and had been raped, preliminary results of the coroner's autopsy revealed Monday.

The victim was Margaret Elizabeth Madrid, of Valinda. Her body was discovered in the 1100 block of John Reed Court.

Sheriff's investigators set up road blocks Monday to stop and question persons in the neighborhood in an attempt to locate anyone who may have seen the girl before she was kidnapped.

The victim's parents did not know she was missing until Sunday when they learned that she and her sister had become separated. They believed Margaret was with her sister at the home of relatives while the sister thought she had returned to their home.

The dead girl was identified when her parents attempted to file a missing person report about her 12 hours after the body had been found.

Man arrested in theft of fire extinguisher

Arrested was Eric John Konz, 18, of 2423 Vista Drive.

Being sought is a juvenile, 15 to 17 years of age, 5 feet 8 inches tall, of thin build, with straight, blond hair. He was wearing a high school athletic jacket with light sleeves, said police.

Police said a woman called the dispatcher about 10 p.m. to report two men had broken into her garage. Before police arrived, the two men managed to jump into a car and escape.

Minutes later, officers located a vehicle and arrested Konz.

Man dressed like woman takes $3,000 rent money

The assistant manager of a Pomona apartment building told police she was robbed of the rent money — about $3,000 — by a man in women's clothing.

The holdup occurred on W. Orange Grove Avenue. The victim, 30, said the man entered her apartment Sunday night, pulled an automatic pistol and demanded money.

She said the robber was black, wore a wig and a pink-and-white gown, was about 24 years old, weighed 150 pounds and was six feet tall. He had a mustache, beard and a deep voice, she said.

Lombardo services Wednesday

NEW YORK (AP) — Guy Lombardo, who made millions and delighted millions for half a century with his "sweetest music this side of heaven," will be buried Wednesday.

But Lombardo's brother, Victor, promised that their band, the Royal Canadians, will go on and that the tune most closely associated with the famous bandleader — "Auld Lang Syne" — will be heard again Dec. 31.

Guy Lombardo died at age 75 Saturday night at Houston's Methodist Hospital, where he had undergone heart surgery in September. His wife of 51 years, Lillibelle, was at his side.

Hospital spokesmen said death was not related to the surgery but to a breathing problem that developed later and forced Lombardo's re-hospitalization Oct. 27.

The bandleader is to be buried in the Long Island community of Farmingdale on Wednesday.

Lombardo was a resident of the Long Island community of Freeport, where he owned a restaurant. He also promoted summer spectaculars at Jones Beach. His revival of "Finian's Rainbow" there last summer grossed $1.55 million.

Victor, the youngest Lombardo brother, said the Royal Canadians would stop work Wednesday to attend the funeral, but that the band would be touring Connecticut on Thursday as "Guy Lombardo's Royal Canadians."

Guy Lombardo was an intense worker who began new ventures on stage when many others would think of retirement.

In 1969, 40 years after he first ushered in a new year for a national radio audience, Lombardo took his band to New York for its first appearance at the prestigious Carnegie Hall.

He said he got in the habit of ending each program with "Auld Lang Syne" — a practice copied by many other bandleaders in the days of big swing bands — because he started out with his first orchestra in western Ontario, which was "heavily Scottish."

The bandleader was born Gaetano Lombardo Jr., son of an immigrant Italian tailor, in London, Ontario, and was only 12 when he formed his first band with four other youngsters, including his brothers Carmen and Lebert.

The Lombardo brothers went to Cleveland in 1925. In 1927 they moved the band to Chicago.

In an era when jazz history was being made in the Windy City by Louis Armstrong, Bix Biederbecke and the like, Lombardo managed to become successful with his light, straight-melody music because it suited the dancing style of middle America.

Among the songs he made famous and profitable were "Little White Lies," "Boo Hoo," "You're Driving Me Crazy" and "Seems Like Old Times."

Lombardo once said of his success against the musical tides that "we lose 'em in their teens, but we catch 'em up later ... and when we get 'em we keep 'em."

Psychological wounds for victim

Man who held him hostage acquitted

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The scar where wire held a shotgun to his neck has faded, but mortgage executive Richard O. Hall says psychological wounds were reopened when a jury acquitted the gunman who held him hostage for 63 hours last winter.

"I'll never be the person I was ... My being taken hostage was the worst thing that ever happened to me and to my family," Hall said Monday, 17 days after Anthony Kiritsis was found innocent of kidnapping by reason of insanity.

"I accept the result," Hall, 42, said of the verdict. "But I have a great concern that society in any way would support an act of violence. I would hope nobody would have to go through what I and my family did."

He was abducted Feb. 8 and held in a booby-trapped apartment.

Kiritsis, who contended he was driven insane by the efforts of Hall's company to foreclose on a loan for 17 acres of land, faces a hearing Wednesday to determine whether he is sane and can be set free.

That possibility worries Hall.

"Of course I'm concerned," he told reporters and mortgage company employees at a news conference. "There's been a lot of trauma, there's been a lot of violence that has been demonstrated by Mr. Kiritsis.

"But my position is that I've got to go forward. I've got to live a normal life. I'm not going to hide and I'm not going to be afraid."

Hall said he plans legal action to recover on the defaulted mortgage and is also considering a civil suit against Kiritsis to recover damages for his company, which he said has lost business in the eight months since the abduction.

Hall said that next to being kidnapped, the greatest shock was that some people believed his company had been at fault.

"I very much want everyone to know that Mr. Kiritsis was not taken advantage of or cheated by any of us or our companies," Hall said.

Whatever the outcome, Kiritsis apparently will lose the property he tried to save by holding Hall hostage.

The land was deeded Monday to a trust run by Kiritsis' brother and stepbrother, with Kiritsis as the trust beneficiary.

An attorney for Kiritsis, J. Richard Kiefer, said the trustees are trying to sell the land — valued at more than $500,000 — in order to pay off the $130,000 mortgage owed Hall's firm.

If that fails, Hall said his company will foreclose.

NEW OFFICERS — Pomona Superior Court Judge Francis J. Garvey administers oath as peace officers to nine members of the staff of the Humane Society of Pomona Valley Inc. Left to right the new peace officers are Andrew Mendez, field supervisor; Ed Davis, Bill Taber, Ken Holtz, Angel Cordova, Donn Cooper, Elaine Griffith and Badge Diaz. Assisting in the ceremony were society attorney Joseph A. Dolan and court clerk John Parks.

Smog regulations tightened

Air pollution regulations governing industries in the South Coast Air Basin are expected to be tightened severely over the next several months.

J.A. Stuart, South Coast Air Quality Management District's executive officer, said that his staff is reviewing all regulations and industrial operations to insure the latest and best control technology is applied throughout the area.

"Our regulations are already the most stringent in the nation," Stuart said. "However, further reductions in emissions can and will be made."

He said that while all industries in the four-county district comply with existing rules, it may be possible that recent technological developments can be applied to make further significant reductions in industrial pollution. Stuart expects to propose 40 to 50 new rules and amendments during the next few months.

"If we are to accomplish our goal of attaining air quality standards in Southern California," Stuart said, "we must take advantage of all new technological breakthroughs and apply them to the district's existing control program as soon as possible."

Fall victims

The victims in seven out of every 10 fatalities from falls are elderly persons. Most of these accidents occur in the home.

S.B. County appoints two property tax appeal officers

San Bernardino County property owners scheduled to have appeals hearings on property assessments will be able to do it closer to home, thanks to action by the Board of Supervisors.

The board has authorized appointment of two assessment appeals board hearing officers. Selected were E. Dana Brooks, consultant/appraiser from San Bernardino and former five-year member of the appeals board and Robert R. Walker, retired deputy county counsel and former assessment appeals legal advisor to the Board of Supervisors.

Brooks and Walker will conduct hearings at various locations in the County during December, according to Assessor Robert J. Herbin.

The schedule includes Ontario on Dec. 12, 13, and 14, all at 9:30 a.m.

Pomona First Federal Has the Answers to Your Retirement Account Questions!

FREE—NO FEES for '77 at PFF!

Planning for retirement can be confusing enough, without the added confusion surrounding most retirement accounts. Your Financial Friend at Pomona First Federal Savings can explain everything you need to know about tax-sheltered retirement accounts! Pomona First Federal offers Individual Retirement Accounts, if your company doesn't offer a retirement plan, or Keogh Accounts, if you're self-employed. If you change jobs or your current retirement plan is terminated, ask about our Rollover Accounts, to protect the tax-deferred status on the eligible retirement savings contributed by your previous employer.

In a PFF retirement account, your savings—and the interest they earn—are tax-deferred until withdrawn after retirement, between ages 59½ and 70½, when your taxable income will probably be less. By opening your account now, before the end of the year, you'll be able to save on this year's taxes! And your Financial Friend can answer any questions you may have about eligibility, amounts you may set aside each year, or anything else you'd like to know.

Avoid the year-end rush—open your retirement account today at Pomona First Federal Savings and start saving for all your tomorrows!

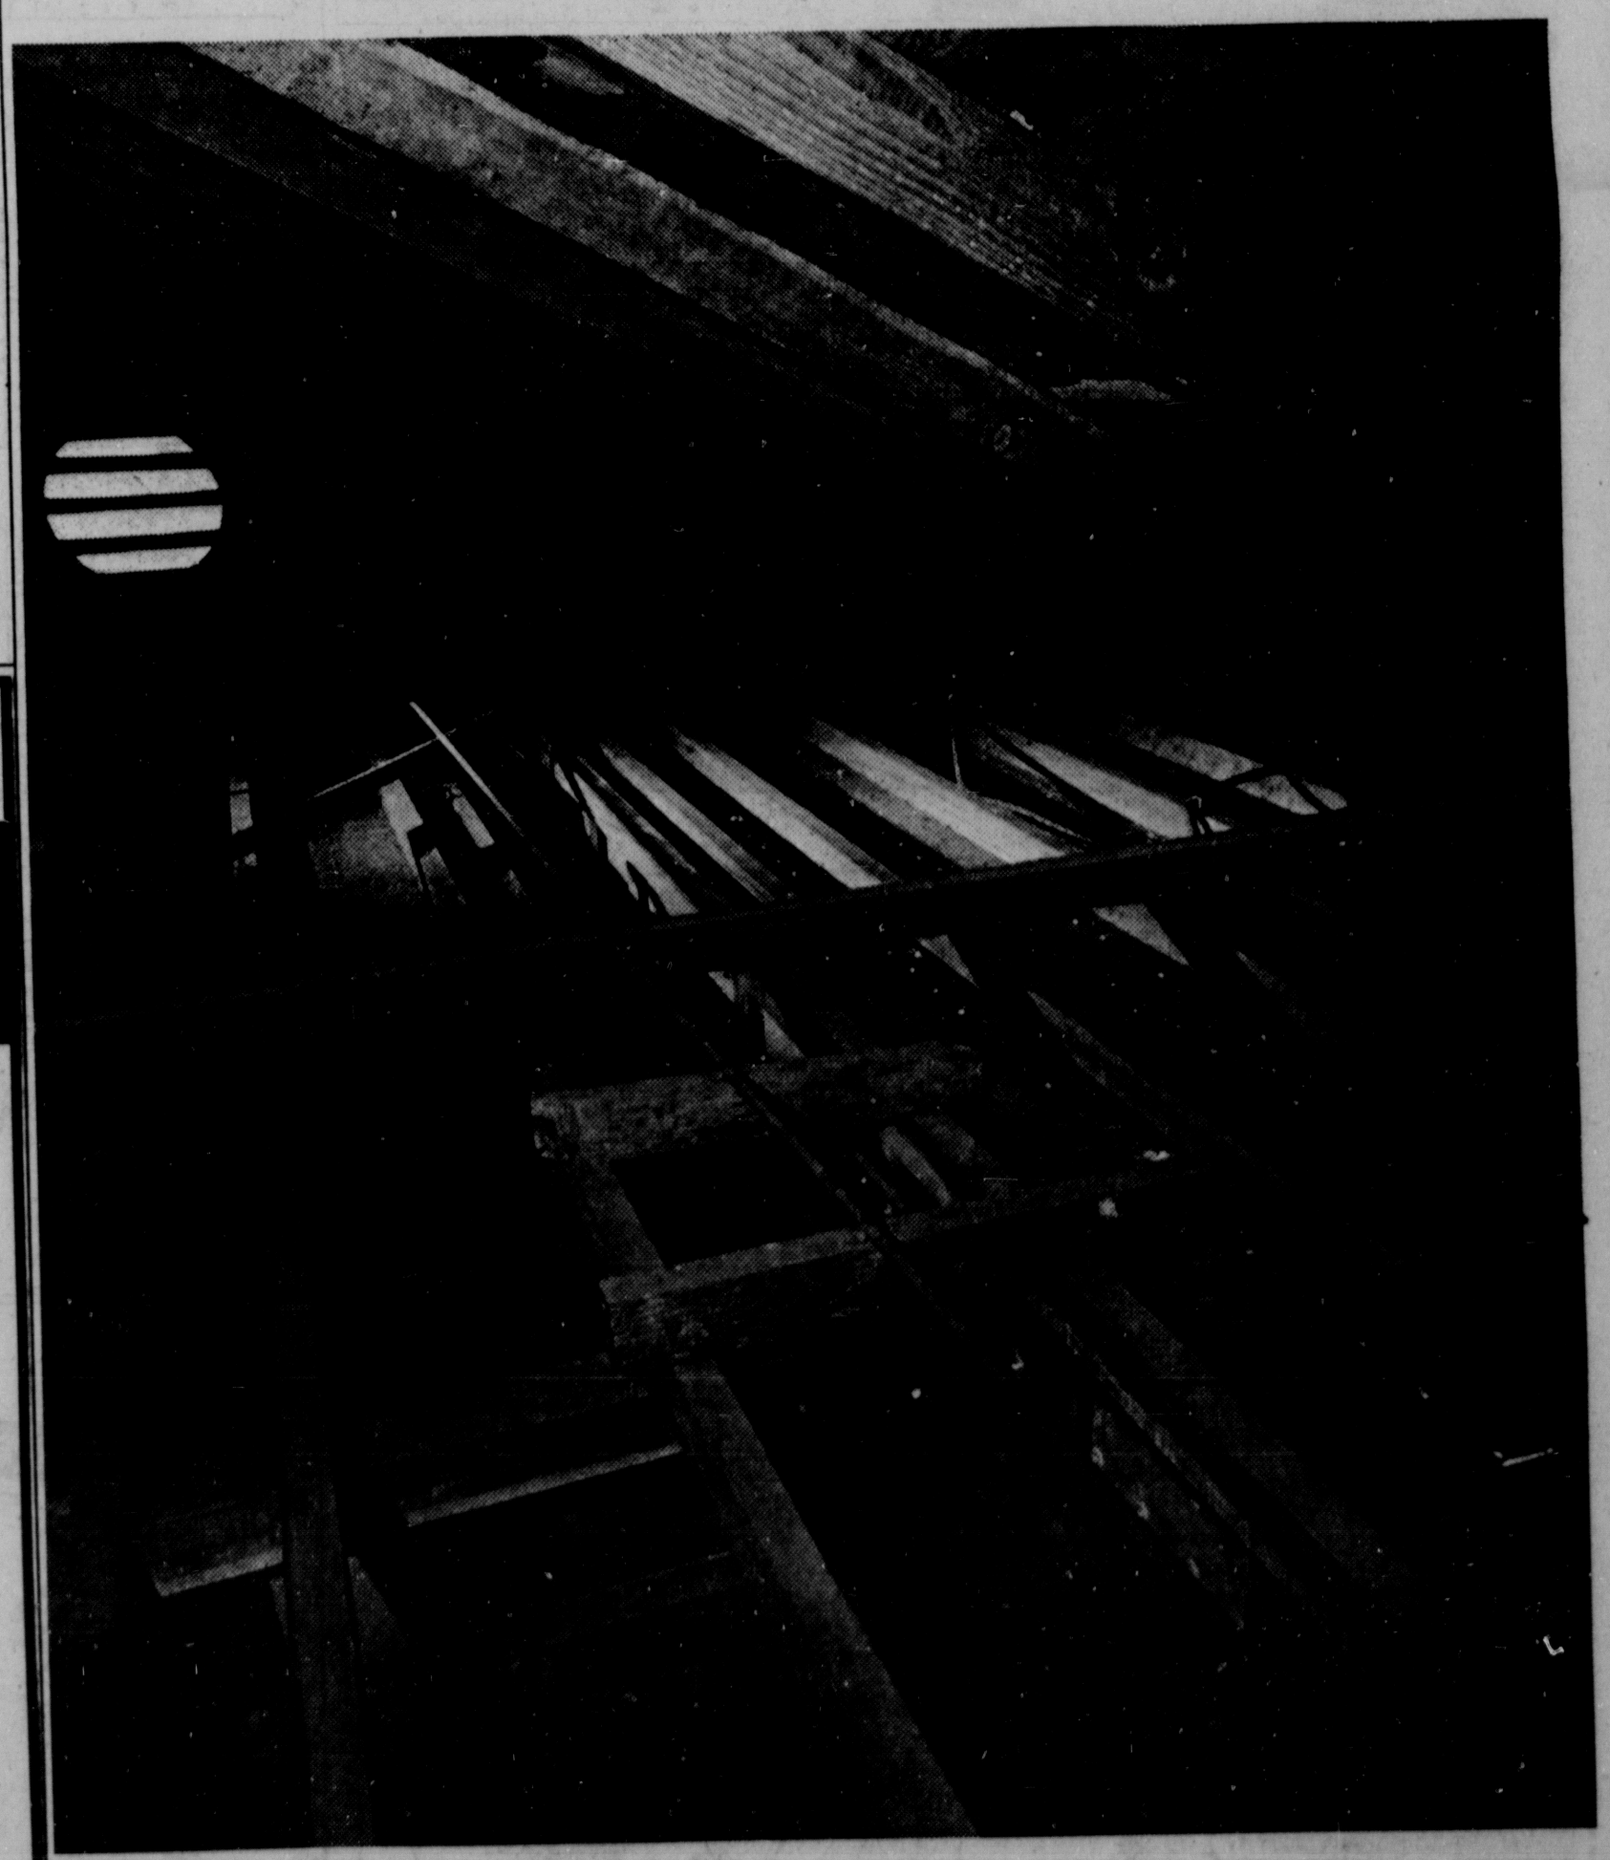
Without insulation this could be the most expensive room in your house.



An attic that's not properly insulated could wind up costing you plenty.

When your heat is on, the warm air rises. So it moves from floor to ceiling in the rooms of your house. Without adequate insulation, the heat can pass through your ceiling into your attic. This waste of heat causes your heating system to work longer and harder. That could cost you money.

By insulating, or increasing the amount of insulation in your attic, you can cut your heating costs up to 40%.

Insulation is a one-time investment that pays off year after year. So call an insulation contractor. You'll find that based on today's prices, properly insulating an attic in a typical house runs between $200 and $300. And what better place to invest your money than in your own home?

You can also look forward to saving up to 40% on your cooling cost in the summer, when it's your air conditioner's turn to go to work.

Q. "WHY DO DIMES AND QUARTERS HAVE MILLED RIMS?"

KATHY SCHUMANN
MASSAPEQUA, NY

A. THE RIDGES ON THE RIMS OF HIGH-VALUE COINS WERE MEANT TO PREVENT DISHONEST PEOPLE FROM TRIMMING THE EDGES, REDUCING THE VALUE OF THE COIN.

DICK Rogers

Probably you have noticed the ridges on the rims of United States dimes and quarters. The ridges were originally put there to prevent people from trimming the edges of the coins.

At one time, coins were made of silver and gold. Each coin had a certain size and was given a certain value, depending on the amount of gold or silver it contained. Silver dimes, for instance, contained 10 cents' worth of silver.

People sometimes cheated by trimming a little gold or silver off the edges of the coins. This lowered the coins' value.

To prevent this, coinmakers began making coins with "milled" edges -- edges that were raised or grooved so that it was easy to see when a coin had been trimmed.

Today coins are made of less valuable metals. But coinmakers still put ridges on coins because people are used to seeing them that way.

Half dollars and "silver" dollars have ridges for the same reason.

What's going on around here

Christmas mail

The first suggested Christmas mail deadlines are fast approaching, particularly for mail to military personnel.

Today is the recommended date for parcel airlift (PAL) mail to Armed Forces in the Middle East. Friday is the date for surface parcels to Armed Forces in Africa, Australia, Central and South America, Europe, Far East and Southeast Asia, and for Space Available Mail (SAM) parcels to Armed Forces in Africa, Australia, Central and South America and Southeast Asia.

At the same time an embargo remains in effect for all civilian surface mail to Europe, including the Soviet Union, Greenland, Iceland, Africa, South and Central America, the Caribbean Islands, Puerto Rico and the Middle East.

Airmail service to those countries is available but surface mail will not be accepted.

Tumbling class

The La Verne Recreation Department will sponsor a stunts and tumbling class for boys and girls 6 to 14 years of age starting Nov. 28 from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Classes will run 6 weeks and the fee is $9. The instructor is Lori Blackwell.

PTA luncheon

The PTA at Sycamore Elementary School in Upland will hold its second annual benefit fashion show Saturday at 11:30 a.m. at La Villa Guasti, behind Brookside Winery in Guasti.

Proceeds will benefit the school.

Fashions shown will be hand made or from J.C. Penney's of Montclair Plaza. A luncheon of ham, roast beef, salads, cheese, rolls, coffee and punch will be served, along with wine. Tickets are $6 for adults and $3 for children and may be reserved by calling Carol Gideon at 985-8332 or Rose Brim at 987-3436.

Winter-spring program

Ontario library director Jim Housel said the annual "Winter-Spring Program" of the library will begin Thursday and continue through April 30.

A variety of activities will be featured for all age groups, from children to senior citizens. All programs are free and registration is not required.

Belly dancing

The West End YMCA will sponsor Oriental belly dancing from 7 to 9 p.m. on Mondays with Domita Jo Winsor as the instructor.

The lessons will be held at the YMCA, 215 W. C St., Ontario. Further information is available by calling the YMCA, 986-5847.

Back to school

Parents will be sitting in for their children Nov. 16 when they attend Rowland High School for the annual "back to school" night.

After a brief meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the school gym where Principal Tom Aney and other district personnel will make introductory remarks, parents will follow their children's class schedules for seven, 10-minute periods.

After the class visits, refreshments will be served in the school's multipurpose room where parents and teachers can visit informally until 10 p.m.

Alumni and interested members of the community will be welcome.

Subcontractors meeting

A subcontractor rights rally and dinner meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m., Friday, Nov. 18, at the Holiday Inn, 3223 E. Garvey, West Covina.

The purpose will be to generate support for the "Subcontractor Bill of Rights," a legislative package introduced by Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-Gardena, to protect subcontractor rights in contractual and financial dealings with prime contractors.

Construction industry leaders from the subcontractor ranks will speak at the rally, and the four bills introduced by Sen. Dills will be reviewed and discussed.

Reservations are requested. For additional information, persons may call the California Committee for Subcontractor Rights at (213) 467-1159.

CPR class

Mt. San Antonio College will hold a nine-hour class on cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) Nov. 21, 22 and 23 from 7 to 10 p.m.

Registration will be completed in class at the first meeting in building 26D, room 306.

Lecture, demonstrations and films will be used to show CPR students the proper techniques used in the resuscitation of an adult or a child and the different methods used by one and two resuscitators.

Students completing the program will earn a certificate of proficiency in basic life support.

Course for nurses

San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland is offering a 10-hour course entitled "Drug Alert for Nurses," starting Friday.

It will meet Tuesdays from 4 to 6 p.m. in Aita Auditorium. The course fee is $30.

Instructor for the class will be Pam Gustafson, San Antonio Community Hospital pharmacist and graduate of USC.

Farm speaker

Allan Grant, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, will speak at Cal Poly Pomona Monday, Nov. 28, concerning the farm cost price squeeze. The 2.5 million member federation is the largest farm organization in the U.S.

Grant, 71, will be the second featured speaker in a series of mini-conferences coordinated by the school of agriculture. In addition to the cost-price squeeze, Grant will discuss the provisions of the new farm bill and the short-run outlook for American agriculture.

Persons are invited to attend the 90-minute program which begins at 10 a.m. in the University Union. A no-host luncheon will follow at the Kellogg West Center for Continuing Education.

For further information, persons may phone the university at 598-4122.

Seminar faculty

Seven valley attorneys are listed as seminar faculty members for the California Trial Lawyers Association's San Francisco Convention.

Speakers for the 25 instructional seminars include 151 lawyers, 12 judges, four elected officials and 12 representatives from various fields.

Valley attorneys include George D. Thompson and Raymond Youngquist of Pomona; Stephen Odgers, James Pennington, William Shernoff and Stephen I. Zettenberg of Claremont; and Robert Beloud of Upland.

S.B. County affirmative action program starts

San Bernardino County has started implementing its new affirmative action contract compliance program which specifies that federal contractors may not discriminate against employees or job applicants on the base of race, color, religion, sex or national origin.

An estimated 1,000 letters have been sent to contractors, vendors and others doing business with the county advising them of the new requirements. Those seeking to do business with the county in excess of $10,000 per year must demonstrate an employment and recuritment program aimed at improving work opportunities for women and minorities.

Contractors and vendors will be expected to demonstrate good faith efforts to employ minorities and women at a rate consistent with their respective percentages of the work force. In San Bernardino County, the figures are 19.6 percent for minorities and 36.9 percent for women.

Those bidding for county assignments whose principal place of business is outside the area will be expected to demonstrate efforts to conform to those ratios which apply at their main location.

To implement its new program, the County Administrative Office has established a contract compliance unit within its personnel department. The coordinators are George T. Fitzgerald, who will specialize in construction contracts; Carla E. Triemer, specializing in vendor, lessor and services programs and Patricia Igbokwe, specializing in public works grants.

The Office of Federal Contract Compliance has overall responsibility for the enforcement, said Martin E. Nelson, assistant administrative officer for personnel.

Questions relating to the new compliance program should be directed to the contract compliance unit at 157 W. Fifth St., San Bernardino, 92415.

Tempest in bureaucratic teapot

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's a tempest brewing in one of the teapots of the bureaucracy, and it is worth noting for what it says about the government President Carter is trying to reorganize.

The new boss of the Federal Communications Commission has decided that the agency should be open until 5:30 p.m. each day, so that its hours will coincide at least roughly with those of the people who have business there.

That hardly seemed revolutionary to FCC Chairman Charles D. Ferris, who figured that there should be people around to answer the telephone after 4:30 in the afternoon.

Effective on Nov. 14, there will be.

But not without a hassle, since that means a change in working hours for many of the 1,500 people who work at the commission.

After days of grumbling, a delegation from the Employee Representation Board spent 90 minutes with Ferris last Wednesday, complaining about the change. They told him that an employee survey showed overwhelming opposition to the shift in working hours.

He told them that the agency is supposed to serve the public, even if it is inconvenient.

As Ferris put it in a thoroughly bureaucratic memo, he wants FCC hours "to interface with the business, professional and consumer communities we are charged by law to work with, and thus to provide better services to them ..."

In other words, he figures there ought to be somebody around to take calls and transact business after 4:30 in the afternoon. Under the current schedule, there's no answer at the FCC switchboard after that hour.

There are employee complaints that the change will foul up carpools, make it harder to find parking places and disrupt child care arrangements. One woman complained she'd miss her favorite television program if she had to work until 5:30.

Actually, she may be able to tune in anyhow. FCC employees have an hour's leeway on starting times, under a flexible time arrangement. So a good many of them will be able to stick to the 8-4:30 timetable if they want, and if their supervisors approve. And Ferris has told his section chiefs that they should make adjustments wherever they can to accommodate the needs of the employees.

Ferris doesn't set the hours alone; the commission does that. But after 13 years as a top aide to Senate and then House Democratic leaders, he knows enough to count votes in advance. He got approval from a commission majority before he ordered the change.

He's still surprised at all the fuss over what seemed to him a logical move. "Our own convenience isn't our primary reason for being here," he said.

And that gets to the point.

No reorganization of agencies is going to end public disenchantment with government. If the new office is no more responsive than the old ones, the citizens who have to deal with it will be no less frustrated than they are now.

Politicians are always talking about responsive government, and the officials they appoint echo that promise. But if the promise is to be kept, it has to be done by people far down the line, in rank and in salary.

Carter can't make the government responsive just by saying so. Nor can Ferris do so at the FCC by keeping the place open an hour later. But it is a start.

See 7% hike in eatery prices

NEW YORK (AP) — Whether your taste runs to a burger on a bun or pheasant under glass, you'll pay more for eating out in 1978, but the rate of increase won't be quite as steep as it was this year, the National Restaurant Association said Monday.

Louis Boochever, the trade group's chief economist, predicted that restaurant prices, including alcoholic beverages, will rise 7 percent next year — about half a percentage point less than the boost estimated by the association for 1977.

The federal Consumer Price Index shows the cost of food away from home — not counting liquor — rose 6.7 per cent from December 1976 to September 1977. The cost of food at home went up 7.2 per cent in the same period, which is the latest for which the federal government has provided figures.

It is difficult to talk about typical restaurant bills since costs vary so widely with the type of establishment and meal. A March 1976 study by the restaurant group showed that the average restaurant check for dinner was just under $3 per person. Another study showed that the average check per person at a table service restaurant in 1976 was just under $5.

Boochever said at a news conference here that sales in the food service industry — which covers all types of restaurants as well as institutional feeding operations like those in the military — will total $93.7 billion in 1978, up 9.1 percent from this year's estimated $85.9 billion.

Boochever did not break down the menu price increase according to type of restaurant. He said the rise would be due to an 11 percent increase in labor costs, a 4 percent hike in food prices and a 6.5 percent jump in other expenses, including energy bills.

Consumers now spend 36½ percent of every food dollar eating out. The figure is expected to rise to 40 percent by the early 1980s and Boochever said he saw "the potential for a 50 percent share by the end of that decade."

So-called "limited menu establishments" — mainly the fast-food outlets — continue to account for much of the increase. They now account for just over one-third of all food industry sales and total sales are expected to grow 12.1 percent next year.

The economist said his predictions reflected the impact of the increase in the minimum wage, effective Jan. 1. The figures do not, however, take into account what would happen if tax deductions for business lunches are cut in half. Cutting the tax deduction has been mentioned by the Carter administration as a possible part of the president's overall tax reform bill.

Voters go to the polls to decide water and city issues

Turnout reported heavy in tri-communities

By CONRAD CASLER
PB Staff Writer

Clear skies, drought and a hotly contested city incorporation ballot issue drew thousands of valley residents to polls today.

Heaviest turnout was in the tri-communities area of Alta Loma, Cucamonga and Etiwanda where more than 13,000 voters are eligible to cast ballots in the issue of incorporating into the city of Rancho Cucamonga.

All 39 polling places within the area reported heavier than usual turnouts during early morning hours.

Meanwhile, voters in Los Angeles County were voting on a $26 million bond issue for new Pomona Valley Municipal Water District facilities which would pipe Northern California water into the area.

During an election less than two years ago on a similar ballot proposal, less than 17 percent of the eligible 130,000 voters cast a ballot.

But Stan Kawa, PVMWD general manager, said today that good weather plus more public knowledge and awareness of California's drought crisis could boost the percentage to 25 to 35 percent of eligible voters casting ballots this time.

Kawa said a heavy vote probably would benefit PVMWD while a light turnout would favor those opposing the issue.

Major opposition to the bond issue in both elections has come from Pomona Valley and San Gabriel Valley chapters of the League of Women Voters which successfully killed the proposal last election.

Spearheaded by Claremont's chapter, league members said again this election they believe the issue will be defeated.

A recent poll indicated Alta Loma residents were not in favor of incorporation. But there were almost 30 percent in the poll who indicated they were undecided. Residents of Cucamonga and Etiwanda slightly favor incorporation but both communities have a large undecided electorate, according to the poll.

At the Carnelian School poll today, Alta Loman Walter Novak was first in line to vote almost 10 minutes before the polls opened at 7 a.m. He said he was voting against the issue.

Five other Alta Loma residents were lined up behind Novak when voting began. Chief inspector Dorothy Kneuer, a long-time poll worker, said it was one of the heaviest turnouts she has seen.

In addition to the tri-communities and PVMWD elections, voters in Montclair are voting for directors to serve on their county water district and Walnut Valley voters are balloting for a similar director on the Walnut Valley Water District Board. Both of those elections are expected to draw less than a 20 percent turnout.

TRI-COMMUNITIES BALLOTING

Voters line up for ballots at Carnelian Elementary School in Alta Loma in the hotly contested tri-communities election. Six voters were in line at the school when polls opened at 7 a.m. Election inspector Dorothy Kneuer, right, said turnout was extremely heavy.

Pomona chief reports

Special police team working well

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Police Chief Richard Slaght Monday night reported to the Pomona City Council some encouraging figures on his Major Crimes Task Force and its achievements since April 1.

The task force, composed of 10 of the department's most experienced men, was intended to attack violent crime in the city through "selective enforcement."

Slaght had said he hoped the unit would prevent any increase in violent crime within the next six months, achieve a reduction of 5 percent after one year, and a 10 percent reduction after two years.

Slaght reported Monday night the city had experienced only an .8 percent increase in violent crimes since April 1.

As to another goal set in April — a 5 percent increase in the number of arrests for violent crimes by the end of the first year — Slaght reported a 32 percent increase in the number of major crime arrests.

Slaght said his task force of a sergeant, a senior patrol officer and eight patrolmen used a high profile in the area of street gang problems, that plainclothes officers were used at prime robbery locations, and that they aided detectives in follow-up cases.

He said that the unit has been flexible, and on 20 occasions had their hours changed since April.

He reported that since April 1, 87 persons have been arrested for felony crimes and 157 for misdemeanors.

He also reported the decrease of 3.6 percent in all major crimes which include homicides, robberies, felonious assaults and rapes.

Slaght said the task force will continue to use traditional techniques and procedures.

He said the task force members may be converted to a team police unit.

"Hopefully, we will be able to initiate a crime prevention program," he said.

"I feel the task force in its function has done a competent job," Slaght said.

Slaght explained the team unit as working in a typical area with citizen groups.

As to the street gang problem, Slaght said, "We feel we are moving ahead in this particular area — until a problem pops up."

"We have an officer in our department who is well respected and has good rapport with the youths in the gang areas," he said.

"You can't determine where or when a gang problem will erupt: a wedding or a dance," he said.

Slaght said it is incumbent upon each citizen and each mother and father in controlling the activities of their children as well as it is the police officer's duty.

Referring to a remark by Mayor Charles Bader about gang warfare raging, Slaght said that he doesn't believe it is raging.

He said that Pomona is working with other communities who have similar gang problems.

Bader asked Slaght for written suggestions for improvements in the juvenile justice system.

"We could draw up a resolution to the state Legislature and go on record as urging changes," Bader said.

"Sitting back and shrugging our shoulders isn't enough as far as we are concerned," he said. "I'm not saying that you should lobby to get laws changed, but the council should."

Ontario council OKs City Hall and Civic Center site contracts

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

The Ontario City Council Monday awarded two contracts totaling $3,998,000 for construction of the new City Hall and on-site improvements for the Civic Center.

In awarding the bid to Berry Construction Co. of Upland as the lowest responsible bid, the council also approved a program of spending for the new complex within this fiscal year.

Council members voiced some dismay and concern about the sharp rise in the total construction, on-site and off-site costs. This has gone from an estimated $3.3 million last fall to $5,054,000 now.

John Porter, assistant city manager, attributed the increase to a number of factors including the timing, escalating costs due to inflationary rises from month to month, the construction boom in Southern California, the radical change in material costs, the delays in not getting in the first phase of funding under the Public Works Act and the conflict with the Ontario-Montclair School District on priority projects for the second funding stage; and the change in the funding criteria on the federal grant projects from a project to an allocation basis.

Porter also reported the lowest bidder — C.V. Holder Inc. of Gardenia at $3,875,000 — did not meet the Economic Development Administration requirement of 10 percent of the total federal grant going to minority contractors and suppliers. The federal grant of $2,258,000 requires $225,800 being allocated to minorities. The Holder bid fell $8,350 short. The difference cost the city about $123,000, according to Porter.

The total difference between the estimated costs and figures presented Monday is $1,753,000.

The Berry bid showed $3,388,000 for construction of the City Hall and $610,000 for on-site improvements to include landscaping, lighting, parking lots, walkways and a center pedestrian mall.

The council juggled allocations from local budgets for the 1977-78 funding sources. The total of $1,836,000 will be gleaned from the general fund, $700,000; revenue sharing, $500,000; capital improvement fund, $230,000; gas tax fund, $64,000; storm drain reserve fund, $210,000; water facility fund, $106,000; and sewer revolving fund, $26,000.

The local contribution plus the federal grant show a total of $4,094,000 for the 1977-78 Civic Center costs.

An estimated $960,000 is anticipated to cover 1978-79 costs with sources including the general fund, revenue sharing and capital improvement fund. The respective contributions from these three funds are $600,000, $160,000 and $200,000.

These estimates, according to finance director A.C. Gabriel, are "the best thinking that we have at this point in time, but the source of funding may change as we get closer to the end of the 1977-78 fiscal year."

For tri-communities

High school bond election set

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Plans to build a second high school in the fast-growing Alta Loma-Cucamonga-Etiwanda area moved a step closer to reality Monday night.

Trustees of the Chaffey Joint Union High School District indicated they will ask voters to approve a bond issue on March 7 to construct the much-needed school.

On a 3-1 vote, board members ordered administrators to draw up a resolution calling for the election. The resolution would have to be approved by trustees by Dec. 16.

The proposal to seek funds for a new high school in the tri-communities area to relieve overcrowding at Alta Loma High School had been recommended by a board-appointed citizens committee.

Trustees, acting on a recommendation from Supt. Mike Dirksen, indicated they also would seek funds for classroom improvements at Chaffey High School in Ontario on the same bond issue. The proposal calls for sound-proofing, heating and air conditioning of North and South halls.

Dirksen, however, did not recommend including in the bond proposal remodeling of physical education facilities at Chaffey High. The remodeling had been suggested by the citizens committee, but Dirksen earlier had disagreed with the panel. He said remodeling was not enough and new facilities should be built.

Several other proposals such as a new classroom building at Alta Loma High and transportation and warehouse facilities at the Valley View site also were not included in the bond proposal. Dirksen said he only wanted the measure to contain "top priority" items.

Estimated cost for a 2,500-student capacity high school in the tri-communities would be $17.5 million, according to Dirksen. Renovation of the Chaffey classroom buildings would cost about $1.2 million, he added.

Trustees noted they would seek approval of a lease-purchase bond measure since it would require a majority rather than two-thirds voter approval.

Board members, however, will not finalize the bond measure until next month, and it was clear there could be some changes.

Trustee Ray Sarrio, who voted against drawing up a resolution calling for the election, said he wanted to "sample the electorate" prior to the balloting. He suggested hiring a consultant to poll the community as soon as possible.

Three other trustees — Martha Chapman, chairman Adrian Chalfant and Charles Uhalley — seemed happy with the resolution as recommended by Dirksen. Trustee Jack Carnine was absent.

Sarrio said he wanted to ask local residents what they felt should be included in the bond measure. He added that he was unsure whether the Chaffey High renovations should be on the ballot or not.

"I feel anything other than the new high school on the ballot may detract from its passage," Sarrio explained. "I don't want anything in there that will muddy the waters."

Trustees finally asked Dirksen to investigate hiring a consultant to take a poll of residents after Sarrio pushed strongly for it.

Sarrio exchanged angry words with Mrs. Chapman at one point in the discussion. Mrs. Chapman moved to order drawing up the resolution, but Sarrio continued arguing for the consultant.

Sarrio complained he was being "cut off" from making his point, and cautioned Mrs. Chapman not to be "ridiculous or foolish."

Mrs. Chapman made it clear she disagreed with Sarrio.

Other board members, including Mrs. Chapman, did not want to add any more items to the bon proposal. Sarrio indicated he was not happy with previous efforts to sample the electorate by the citizens committee.

In related action, trustees approved the hiring of Harnish, Morgan and Causey, architects, for services related to the projects; and Stone and Youngberg, bond consultants, for services estimated to cost $12,500.

Montclair approves rating system for new developers

To assure quality residential developments within the city of Montclair, the City Council Monday agreed to allow the staff to prepare a rating system on applications for development.

The City Council took a four-part action following a report by planning associate Fred Alley on the background and present status of the sewage allocations for Montclair and other West End communities served by regional sewage plant one of the Chino Basin Municipal Water District (CBMWD).

Alley explained the point-rating system would allow Montclair "to secure the type of developments which is most beneficial to the community. The system would be used to determine the order in which applications shall be accepted and processed, providing that future sewage treatment capacity is available."

The system of evaluation would consider consistency with the general plan and specific plan requirements, location, environmental and aesthetic qualities, social balance, project readiness, date of application and other miscellaneous factors.

The council further directed staff to continue the policy of not accepting formal applications, fees and plans for any residential development until additional sewage treatment capacity is available; accepted and concurred with the final percentage distribution on the regional multiple unit residential pool; and reserved the remaining 118 single family units and 34 multiple units for the use of existing developed and vacant lots within the current city boundaries.

Several months ago, in an effort to avoid citing by the Santa Ana Regional Water Quality Control Board for violation of water quality standards and to avert an increase in the problem of sewage capacity falling short of approved residential building permits, the West End cities and San Bernardino County agreed to an allocation formula.

The region agreed on a growth policy that would restrict future sewage flows by accepting only those tracts guaranteed sewage capacity by CBMWD, Alley said.

Subdividers offer $4 million for La Verne water improvements

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

More than a dozen subdividers who want to build homes in La Verne have agreed to pay nearly $4 million to make sure the new residents have sufficient water.

By their action, the developers relieved the city of the cost and responsibility of installing distribution systems in areas which don't have any water right now.

Developer Everett Hughes, a spokesman for the group, said that to his knowledge the agreement was unique through the state.

"I don't know of any community in California that has this kind of an arrangement with the subdividers," Hughes claimed.

For its own part, the city agreed to lift moratoriums on construction imposed three months ago on North La Verne because of the danger of running out of water.

When Hughes said the developers were prepared to pay cash to build a reservoir and other appurtenances in pressure Zone 2, the strip between Foothill Bouelvard and Base Line Road, the council passed an urgency ordinance removing the freeze on construction in that area.

Kenneth I. Mullen, the city's water consultant, said moratoriums in other areas, particularly on the north side of the city, will be removed as the developers pay for the necessary reservoirs and distribution systems in those districts.

The council was elated with the agreement, first proposed by the developers three weeks ago. The council had wanted to continue the freeze on construction indefinitely, but the developers made the counterproposal because La Verne was "one of the few remaining places in Los Angeles County where homes were still selling well."

Under the agreement, the city will set up assessment districts in sections of the city indicating the prorated shares of the cost of bringing water to those areas. Then, as those areas are developed, the subdividers would pay those costs and then charge them against the price of the new homes.

No one who already has a home in the city will have to pay for any part of the new distribution system.

Hughes told the council that 75 percent of all the developers and owners involved already have signed the agreement, even though the proposal was completed only a few days ago.

He said within the next week he expected to have 100 percent participation.

$10 million bond election to be considered in Walnut

The Walnut Valley school board Monday requested the district staff to include on its next meeting agenda proposals to call for a $10 million school bond election next March.

The proposal will also ask voters to approve a $22 million state school building loan to finance capital improvements in the rapidly growing district over the next five years.

The board made the request following reports from district staff detailing projected increases in the district's assessed valuation over the next three years and the amount of money the district will need to show in bonds for itself to qualify for the state building loans.

Architect William Davis told the board that capital improvements in the district to be completed over the next five years will cost $36 million. These would include development of the first and second phases of the Diamond Bar high school, four elementary schools, a 10,000-square foot addition to Walnut High School, the first phase of the district administration facility and the acquisition of three additional elementary school sites.

The district already has about $3 million in unused bonds which, when combined with the $10.7 million bond issue slated for a decision at the next meeting, leaves a gap of about $22 million to be filled in by the state loan program.

To each his own

President Carter may be taking the good neighbor policy a step too far in offering to store in the United States nuclear wastes from foreign power plants.

It is one thing for the federal government to dispose of nuclear wastes from American power plants, as the president offered to do the other day.

It is something else to extend that offer to foreign countries, which should be developing dumping grounds of their own for radioactive wastes.

President Carter obviously is worried that other countries will convert spent uranium into bomb-grade plutonium and thereby increase the danger of nuclear war. But turning the United States into a fuel dump for the world is an unusual way to protect American interests.

To be honest about it, the United States has yet to come up with a really satisfactory arrangement for disposing of radioactive materials. Much of the stuff is stored near the 65 nuclear plants now operating in this country. And about two-thirds of these plants will have to build new storage facilities unless the government takes over that responsibility.

Federal energy experts are studying rock and salt formations in 36 states this year and expect to recommend six regional burial sites. But some congressmen already are clamoring for state "veto" power over where the sites are located — which is a sure-fire way to kill the program entirely.

If, as the president says, he wants to encourage nuclear power by giving nuclear plants a place to bury their wastes, he should insist that all parts of the country share the risk. This makes more sense, from a safety and security point of view, than shipping nuclear wastes hundreds or even thousands of miles to a single super-dump in some western or southwestern state.

Chris stopped too soon

Having put that dangerous capitalist reactionary, Ludwig van Beethoven, in his place a couple of years ago, the Communist Chinese have now debunked Christopher Columbus.

The discoverer of America was nothing but a money-seeking opportunist, claims the lengthy article in the official periodical, Historical Research, whose title minces no words: "Columbus the Colonialist Pirate."

Not only was Columbus not the first explorer to visit America, says the article, he refused to believe that what he had stumbled on was not part of the Asian continent, so intent was he on invading and plundering China.

Well, we're sorry the Chinese can still get mad about that after nearly 500 years. But not to jeopardize Sino-American relations, we feel compelled to say that it's really too bad Columbus didn't discover a shorter route to China after all.

Although the Spanish possessed thundersticks, which were a crude development of an old Chinese invention, Chinese civilization of the 15th century would have been more than a match for any would-be plunderers from the West.

"Discovery" by Columbus might well have opened up China to the outside world four centuries before Europeans with much more sophisticated thundersticks did so and spared the Chinese immense suffering and turmoil.

Might even, perhaps, have spared the world from Chinese Communist reinterpretations of historical figures.

Scrapping paperwork

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall has taken a first step toward undoing some of the damage done by cumbersome government regulation of private pension plans.

Marshall is easing up on the red tape so companies don't have to file so many forms or send so many time-consuming reports to Washington under the pension reform law passed by Congress three years ago.

Basically, the reform was a good idea. It protected the pension benefits of 30 million workers. But the Labor Department imposed so much paperwork on private pension plans that even large corporations have been asking for relief. Some smaller companies simply are phasing out their plans rather than pay the added costs.

It's good to know that Secretary Marshall can recognize a bureaucratic maze and that he will try to do something about it.

Fly the flag on Friday

Dear Editor:

It was satisfying and encouraging news in the Progress Bulletin on Oct. 24 that on Nov. 11, 1978 all 50 states will observe Armistice Day, sometimes termed Veterans Day.

How well I remember as a junior in Carlsbad, N.M. High School. At 11 a.m. on Nov. 11, 1918 the whistles blew, the bells rang, school was dismissed, the town band assembled, flags waved, people cheered, and a parade soon began moving to the city park where stirring speeches were heard.

Such a glorious feeling to know that soon the boys would be marching home to the tune of "Over There, Over There." Yes, we had knitted socks, helmets, sweaters, etc. We had kept the home fires burning.

To honor these men, Armistice Day was declared on Nov. 11, 1919. In 1968 Congress began moving holidays around to provide more three day weekends. In 1971 Armistice Day was changed to the fourth weekend in October. This meant confusion.

Let's all get our flags out on Nov. 11 and all other main holidays. Do you see the flags on Holt and Garey avenues seven holidays a year? Did you know that the churches, organizations, business people, and individuals donated those flags, 266 of them and we hope for 300 in all. Did you know that the Kiwanis Club of Greater Pomona puts up those flags? Did you know that the Jaycees gave 55 flags? Do you know about the Avenue of Flags Committee which has sponsored this flag program. Aren't you glad you live in the United States under the protection of the Stars and Stripes? I am.

Agency fiddles, America burns

WASHINGTON — Across America, homes are going up in flames while a government agency fiddles. The federal Nero is the Consumer Product Safety Commission, which has ignored fire hazard warnings for four years.

The Commerce Department has tried since 1973 to get the commission to adopt safety standards for flammable upholstered furniture. "We don't like to say the commission is killing people," a Commerce official told our reporter Valerie Strauss, "but the fact is that safety standards could save up to 1,500 people a year."

In a recent memo, Commerce officials warned tersely: "Upholstered furniture is the first item ignited in 106,000 fires yearly." They added that "43 percent of the injured victims die."

Furniture industry officials have met with the safety commission at least 28 times, meanwhile, arguing that it would cost $1 billion to make upholstery less flammable. Government calculations indicate it would cost closer to $127 million.

The commission continued to stall this year until Commerce official Howard Tipton fired off a private letter to Chairman John Byington, urging him to "proceed with the formal rulemaking process."

In September, the commission finally voted that a mandatory standard for upholstered furniture was needed. But Byington voted against the standard, arguing it was too complicated and imposed too large a burden on small businesses.

It is an unwritten doctrine of government that an unwanted decision will go away if it is studied long enough. The commission after four years of dawdling has now ordered another study.

Footnote: A spokesman said the commission had waited for the furniture makers to act voluntarily but is now weighing the impact of mandatory safety regulations. The staff hopes to have recommendations ready by next April, he said.

Meanwhile, Sen. Wendell Ford, D-Ky., has scolded Byington for failing to act against hazardous home insulation. Many people are turning to cellulose insulation for their homes in response to President Carter's plea to conserve energy. But although the cellulose material can catch fire unless it is treated with a proper amount of flame retardant, the commission is not expected to act for another year.

HOFFA STORY — On Bobby Baker's first night in prison, he heard a voice calling: "Baker, Baker." The irrepressible former Senate aide, once a confidante of the high and mighty, arrived at Lewisburg Federal Penitentiary on January 14, 1971, to begin a tax evasion sentence.

The voice in the night whispered this message: "Jimmy Hoffa said to meet him tomorrow morning in the northwest corner at his table for breakfast."

Baker approached the Hoffa table next morning. The imprisoned union leader was surrounded by a dozen of the meanest looking cons in the prison. They drifted away as Baker settled beside Hoffa. The two men, both brought down from the pinnacles of power, sat eyeball to eyeball over a prison breakfast.

They had met only once previously. "Bobby," Hoffa began, "we've got a lot of mutual friends." He warned that Baker, once a top aide to Lyndon Johnson, represented "the establishment."

There are "at least 150 men" here, said Hoffa, who will be confined for the rest of their lives. They have nothing more to lose. They would love the publicity of "killing you," he told Baker.

"I want everyone to know you're my friend," Hoffa added. It was obvious that he had as much clout in the prison as he did in the Teamsters Union. His blessing, therefore, was a protective mantle. "You've got to watch your ass in this place," was Hoffa's parting advice.

Baker believes Hoffa may have saved his life. The incident will lead off the book Baker is writing about his controversial career in and out of government. He intends to call it "Child of the Senate."

Footnote: The crack investigative reporter, Lester Velie, reports that Hoffa had a stormy relationship with the Mafia. In his new book, "Why Jimmy Hoffa Had to Die," Velie claims Hoffa was first condemned to death by the Mafia at age 19.

As Velie recounts it, Hoffa used the Purple Gang, a Mafia rival, to protect his embryonic Teamsters organization. Furious, the Mafia held a "trial" and ordered a contract on young Hoffa. But the quick-witted labor organizer convinced the Mafia bosses that they would be better off dealing with him than dealing him out.

He maintained close ties with the Mafia but usually managed to outrage them. In 1966, angry Mafia men let Hoffa off again after another "trial." But in 1975, Velie said, the Mafia held another trial and carried out the death sentence.

BOYD BOWS OUT — We recently reported that Robert Boyd, chief administrative law judge for the National Transportation Safety Board, operates his private business affairs out of his government office.

Immediately after the column appeared, the board began an investigation of the allegations. Some of the charges have already been verified. Transportation officials will submit the findings to the Civil Service Commission.

Meanwhile, Boyd has voluntarily stepped down as chief judge but will remain an associate judge, pending the outcome of the investigation.

Our Man in Washington

Will taxes engulf us all?

By TERRY WADE
PB Washington Writer

WASHINGTON — Where will it all end?

Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, in a 1904 court case, proclaimed, "Taxes are what we pay for civilized society."

That was before income tax, Social Security, gasoline taxes, etc., etc.

If Holmes were alive today, one might ask that great statesman and scholar, what price is too high for civilized society?

Or one might wonder what society was like during the early 1900s if the measurement of civilization is by tax dollars. For by that measure they must have been barbarians and we the quintessential civilized society.

In an age when we are taxed for the food we buy, the fuel for our homes, the income we earn, the clothing we wear and an infinite number of other necessities, luxuries and incidentals, it is indeed difficult to appreciate the escalated cost of civilized society.

If in fact we could see a discernible change in the quality of our civilization with each tax increase, perhaps the loss of personal income would be less painful. But the sad truth is, the quality does not seem to improve an iota.

Yet the taxes continue to go up. Where will it all end?

Even as our president hinted at a $17 billion tax cut, he and his congressional colleagues were pushing through the House the largest peacetime tax increase in history.

No it wasn't a direct tax like an income tax, rather it was that sacred levy — Social Security.

Anyone who even suggests Social Security is unjust or unequal, or anything bad at all, risks the wrath of millions, but this latest tax increase epitomizes the problems with the system we have.

There is no doubt that the Social Security system is in dire need of help. Experts are predicting a lack of funds well before most Americans, who will have paid in all their lives, will have an opportunity to take out.

The problem is the system is archaic and if allowed to, will eventually weigh the wage-earning American down with such a heavy tax it could well be the lot of some future Supreme Court justice to sadly explain, "it was the tax that buried civilized society."

Under the House-passed bill, wage earners would face a 21 percent increase in Social Security taxes, if they earn $10,000 per year, by 1987, compared to a 10 percent increase without the change.

We can no longer survive, it seems, without some sort of government-guaranteed retirement system (which is what Social Security has become), but this question begs an answer — where will it all end?

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

Now we can add a "Walk for Hunger," a "Hold Hands for Love" and a "Stay Awake For Charity" to the long list of promotions designed to raise funds for worthy causes. But since similar events have been taking place so often lately, I am beginning to fear the good folks who sponsor such money-raising programs will eventually run out of novel-sounding titles for their efforts. So, to help forestall such an unfortunate situation and to make certain there will always be a worthy promotion available for sweet charity's sake, I now submit a few suggestions for future fund-raising campaigns.

Why not a "Jog for Justice" or an "Eat-a-Thon for Equal Rights?" Then we could "Bicycle for Beriberi" and "Dance for Dysentery." While we are at it, why not "Sing for Sciatica" and do a bit of "Non-Stop Showering for the Heartbreak of Psoriasis"? And finally, since medical science hasn't as yet come up with a cure, why not raise funds for necessary research by setting aside a day to "Curse the Common Cold"?

Part time governor

By EARL G. WATERS

The prospects of California having only a part-time governor for the next three years gives pause to wonder whatever happened to that "dedicated" young man the people elected three years ago.

That was the fellow who was "too busy" to take out-of-state trips, or even travel in-state to attend political party affairs, let alone business and labor conventions. Shunning limousines and other trappings of high office, he conjured up the image of a "non-politician" and had most everyone buzzing about how "refreshingly different" he was. Rejecting all invitations to ceremonial and political functions on grounds the duties of his job left no time for nonsense, his first 15 months were indeed different.

But it was all too good to be true and it wasn't long before the sham was exposed. It came brashly as most things do with Jerry. On what appeared to be a spur-of-the-moment decision he leaped into the limelight as a presidential candidate and, shucking all pretense of busy work at home, flitted about the nation to bask in the adulation which goes with being a political luminary.

Missing the brass ring, there was nothing to do but return home. Still, having sampled the glory of being a national figure, he has since been unwilling to make a complete adjustment back to the humble life. More and more he has sallied forth, embarked upon his "secret" plan to "win it all" next time. He hopes that will be in 1980, for he envisions that a faltering President Carter will afford him the opportunity for a challenge while he still can run as governor of California.

First, however, he must get over the hurdle ahead, that of being re-elected governor next year. So his "dedication" to the job becomes less and less as he commences the buildup necessary to win another term.

If that were not enough to make him a part-time governor, his obsession with the idea of being president finishes it. Already he has commenced travels out of state, attending governor's conferences and on other excuses designed to get him further national exposure.

More than that, realizing the provincialness of a governor in a presidential contest, where knowledge of foreign affairs is deemed essential, he has found pretenses of state business to visit Canada, Mexico and Japan and has plans for trips to England and China next year. If he is re-elected, it can be certain he will dream up flimsy reasons for visits to even more countries. For Brown is a "quick study" type who obviously has the notion that such overnight excursions will qualify him as an "instant expert" on foreign affairs.

So, between now and next November, a full year away, the problems of the state will have to take a back seat as they share the governor's attention with his major goal of getting re-elected.

Should he win, it is also obvious that his energies will then turn to the building of a presidential campaign in preparation for 1980. Considering all this, the state will continue to suffer under a part-time governor who commenced moonlighting on the job way back in the 1976 presidential primaries.

Meanwhile, his lack of accomplishments as governor continue to plague, with economic woes of inflation and unemployment far from stemmed, crime continuing rampant and relief from excessive property taxes still but a promise. This is to say nothing of a soaring state budget which has increased 65 percent during his first three years in office.

Diseases still pose threat

Dear Ann Landers: Both my sister and I have three children between 4 and 11 years of age. Mary says she is having her children immunized this week against measled, mumps, rubella and whopping cough. She aso mentioned polio.

I have not heard of a child getting polio for several years. I thought this disease was conquered. Also, what about the others? Why go to the trouble if there is no danger?

Please check with your medical consultants and give us the right information. A visit to the doctor's office costs $25 these days. Thank you. — Champaign, Ill.

Dear Champaign: In recent months there has been a frightening increase in measles, rubella and whopping cough. Not many people realize that these diseases can cause mental retardation, deafness, pneumonia and encephalitis.

Polio has NOT been conquered. In 1954, 38,000 cases of polio were reported. In 1976, there were ten. Ten seems like a small number but if your child was one of the ten, it would be a very significant number indeed. This is the problem we are now facing. People have become complacent. We cannot afford to wait for another epidemic to hit before we protect our children.

The United States Public Health Service has just printed a new booklet, "A Parent's Guide To Childhood Immunization." It is available free. Write to Immunization, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

This booklet will tell you what shots your child needs, at what age and where to get the shots without charge in certain communities.

Oral polio vaccines are available free of charge to any school-age child in Chicago and Cook County. Parents should call the Board of Health. They will be referred to the clinic nearest their homes.

I urge every mother and dad to act to protect your children at once. What else will to do today that is as important?

Dear Ann Landers: I get along with my mother-in-law very well — until picture-taking time.

For every major family event (beginning with our wedding) she has spoiled the solemnity of the occasion by insisting on having a photographer on hand. When we sealed our vows with a kiss, the camera was right under our noses.

Last week our daughter was baptized. My mother-in-law hired a photographer (same one) and directed all the picture-taking. When I told her I didn't like the idea she said, "You'll be glad to have the pictures in years to come."

I do enjoy having pictures, but I would prefer fewer pictures and a little more dignity at affairs which are supposed to have religious significance. What do you suggest? — Overpowered

Dear Over: A good commercial photographer knows how to take pictures without getting in the way. Perhaps this is the problem.

In the future, if the event is one you should be in control of (such as the baptism of your child) tell your mother-in-law that you will engage the photographer. You can then engage the photographer of your choice, give him explicit instructions on what you want and what you do not want.

Raccoons live on dog kibble

DEAR DR. MILLER: We're feeding some semi-pet raccoons dog kibble with a bucket of water alongside. They seem pretty dependent on it now but I guess they pick up other stuff, too. They get all they want. Do they need any other food to be healthy? — C.H.

DEAR C.H.: No. Good dog food can provide complete nutrition for raccoons, as well as canines. In fact, both species often do better on dog food alone than when combined with "goodies" from the table — or elsewhere.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I can't believe how fast my dog has developed cataracts. Molly has diabetes and, I am told, that is why she got the cataracts. Her doctor is recommending she get a cataract operation. Does this operation in dogs usually work? She is completely blind now so Molly's pretty desperate and so am I. — N.K.

DEAR N.K.: Molly's doctor is the logical one to determine her chances for successful surgery. He wouldn't recommend it if there wasn't a reasonable chance. Generally speaking, if Molly's in reasonably good health otherwise and the diabetes is well controlled, the chances for successfully restoring her sight is good.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My son is proud of his new horse and in just a few days is doing pretty well riding him. One thing that worries me, though. The horse won't give my son his hind leg, he backs away or swipes at him when he tries to lift it off the ground. How do you go about training the horse to tive his hind foot to you? It's a matter of pride with my son that he be able to pick up that hind foot whenever he wants to, but so for it's no go. — A.B.

DEAR A.B.: Horse hind foot handling is best attempted with an expert's guidance. A horse's hind foot is a dangerous weapon. (A veterinarian who was a good friend of mine was killed by a blow to his head from a horse's hoof.) Such training should be slow, careful and deliberate. Step one is gaining the horse's complete confidence because he is surrendering his chief weapon to you when he lets you hold his foot. Training the horse to allow this may take several weeks and should involve patience and proper technique—and respect for horse and hoof.

Fattening foods fight back

I was leafing through a magazine the other day when my eyes fell upon a full-page ad of a potato with two eyes, a mouth, and two little gloved hands saying, "I AM NOT FATTENING."

I wanted to believe the little devil. He seemed so sincere. Besides, I never met a potato I didn't like. It occured to me that lately a lot of foods have been fighting back at ugly publicity.

Health enthusiasts have made me uptight over milk products, paranoid over sugar, and a couple of weeks ago I ate a glazed doughnut and felt so guilty I established a Weight Watchers Scholarship in my name.

If more carbohydrates would take a stand, it would certainly make it easier for those of us who are weak and motivated by your basic hunger.

I went to lunch the other week with my friend, Ellie, who gives me a royal pain with her dieting. When my hamburger came with a mound of French fries, I thought she'd break out into a rash.

"Ah . . . ah . . . ah . . . naughty . . . naughty!"

"You are wrong," I said, "Carbohydrates offer you important vitamins and minerals such as Vitamin C, B6 and Niacin."

"Where did you hear that?"

"On Merv Griffin's Salute To Starches night."

"You're lying. You do that all the time to get out of dieting."

"That's not true. I always buy dietary bread."

"And put gravy on it."

"I ate a carrot stick last week."

"With two pounds of dip on the end of it."

"Didn't I buy a whole box of caramel appetite killers?"

"And melted them to put over your ice cream."

"Why would a potato lie to you? What's in it for them?" Addressing the potatoes I asked, "Have we ever met before?"

"I think you've popped your cork," said Ellie.

"No, I want to pursue this. Why would some strange potato single me out to deceive me?"

"I can see you are not motivated to being thin."

"That's all you know," I said opening my purse and sanctimoniously popping a small artificial sweetener pill into my cappucino.

Hopefully the potato ad is a trend. I mean if you can't trust a chocolate eclair looking you in the eye and saying, "I am not a crook", whom can you trust?

Two types of gall stones

DEAR DR. LAMB — Will all gall stones show up on X-rays? I had my gall bladder removed a year ago. A year has passed since then and I have lots of pain in the area where the gall bladder was. I have had X-rays and no stones show up.

I have heard if one has stones that aren't removed they can cause cancer. Is there any other way except by X-ray that they can locate gall stones?

DEAR READER — In general, there are two types of gall stones but there can be mixtures of materials that form stones. The stones formed chiefly from cholesterol are not opaque on X-rays. That is why a person takes gall bladder dye before a gall bladder examination.

The dye is opaque and concentrates inside the gall bladder. The transparent cholesterol stones then stand out from the solid appearing dye and can be seen.

The stones made from bile pigment are small, hard stones that are visible on X-rays without dye and some stones contain other minerals that make them visible.

The opaque stones can be seen by X-ray even if they are in the bile system after the gall bladder has been removed, and if you inject opaque material the others can be seen as well. There are techniques to visualize by X-ray the entire bilary tree.

Discomfort from abnormal drainage of the bile may still be present after an operation. Then there is that frequent problem that the pain the patient was bothered with may not have been caused by the gall stones at all, even if stones were present. The main offender here is pain in the colon, in the upper right abdomen over the liver area. A spastic colon often causes pain in this area whether or not the person has gall stones. When the gall stones are seen on X-ray, it is then assumed that they are the cause of the pain — which may not be the case at all.

In such a case, after the gall stones are removed the spastic colon persists and the pain in the upper right abdomen persists too. The patient may think it is because the gall bladder disease has not been cured, but the truth may be the gall bladder never had anything to do with the pain.

That doesn't mean the gall bladder should not have removed. The weight of evidence is in favor of removing a diseased gall bladder if you have a good surgeon available and are otherwise in good health and unlikely to have complications from surgery. I might add that all the surgeons I know tell me they are very good, but some of them seem to have better results than others.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-9, Gall Stones and Gall Bladder Disease, to give you more information. Others who want information on this subject can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for this issue to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

If you have colon complaints, you may need to go on a program to improve your colon function, including increasing the cereal bulk in your diet.

There is an increased incidence of cancer of gall bladders with stones. Since yours has been removed, I think you don't need to worry about that.

Astrographs

By Bernice Bede Osol
For Wednesday, Nov. 9, 1977
Your Birthday, Nov. 9, 1977

That brass ring that has been so elusive will not escape your grasp this coming year. You may now obtain what has been so near and yet so far.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is a day when you can take everything in stride. Without looking for anyone to throw down the gauntlet, you would welcome a challenge. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each sign and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24-Dec. 21) Occasionally you tend to blurt things out without thinking. Today, you'll restrain yourself to avoid betraying a confidence.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This is a fortunate day, because most people you deal with, both on personal and business levels, want to do you favors.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Important achievements are possible now, particularly if you take pride in your work. You'll get what you want by keeping your shoulder to the wheel.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Things have a way of working out to your ultimate benefit today. Others will pitch in to help make it all possible.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't take for granted the one you love today. If you've been ignoring him or her, show you care by trying a little tenderness.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Traditional values or customs, always important, are more so today. Actions on your part along these lines will be extra pleasing to your family.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Forget about experimenting with untried procedures in your work today. Time-tested methods will produce the best results.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) The speculative venture most profitable for you today is the one you have to put the least into to get the greatest return.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) That you take your obligations and responsibilities very seriously today gains you added respect and admiration from loved ones.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A secret admirer who has previously not shown any sign of his or her true feelings today may give you an overt indication.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There are still a few obstacles in the path of something for which you've worked long and hard. Today's events could remove at least one of them.

Opening lead — 10♣

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

Here is a hand from a match between Spain and Germany. The German bidding as shown in the box was straight forward enough provided you know that South's three-spade bid showed a solid suit.

Declarer looked over dummy, remarked that he guessed he had underbid and wished he was in seven. He let the club come around to his king, cashed two high spades, burst into happy laughter when East showed out, played out the trumps and made only six on account of the horrendous trump break.

The Spaniards started with an artificial club and somehow or other South became declarer at six notrump after North bid all around the mulberry bush. A heart was opened. He won the trick, came to his hand with the king of clubs, led the ace of spades, noted the spade nine, then worked out the play to make six notrump.

It wasn't a tough one. He simply cashed the other three top spades while discarding one heart and three clubs and then led the 10 of diamonds for a finesse.

Ask the Jacobys

An Oregon reader wants to know the correct opening bid with:

♠ A K x x x ♥ K x ♦ x ♣ A K x x x

Either one club or one spade is acceptable. We prefer to open one club and then bid and rebid spades.

'Booze' came from bottler

Argument continues over whether "booze" as slang for liquor originated from the E.C. Booz name or from the Dutch word for "to drink." Both, in a way. The Booze family of Pennsylvania and New Jersey sold liquor in log-cabin bottles, and it became the custom of drinking pioneers to ask for a Booz bottle and eventually a bottle of booze. But the Booz people came from Holland originally, and it's likely their name harked back to the old Dutch word.

PINK

Q. "How come bubble gum is usually pink?"

A. Because it was the only food coloring at hand when Walter Diemer by trial and error came up with a non-plastering bubble in 1928. The tradition got started right then. Diemer was an accountant with an ambition to invent. If he'd had green food coloring instead, most bubble gum would probably be green now.

Q. "I can't find that poetic word 'zarf' in my dictionary. . . ?"

A. It's a holder for a handleless coffee cup. Poetic? What's it rhyme with? Besides barf. Never mind.

Q. "Can you name the films in which Mrs. Pat Nixon appeared when she was an aspiring actress?"

A. "Ben Hur," "Small Town Girl" and "Becky." She was an extra.

Q. "What does the Bible have to say about prejudice?"

A. Nothing. That word isn't in it.

Victim has encouraging words for the Carters

TOCCOA, Ga. (AP) — A man who lost his wife and son in the flood that overwhelmed this northeastern Georgia community found words of encouragement for President Carter's wife, who sought to comfort him in a hospital.

"We'll be praying for you and the big things you have to do," Jeffery Metzger said as Rosalynn Carter left his room.

Metzger and a daughter, Debbie, survived the flood. But his wife and son were among those killed in rampaging waters.

A rain-swollen lake burst through an earthen dam early Sunday, sending tons of water crashing down a falls and through Toccoa. Especially hard hit was the Toccoa Falls Bible College.

Metzger was among several persons Mrs. Carter visited in a brief stopover at the hospital on a hill just above the area where the flood waters struck as most of the college's students and staff slept.

She flew by jet from Washington to Anderson, S.C., then by military helicopter to Toccoa. She returned to Washington Sunday night.

When Mrs. Carter arrived, she saw dozens of bulldozers churning through muddy debris, clearing away remnants of homes and school buildings.

"It was indescribable," the first lady said at a news conference. "It's a terrible tragedy."

Private services slated

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The family of Florence Vidor planned private funeral services Sunday for the silent screen actress, who died at the age of 82.

Miss Vidor, once married to director King Vidor and later to violinist Jascha Heifetz, died Thursday night at her Pacific Palisades home, her daughter, Suzanne Vidor Parry, said.

The actress' silent films included "A Tale of Two Cities," "Grand Duchess and the Waiter," "Magnificent Flirt" and "Chinatown Nights."

Florence and King Vidor came from Texas to Hollywood in 1918, where he worked as an actor and director. She started as an extra in films and rose to stardom shortly after her cart ride to the guillotine in "A Tale of Two Cities."

She divorced Vidor in 1925 and stopped acting after her marriage to Heifetz in 1928. She was divorced from Heifetz in 1946.

In addition to Mrs. Parry, she is survived by two children from her marriage to Heifetz, Josepha and Robert.

Monster is well insured

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Godzilla, the movie monster known as the scourge of cities and human life, is protected by insurance.

"When we were approached to issue the insurance," said Edward Yerger, resident vice president of Fireman's Fund Insurance Companies branch here, "no one had the nerve to turn Godzilla down.

"But we're not complete pushovers. We'd heard Godzilla has breath that would fry a chicken, so we wrote the policy to exclude any loss caused by extreme temperatures, as well as wear and tear, dishonesty, flood and mysterious disappearance," Yerger added.

The request for coverage, made by Cinema Shares International, was actually for a monster costume used to promote a Godzilla film at theaters around the country. The insurance firm wrote a scheduled articles floater with a $5,000 limit.

After three tough years

Scott claims survivor status in Hearst case

By BOB BAUM

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Jack Scott, the man who Patricia Hearst says drove her and two fellow fugitives across country to elude the FBI, considers himself a survivor.

After what he calls "three tough, miserable years" of battling the FBI and the U.S. Justice Department, Scott and his wife, Micki, have bought a comfortable turn-of-the-century home in northwest Portland. They have a child, Jonah Gregory, born on Labor Day, and express "an implicit faith in the future."

Scott talks of writing a book about his knowledge of the Hearst case and of the terrorist organization that kidnapped her, the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Miss Hearst has testified that the Scotts drove her from California to Pennsylvania, along with SLA members Bill and Emily Harris, and let them use a farmhouse the Scotts rented near Jack's hometown of Scranton, Pa.

Scott, now 35, still carefully avoids admitting whether he helped the fugitives shortly after six of their comrades were slain in a shootout with police in Los Angeles.

But he drops grenade-sized hints.

"Sure I'm going to write about it," Scott said. "If I was there a day or two after the massacre in Los Angeles and I can portray Patty Hearst's state at that time, I think it's worth writing about.

"Let's say I was in those situations," he said. "Whatever I write, some of it would portray her in a sympathetic manner and some would show that she lied under oath."

Scott, once the unconventional athletic director at Oberlin College in Ohio, said he feels the government has no further interest in his connection with the Hearst case.

"The word was communicated to us that the Carter Justice Department wasn't going to pursue the Hearst case any further," he said.

But the Scotts still recall with bitterness those three years, which included a five-month disappearance "underground."

"What we kept saying is, 'If we've done something wrong, please give us a trial,'" Scott said. "Suppose we did do it, and it was the right thing to do because it saved lives, we have the faith that even in Scranton a jury would be able to decide who the real criminals were. It would have been the government that was on trial, not us."

Micki recalled an incident after they were subpoenaed in Portland to appear before a grand jury in Harrisburg, Pa.

She had used the telephone to order concert tickets from a Portland music store, Longhair Records.

"I said 'My name is Micki Scott and I'll be right there to pick them up.' When we got downtown and pulled up at Longhair Records there were like three carloads of marshals waiting for us."

Then the FBI came knocking at the door, and Rolling Stone magazine published an article, complete with dialogue, on Scott's alleged cross-country trip.

"Eight different times in a 2½-year period the national networks ran stories that Micki and I were about to be indicted in Pennsylvania," he said. No indictment came.

"We found out they (the FBI) had hired a team of psychiatrists to find out how they could most effectively get us to talk," he said.

Intimidation and an offer of a $200,000 bribe to Scott's father did not work, he said.

Scott said the Hearst cloud started to lift when Micki was hired as the director of the community center in Linnton, a small industrial section of north Portland.

With that part of their lives behind them, a $20,000 advance for a book on basketball star and friend, Bill Walton, in their pockets, and a belief that "at least 50 percent" of Americans now share similar values, the Scotts decided to have a child.

"Having Jonah shows a certain faith in the future based on our experience over the last three years," Scott said.

Charter flight security set

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Passengers and baggage on charter flights from Los Angeles International Airport will go through the same security checks as those on regularly scheduled flights beginning today, authorities reported.

Clifford A. Moore, general manager of the Department of Airports, says the action is backed by Mayor Tom Bradley and by the five-member Board of Airport Commissioners in view of recent hijackings.

The screenings will be conducted primarily by charter carriers.

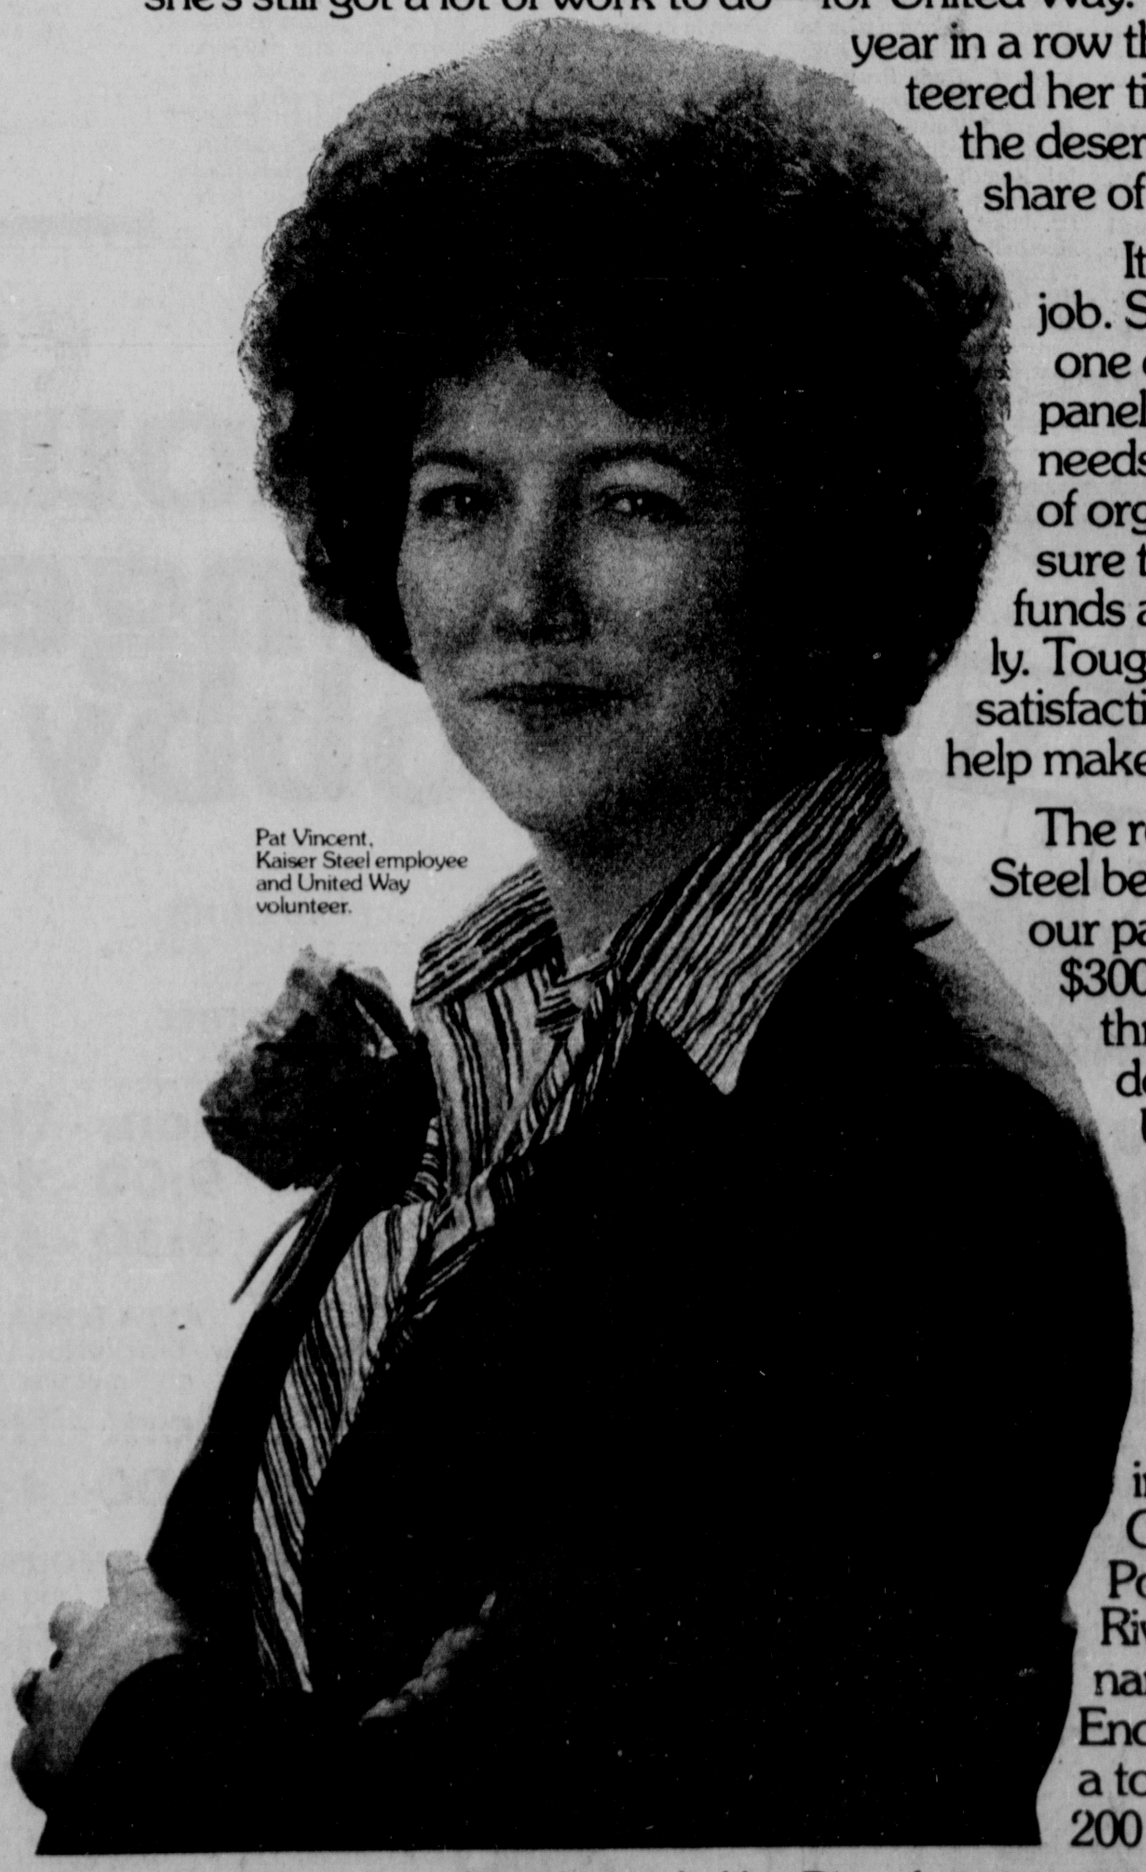
A STEEL WOMAN WITH A SOFT HEART.

Pat Vincent works for Kaiser Steel. But after a full day at the office she's still got a lot of work to do—for United Way. This is the third year in a row that Pat has volunteered her time to see that the deserving get their share of United Way funds.



Pat Vincent, Kaiser Steel employee and United Way volunteer.

It's a time-consuming job. She's a member of one of the volunteer panels that looks into the needs of a great variety of organizations to assure that United Way funds are distributed fairly. Tough decisions, but the satisfaction of being able to help makes it all worthwhile.

The rest of us at Kaiser Steel believe in doing our part, too. This year $300,000 was raised through payroll deductions for the United Way and other charitable organizations. In addition, the company is giving a total of $96,000 to United Way drives in Corona/Norco, Greater Fontana, Pomona, Redlands, Riverside, San Bernardino, and West End, which support a total of more than 200 organizations.

We have a lot of people like Pat who give time and money to help our neighbors, both young and old, enjoy a better life. We hope you'll give your fair share, too.

KAISER STEEL

We try to be good neighbors. It's our neighborhood, too.

Chinese to ally with opponents of their enemies

TOKYO (AP) — In a lengthy review of the state of the world, China's Communist leaders make clear that they have settled on a policy of being friends, at least temporarily, with anyone opposed to their enemies.

The article last week in the official Peking People's Daily disclosed there had been some disagreement over such points as how capitalists could be allies of the Chinese Communists. The decision was to set aside some doctrinaire points in favor of practical results.

This explains the recent relatively good relations between Peking and Washington despite the article's assertion that the United States and the Soviet Union are exploiting, bullying superpowers, "the common enemies of the people of the world."

Declaring that the Soviet Union is the more ferocious, reckless and treacherous of the two, the article said putting it on a par with the United States "blurs the primary target," meaning the Soviet Union.

The opposition to being friends with ideological foes was led by the "Gang of Four," the radical leaders arrested last October, the article indicated.

"They opposed China's support to the Third World, opposed China's effort to unite with all forces that can be united, and opposed our dealing blows at the most dangerous enemy," the article said.

"They vainly tried to sabotage the building of an international united front against hegemonism and to disrupt China's anti-hegemonist struggle, doing Soviet social-imperialism a good turn."

Arguing for the united-front policy, the article praised the Soviet alliance with the Western allies against Germany in World War II and the Chinese Communists' alliance with the Nationalist Chinese government against Japan.

These were necessary, it said, to safeguard the Soviet and Chinese Communists from the greatest danger at the time.

Later, the Chinese Communists went back to war against the Nationalists, driving them from the mainland in 1949, and the Soviet Union took a hostile stance toward the capitalist West.

The Chinese view is that the nations of the Third World will naturally fight imperialism because they have been subjected to its most ruthless oppression. It considers Africa, Latin America and Asia, including China but excluding Japan and the Soviet Union, in the Third World.

"In the common struggle against the Soviet Union and the United States, it is both necessary and possible to ally with the Second World under given conditions," the article said.

It did not spell out these conditions.

The Second World is Japan, Canada and Europe.

While the Second World has exploited the Third World, the article continued, it also "is being subjected to interference, control and bullying by the two hegemonist powers and to their war threats, particularly on the part of the Soviet Union."

Scientists linked by satellite

ANAHEIM (AP) — Testing a way for scientists to exchange new ideas without leaving their laboratories, brain researchers on both coasts have discussed recent findings — complete with drawings and slides — through a two-way color satellite hookup.

The satellite relay linked scientists in Washington, D.C., and Lexington, Ky., with the opening Sunday of the Seventh Annual Meeting of the Society for Neuroscience.

Said to be the fastest-growing scientific society in the nation, the group includes more than 5,000 researchers probing human behavior by studying how messages are transmitted in the brain and nervous system.

The video link got underway with a message from Dr. Thomas Bryant, chairman of the President's Commission on Mental Health, who gave greetings from President and Mrs. Carter. With Bryant in the studio at the National Institute of Mental Health in Bethesda, Md., were Nobel laureates Dr. Julius Axelrod and Dr. Marshall Nirenburg.

Through a split-screen effect, viewers in the three cities could see several researchers at once. At one point, Dr. Floyd Bloom of the Salk Institute and president of the society, presented a drawing of the brain showing the location of cells that are receivers of chemicals called endorphins, naturally occurring pain-killers, currently of intense interest in brain studies.

In Lexington, Dr. William Martin of the University of Kentucky, former head of addiction research at the National Institute of Drug Abuse, viewed the drawing and answered questions posed by Bloom about how the two researchers' work fit together.

Bloom said that while some small conferences have used satellite hookups previously, this was the first two-way color link used by participants in a large multidisciplinary meeting. The ATS satellite and the Communications Technology satellite were employed in the relay.

BRONCO LEADERS

Talented AIA cagers visit Cal Poly tonight

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

The best amateur basketball team to visit the Pomona area this season will be at Cal Poly's Kellogg Gym tonight to help Coach Don Hogan unveil the 1977-78 Bronco varsity.

Poly doesn't figure to have much of a chance against the taller and most experienced Athletes in Action team but Hogan welcomes the opportunity of letting his youngsters meet a polished outfit like AIA in an exhibition-type contest which doesn't count on the season record.

There's no question about AIA's talent.

The Tustin-based team is coming off an incredible 36-7 campaign which included victories over college powers San Francisco and Nevada Las Vegas.

AIA opened the current season last week by knocking off the Soviets, 93-84, followed by victories over Point Loma, 95-57, and the University of San Diego, 97-86.

"They sound even more awesome than last year," Hogan said about tonight's opponents. "We consider it quite a challenge to play the team many consider the best amateur team in America."

Tickets for tonight's 8 o'clock tipoff are available at the door. Prices are $1.50 for adults, $1 for students and 50 cents for children under 12.

While Hogan hopes his team can do well in front of the home fans this evening, he also realizes he has a lot of new faces making their first appearance together.

"We have to use this game to evaluate what we have done do far," Hogan says. "Then we will need to piece together some of the things we need to work on."

Poly will open its regular schedule on Thanksgiving weekend on a three-game trip to Stanford, California and Nevada Reno.

The Broncos will open with a pair of veteran guards in seniors Tom Ispas (5-7) and Charles Johnson (6-2), the co-captains.

Ispas, a four-year starter at Poly, is the team's playmaker while Charles Johnson averaged 10.7 points a game.

Junior Broderick Hunter (6-6), the former Ganesha High star, will open at one of the forward spots with walk-on Geoff Worley (6-3), a transfer from San Diego Mesa, at the other. Worley led the South Coast Conference in rebounding last year with 8.8 per game.

The rest of the Bronco roster consists of newcomers.

Other JC transfers are Claremont High product Marcus Sears (5-7) from Chaffey, Mike Scarano (5-9) from Riverside and Stewart Gibson (6-3) from Santa Barbara.

Hogan recruited three freshmen in Carl Underwood (6-2) from Riverside's Ramona High, Leonard Meeks (6-3) from Gary, Ind. and Don DeWitt (6-3) from Auburn, Ind. A freshman walk-on is Henry Lindsey (6-3) from Los Angeles High.

"We have a good blend," Hogan said, "and this group has a very positive attitude."

AIA is again led by former UCLA center Ralph Drollinger (7-2). Other returning starters are guard Brad Hoffman (5-9) plus forwards Tim Hall (6-8) and Irvin Kiffin (6-9).

Top newcomers on the AIA roster this season include former San Diego State star Steve Copp (6-7) plus Alonzo Bradley (6-7) of Texas Southern, the NAIA Player of the Year last season.

The list also includes seven-foot center Ed Gregg of Utah State and guard Mike Jackson (6-3) of Tennessee.

Colts hitting peak at the right time

BALTIMORE (AP) — It was another Monday night victory, not as impressive as a year ago, perhaps, but right on schedule as far as the Baltimore Colts were concerned.

The Colts slogged through the mud in Memorial Stadium to score a 10-3 decision over the Washington Redskins, with a 12-yard pass from Bert Jones to a diving Freddie Scott providing the winning points early in the final quarter.

While it pushed Baltimore's record to 7-1 and kept it alone atop the AFC East, the hard-earned triumph in the defense-dominated clash of neighborhood rivals was in sharp contrast to the last Monday night game here, one year ago against Houston.

The Colts hosted the Oilers, also in the season's eighth week, and thundered to a 38-14 victory. It proved to be their best effort of the year as they dropped two of their final five games before being easily eliminated in the first round of the playoffs.

But although the margin of victory over the Redskins was much smaller, the Colts felt their latest nationally televised win would show up more decisively in the long run.

"We're hitting our peak at the right time this season," said defensive end Fred Cook.

Cook, a four-year veteran, and the rest of the Colts' "Sack Pack" front four put intense pressure on Redskins quarterback Joe Theismann, sacking him five times and helping to create a pair of interceptions by linebacker Stan White.

The Baltimore offense, meanwhile, was controlling the ball, with Jones & Company running off 80 plays to Washington's 54 and using up 12½ more minutes of playing time.

"I said early in the week that we couldn't leave our defense out there all game and still beat the Colts. Well, that's exactly what we did, and I didn't help them any," said Theismann, who completed 11 of 27 throws for 168 yards.

Theismann and the rest of the Redskins, now 4-4 and in third place in the NFC East, throught they had gained a shot at a tie on the final play.

The quarterback's toss from the Baltimore 13 was caught in the end zone by Calvin Hill. But the officials, who had stopped the clock with two second remaining as defensive players lined up, ruled that time had run out before the ball was snapped.

A poor play by the special teams, a perennially strong point of Allen-coached squads, led to the Colts' winning points in the game played in a steady rain on a field soaked by two days of downpour.

Late in the third period, with the score knotted on field goals by Toni Linhart and Mark Moseley, Washington punter Mike Bragg shanked a 22-yard kick out of bounds at the Baltimore 39.

From there, the Colts moved steadily downfield, with Jones suddenly finding the range on passes that earlier had been sailing over the heads of open men or splashing in the mud in front of diving receivers.

"It was hard to really zip the ball in this kind of weather," said Jones, who completed 13 of 27 passes for 180 yards.

On a third-and-seven situation, Jones hit Scott with a bullet over the middle, gaining the first down by inches at the Washington 14. Then after a two-yard run, Jones and Scott connected again, this time for the winning TD on a pass that the Amherst graduate had to stretch full-length to grab in the end zone.

Bukich will get his big opportunity

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Film script in the making: Son of a one-time Rose Bowl star for Southern California goes to arch-rival UCLA instead, and when it looks like he'll be the starting quarterback, the coaches pick somebody else.

But near the end of this very real UCLA football drama of 1977, approaching the climactic USC game, first team quarterback Rick Bashore injures a rib and lung and they finally give the ball to Steve Bukich.

The script needs a little work before USC can act surprised. Bukich first gets a lower-budget starring role against Oregon State this Saturday, followed by a two-week layoff, before the maybe-epic meeting with USC Nov. 25.

"Steve has waited all year long for the opportunity to play and he's a very strong competitor and has a lot of confidence in his ability," UCLA Coach Terry Donahue said Monday.

UCLA, USC and Washington are currently tied for the Pacific-8 conference football lead with 4-1 records, so a Rose Bowl berth to the Nov. 25 winner is a strong possibility. UCLA must beat Oregon State and USC would have to get by Washington this Saturday to light the fuse for the Nov. 25 game.

The game against Oregon State, 1-8 so far, is at the Los Angeles Coliseum Saturday afternoon. Bashore, suffering from a fractured rib and collapsed lung, definitely will miss this weekend's game, but may be ready for some duty against USC Nov. 25.

In 1953, Rudy Bukich was chosen player of the game for Southern California in a 7-0 Rose Bowl victory over Wisconsin.

The younger Bukich, a 6-1, 215 pound junior, was backup quarterback for the Bruins in 1976, but missed a good share of 1977 spring drills because of a rib injury of his own.

Sophomore Bashore made the most of the opportunity, got to start UCLA's first game against Houston, and played brilliantly although the Bruins lost 17-13.

It's been rough season at Pomona-Pitzer

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

It's been a rough season for Pomona-Pitzer coach Walt Ambord.

"I'd read about that high school coach who pulled his team off the field and put them on the bus at the half because he was trailing 63-0," Ambord said at the Progress Bulletin football luncheon Monday. "Well, I decided to do that Saturday at the half at our game at Whittier, but when I called for the bus the driver said it wouldn't start!"

Such is life for a coach whose team is now 0-6 on the year and wound up losing 53-6 at Whittier Saturday.

Ambord's witty comments spiced Monday's weekly P-B luncheon, but there was also talk of a more serious nature as a couple junior college showdowns loom on the horizon.

Winning the Offensive Player of the Week award at the four-year level was Azusa Pacific split end Randy McElveen, who caught six passes for 103 yards in the Cougars' 13-0 loss to Cal State L.A.

The defensive award for the four-year schools went to Don Chester of Claremont-Mudd, who intercepted two passes in the Stags' 21-7 loss at Occidental.

Both JC awards went to Chaffey College players. Bob Pleasant rushed for 82 yards, caught four passes for 42 more yards, scored two touchdowns and had a 92-yard kickoff return for a TD called back in the Panthers' win at Southwestern. Craig Ralston, who made 11 tackles, one quarterback sack and recovered two fumbles, was tabbed as the defensive player.

Others nominated were Tim Gaffney of APC and Dana Lanier and Lucio Sagasta of La Verne.

Quoting the coaches:

AMBORD, Pomona-Pitzer: "Whittier poured it on us, I'm just glad I'm not one of their second or third stringers, I'd never get to play. Their coach, John Godfrey, is a good friend of mine. I'd hate to think what might have happened if he were my enemy!

"Lyle Lansdell came on late in the game and led us to a touchdown, so that was a bright spot for us. He'll definitely be our starting quarterback Saturday vs. La Verne.

"We played La Verne earlier this year and they kicked the hell out of us. We'll try to make a better game of it this time around."

MAL EATON, MSAC: "We had a bye last week, this week we play Fullerton. They have been the number-one ranked team in the national JC polls since the start of the season and they deserve it. They are a well-balanced team and throw the ball exceptionally well. They have no major weaknesses that I can see.

"We're looking forward to playing them. We have a positive attitude, we feel we've got a shot at them if we avoid mistakes."

MIKE MERANDI, Chaffey: "We went down to Southwestern last week, they were a good team. We led only 3-0 at the half but played a flawless third quarter. We had three long drives and scored 21 points to put the game away.

"We play Saddleback this week, they are an extremely strong football team with a powerful defense. They play with poise. We have the ability to beat them if we don't make any errors. We're looking forward to it, they are a super team coaching-wise and it should be an outstanding game."

ROLAND ORTMAYER, La Verne: "We played Redlands and they beat us so we still have a goose-egg (0-3) in our conference. They handled us pretty well, although we hurt ourselves pretty badly with some penalities. Having played both of them, Whittier-Redlands should make a good contest. It's tough to pick a winner between those two.

"This week we stay closer to home. We play Pomona, we obviously have a decided advantage in sheer manpower and that makes it rough on them."

JOHN ZINDA, Claremont-Mudd: "We lost 21-7 at Oxy but we gave them one of their touchdowns so it should have been 14-7. We led 7-0 at the half but a couple fumbles in the third quarter really hurt us.

"I thought our defense played a whale of a game, all in all we are not embarrassed with our performance. We just are not the kind of team that can afford to make mistakes.

"We play Redlands this Saturday, right now we're spoilers in our conference. The pressure will be on Redlands. They are a good football team but they're beatable. We just need an error-free football game to beat them."

JOHN STRYCULA, Citrus: "Saddleback deserved to win their game with us Saturday. We felt we could beat them going in but our execution and skills didn't match our effort. They're the sort of team which doesn't need any help but we gave it to them, we spotted them 16 points on three fumbles and you just can't do that.

"We hope to bounce back this week against Riverside City College. They're a good ballclub and will give us a battle."

JACK COSBY, APC assistant coach: "It rained almost our whole game with CSLA, and as a result there were something like 14 turnovers in the contest. We just couldn't run on them, our defense played well but we just had no offense.

"This week we play Cal Lutheran. We will try to throw the ball more against them, they have been more inconsistent this year than previously but are still a tough team to beat."

GRAYLE HOWLETT, Cal Poly Sports Information Director: "We played probably our worst game vs. Fullerton. Coach Jones said today that we're not 0-7 players and he's not an 0-7 coach, that he definitely wants a win this year in our final three games.

"Fullerton was a good team with good personnel, but we did not play well against them. This week we host Santa Clara, it will be Homecoming for us. Santa Clara has lost its last five games but they did not have their star quarterback in four of those losses. He will be back for us Saturday."

OFFENSE — Wayne Morris, running back, St. Louis Cardinals, carried 27 times for 182 yards — the second highest total in team history — and scored twice as the Cards upset the Minnesota Vikings 27-7.

DEFENSE — Spike Jones, punter, Philadelphia Eagles, kicked the ball out of bounds inside the 10-yard line four times, keeping New Orleans buried in poor field position and helping the Eagles beat the Saints 28-7.

Stags post pool win

Claremont-Mudd ran its SCIAC water polo record to 5-1 recently with a 14-9 win over Pomona-Pitzer. The win kept the Stags in second place in the SCIAC standings.

Louie Caron led the way for the Stag swimmers with four goals. C-M's only conference loss was a 18-13 defeat at Occidental.

The Stags will host Whittier at 4 p.m. Wednesday, and have a showdown battle with Oxy coming up Nov. 19.

Nelles School realizing its dream

WHITTIER — There is a kind of football fever sweeping the Nelles School here as the resident Nitehawks have won six of their first seven games in public high school competition.

There is even talk of an invitation to the California Interscholastic Federation playoffs at the end of the season, and for Nelles this is something of an impossible dream.

The grid fever is different than what you might normally expect at a high school. There are no bands, no cheerleaders and no pom-pom girls, and much of the Nelles student body has a disconcerting habit of rooting for the opposing team.

This is because Nelles is a California Youth Authority institution for high school-age offenders and many of its students tend to be perverse.

"Anyway," explained coach Jeff Baker, "they all wanted to be on the team so they are filled with sour grapes. That's why most of them cheer us only when we fumble or throw an interception or the other team scores a touchdown."

As it has turned out so far this year, the students have had few opportunities to cheer as the Nitehawks have stampeded their way through Sherman Indian, Santa Monica JVs, Servite JVs, Capistrano Valley and Don Lugo and Irvine high schools, losing only to Cypress in the second game of the year.

"We got off to a slow start," explained Baker, but he added that slow starts are an inevitable part of the Nelles football scene.

For one thing, he said, he had to start the 1977 season with only four holdovers from the previous year because the average length of stay at Nelles is less than a year, and most of the football players get paroled between football seasons. A few players go on parole during the season itself and Baker anticipates, with a touch of sadness, that he may lose a few of his key performers before the CIF playoffs are scheduled.

Team readiness at the beginning of the year also has been hampered by the process of selecting the players. Baker does his recruiting from the school's living units, each of which fields an intramural flag football team, and Baker has to scout prospects painstakingly before making final selections. As a result, the raw material for the team has not been in place before September.

Baker, who began his CYA career in 1968 as a youth counselor at Nelles is now a physical education teacher, is a former college football player at Fullerton Junior College and Long Beach State. He came up with the idea of fielding a high school football team at Nelles six years ago because, he said, "I thought it was important to develop some team spirit." The school administration, after some soul-searching, gave him the green light and the first official team took the field in 1971.

Over the next three years, Nelles was able to schedule only two or three games a year with public high schools.

"I think there was some fear about getting involved with us," he said. "Eventually the word got out that we played hard, but we played clean."

"I won't tolerate rough stuff," Baker said, "and the guys know it. They know that if they do something out of line they will have to deal with me."

Last week the Nitehawks' on-field deportment received a nod from principal of Capistrano Valley, vanquished earlier this year, who sent a letter to his counterpart at Nelles, Jerry Reiser, praising the Nelles team for its "outstanding sportsmanship."

The Nitehawks achieved another milestone during the game with Don Lugo at the latter school's Chino Field.

It was the first-ever game played by Nelles away from home, a step approved with some hesitation by school officials.

Eight staff members were on hand to root for their team, while keeping an eye on them. The players' families also turned up, and they were rewarded with a stirring game in which the Nitehawks scored a last minute touchdown and a two-point conversion to eke out a 14-13 victory.

Baker said the Nelles team is almost always outweighed by its opponents because bigger, older Youth Authority wards are generally sent to other institutions. He has had to devise special strategies which emphasize speed and surprise to overcome the opponents' size advantage, including a defense which features stunting and formation changes.

Since virtually all of the team members are juvenile offenders whose names may not be publicized, the Nitehawks are truly a no-name aggregation.

Nevertheless, it has its stars, including a classic, drop-back quarterback who throws with pinpoint accuracy and has a 59 percent completion average; a linebacker who plays fullback on offense and is the natural team leader; and a speedy, elusive halfback who has been averaging six yards per carry.

There are 30 young men on the squad all told, ranging from 15 to 18 years of age, and most play either defense or offense. Only four go both ways.

Only two of the team members played high school football before coming to Nelles.

"Most," Baker said, "simply don't have the discipline to play in the community. Here, though, the discipline is mandated."

Baker does have a problem stemming from his dual role as a football coach and a Youth Authority staff member. By CYA policy, wards may file formal grievances if they feel they are being unfairly treated and Baker sometimes has to respond to

Meeting slated on prep 'forefeit'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Wilson-Lincoln high school football game, in which Lincoln didn't come out for the second half after being routed 63-0, will be the subject of a special meeting of a Los Angeles school system athletic committee Wednesday.

A sports information spokesman for the public school system, Jerry Weiner, says the two coaches and principals from the schools have been invited to attend the 8 a.m. meeting, which will include a report by referees of last Friday's game.

Among the issues to be discussed is alleged failure of Lincoln coaches to say they weren't coming back for more. But the school system spokesman indicated possible "pouring it on" aspects of the first half may also be discussed.

There were seven on-side kicks by Wilson, in efforts to recover the ball for more scoring opportunities. Lincoln, demoralized by loss of five on-side kicks and five pass interceptions, resorted to punting on first down on some occasions when it was their turn to have the ball.

Coach Dave Loera said it was his decision to forfeit because it was "physically unsafe" for his players to continue. He said injuries had reduced the team to 15 players, including three who were ineligible, and he was worried about being forced to cancel two remaining games if further injuries resulted.

Weiner reports that when Lincoln did not appear back on the field within one-half hour, the referees and Wilson officials checked the door of the Lincoln dressing room, and found it locked with the players and coach inside.

A total of two hours passed before, still in their uniforms, the Lincoln team boarded a bus to return to their school.

"We weren't going for records," Wilson Coach Vic Cuccia said when asked about the unrelenting first-half pressure. He said he planned to lift his first-string players during the second half, and the second-and-third string team members were shocked and disappointed when the game was cut short.

Lincoln Coach Loera said he had no knowledge that Wilson planned to bench the first-string after halftime. He said that the Wilson first team played all the way in beating his team 49-0 a year ago.

Longshots sweep Russell Handicap

ARCADIA (AP) — Two longshots, All Hope and Antique, captured their divisions of the Henry P. Russell Handicap Monday-closing day of the Oak Tree meeting at Santa Anita.

Bill Shoemaker had seven mounts in a bid to overtake Darrel McHargue as leading rider of the 24-day meeting, but failed to score a victory. McHargue had 36 victories and Shoemaker 33.

Shoemaker's mounts Monday included two second-place finishes, and three horses were third. McHargue has been sitting out a suspension since last Friday.

French-bred All Hope moved out of a wide lead and carried it strongly for a 2½ length victory in the $33,375 first division of the handicap, timed in 1:48 1-5 for the 1⅛ miles on turf. It was the second victory in four races in the United States for the horse that campaigned in Europe earlier in the year.

O.J. throwing hip fakes

BUFFALO (AP) — Reporters interviewing O.J. Simpson about his football future Monday got a taste of what National Football League defenses have gone through the past nine years.

Every time a question seemed to have Simpson nailed down, he'd throw a hip fake and be gone again.

The Buffalo Bills' superstar will undergo surgery for cartilage damage to his left knee Tuesday or Wednesday and will be out for the season. As for his plays for next season, he was as elusive as he ever was on the field.

"I don't want to end my career sitting on the bench," said Simpson, explaining he would not return in less than peak form.

Then, the reporters said, he most certainly is through, since most players who have knee surgery — such as Gale Sayers — lose something.

Well, no. He said surgery won't be serious.

"I'm glad it's a cartilage and not a ligament. If you have to have a knee injury, mine is the kind to have. You often don't need a cast and are off crutches after three to four weeks," Simpson said.

"I've been meeting directors and getting tons of scripts," he said, indicating that his acting career is booming and that he would have no motivation to return to football.

But then he said, "I'd like to play one more year for two reasons: first, pride. Second, I'd like to end my career on a positive note."

Simpson, whose request to be traded last season didn't pan out, then seemed to leave the door wide open for another trade request.

"If I were traded to a championship team, I wouldn't be unhappy. I would play for a lot less money," Simpson said. He also said, for the first time, that the contender wouldn't necessarily have to be near his Los Angeles home, mentioning Minnesota and Pittsburgh as possibilities.

However, Simpson then quickly added, "I'm not looking to be traded. I definitely won't ask for one."

Simpson, who's been frustrated in his goal to play in a Super Bowl, listened as reporters talked about the possibilities.

"Yeah, Oakland. Oakland would be nice," he said, stroking his newly-grown beard and grinning.

"The opportunity to be in a backfield with Chuck Foreman (Minnesota) would be a kick," he said.

"I would not be an unhappy man if I were traded to Los Angeles," he added.

Simpson arrived in Buffalo Sunday night not long after the Bills, fresh from their 24-14 upset victory over the New England Patriots, were greeted by about 300 fans at the airport.

"I think adversity many times can give a team a psychological lift. They were really charged up. Look at the Baltimore Colts when Johnny Unitas was hurt and Tom Matte was quarterbacking. They won some games they shouldn't have," he said.

Simpson said the Bills "have some excellent players" but "are a few years away from a championship."

Simpson was unsure when his knee was first injured, but said surgery was recommended by doctors because it was beginning to atrophy. He laughed when asked if he was using the injury as an excuse to end his career with the struggling Bills.

"That would be rather drastic, to have an operation, don't you think?".

Mt. Baldy Aquatics honors swimmers

The Mt. Baldy Aquatics Club recently held its annual awards dinner in Claremont.

Girls winning Most Valuable Swimmer awards at their respective age levels were Vicki Easton, Julie Presecan, Kathie Haase, Marianne Telles, Donna Sedgwick and Leila Fernandez.

Boys winning similar MVS honors at their age levels were Jeff Schwarzer, Shane Brooks, Steve Weck, Derek Jones, Jay Robnett and David Oakes.

The following won Most Improved Swimmer honors: Brian Lund, Michele Lyon, Mike Odom, Gail Swanger, Don Porter, Carmelita Abramovitz, Barry Kimbrough, Jennifer Clark, Steve Friend and Lisa Clark.

The Ken Cochren Award for the most valuable and most inspirational swimmer on the team went to John Moffet. This was the second year in a row that Moffet has won this award.

Mother of the Year award went to Dolores Weck. Special presentations were made to Dolores and Chuck Weck for their efforts in helping make MBA run smoothly, and to Dottie and Tony Morandi for making the snack bar a success.

Nelles School near 'dream'

complaints that the football drills are too tough.

"That's when I have to tell them that I'm the coach and we have these drills so we can win," he explained.

Baker hopes that some of his players continue playing football at schools at home when they are paroled, but so far it hasn't happened, so far as he knows.

"I'm sure a few of the guys this year could go on to college and do well on the football field," he said. "But I'm still looking for the first guy to make it."

Baker views the Nelles football program not only as an athletic tour de force, but as an important rehabilitation effort.

"It's a chance for them to compete in the real world without any particular edge," he said. "It's something that takes self-sacrifice, discipline and effort and when they go out there and win, it's the first time that any of them have ever won anything."

This view is seconded by Victor Mack, superintendent of the Nelles School.

"The team is composed of young people of all races who are frequently at odds with each other in the institution. On the team these barriers break down and they work together as a team."

It's still too early to tell if Nelles will get its coveted post-season playoff bid, but Baker wants to be ready.

The team has been equipped with black jerseys, since the white jerseys are worn only by visiting teams. Last week, Baker ordered a complement of white jerseys, "so we can be prepared to play on the field of any school we may have to face."

Wisconsin fans get their wish

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — What sickened John Jardine's players most about his sudden resignation Monday was that some ill-mannered fans got their wish.

And Jardine himself acknowledged that an ugly scene after his University of Wisconsin football team lost a fourth successive game last Saturday was the main factor for his decision to quit after nearly eight seasons as head coach.

Several fans sitting near the tunnel connecting the field and locker rooms taunted Jardine with refrains of "Good-bye Jardine, Good-bye, Jardine, Good-bye Jardine, we're glad to see you go." The players also were jeered and some were pelted with apples and toilet paper.

"The fans pay their eight bucks and they can do whatever they want. I mean that sincerely," a red-eyed and drawn Jardine, 41, told a hastily arranged news conference.

"But what happened to my players really affected them," he said. "Some wanted to go back out in their shorts and do battle with those people. I had to break up the postgame press conference to stop them. I just said then, 'That's it.' I don't ever again want to see that.

"My stomach has not been too good lately, but the main thing was what happened right after the game," he said. "They can boo the coaches all they want. But I don't think players should ever be booed."

Jardine said that, in the interests of a smooth transition, he will coach the Badgers' last two games, against Iowa here Saturday and at Minnesota Nov. 19. Athletic Director Elroy Hirsch, who said he tried to persuade Jardine to stay, said a search for a successor would begin immediately.

Jardine, hired to succeed John Coatta in early 1970, brought respectability and excitement to a program that had a 3-26-1 record in Coatta's three seasons. But while Wisconsin has been among the nation's leaders in attendance for several years, Jardine's only winning record here was 7-4 in 1974.

His current team won its first five games against suspect opposition, but has been outscored 129-7 in successive defeats by Michigan, Michigan State, Ohio State and Purdue. His record at Wisconsin is 37-45-3.

Defensive tackle Tom Houston said he was sure the incident involving the fans Saturday had been the main factor in Jardine's decision.

"It was the reaction of the fans, and what that did to the players," Houston said. "He didn't want that for his family. We love him very much. He's a super guy who means a whole lot to us."

Defensive end Scott Erdmann deplored Saturday's incident.

"It was very low class," Erdmann said. "I'd rather have 10,000 real fans behind us than 80,000 like that. It gave me a gut rot feeling. It was like hearing someone in your neighborhood saying something bad about your father, and Coach Jardine is like a father to me."

Jardine did not disclose future plans, but said he will never coach again. He has been hospitalized twice this year for treatment of nervous tension, according to Hirsch.

Barons lose Sabourin

RICHFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Veteran right wing Gary Sabourin of the Cleveland Barons is scheduled to undergo a second operation on his right knee later this week and will be lost to the National Hockey League club for the remainder of the season.

Sabourin, 32, underwent the first operation to repair cartilage damage last winter, but has continued to have problems. He was on skates during the Barons' preseason training camp, but has not seen any action since the regular season began.

Aztecs hoping for bowl

SAN DIEGO (AP) — When San Diego State battles the highly rated Florida State football team Nov. 19, the outcome could lead to an invitation to a postseason bowl game.

Representatives from the Sun, Peach and Gator bowls plan to be at San Diego Stadium for the confrontation on the day that teams can begin accepting bowl bids.

Because of a 6-1 record, and a ranking of 15th among the nation's college teams in The Associated Press poll last week, Florida State is the main attraction for bowl scouts.

"If San Diego State would beat Florida State, I'd think they would have to be in somebody's picture," Gator Bowl chief Ted Emery said Monday.

San Diego State, despite a record of 7-1, isn't mentioned on anybody's bowl game or top 20 lists right now. But the Aztecs' last outing was an impressive 29-7 decision over Pacific, and in the last four games San Diego State has outscored its opponents 150-28.

"We really came together, we did some awfully good things," Aztec coach Claude Gilbert said of the Pacific game. "If we can tontinue to play the way we did Saturday, we'll be very pleased."

"I wouldn't want to make book on San Diego's chances," said the Peach Bowl's George Crumbly, "but we certainly would think about them if they could continue to win."

Almost every bowl game is watching Florida State, and a lot of people will be in San Diego that weekend trying to sign them, so San Diego State will be noticed if they play well," the Peach Bowl official said.

Niekro seeks Braves' job

ATLANTA (AP) — Veteran Atlanta Braves pitcher Phil Niekro says the team officials considering whether to make him the next manager of the National League team are worried about his ability to pitch and manage at the same time.

"The biggest thing everyone is worried about is whether I could pitch and manage on the same day. That's the big question," he said Monday following a meeting with Braves' owner Ted Turner and Bill Lucas, director of personal management.

"Bill and Ted and I strictly talked the managing end today. We talked about what coaches I would have working with me, pitchers, any trades I would make. We talked at length," the 39-year-old Niekro said.

"I still feel the same as I did when I said I wanted to manage," he added. "I haven't backed off at all."

Niekro, who has been with the Braves organization for 18 years, said he would make some surprising decisions if he were hired to fill the slot left open when Dave Bristol was fired last month.

"I would make some changes. I'm not apt to say what. The Braves have some good talent, but the changes I would make would surprise a few people," he said.

Niekro has stiff competition for the job, including minor league manager Ken Boyer, Braves Richmond farm team manager Tommie Aaron, and New York Yankees Coach Bobby Cox.

Cox, a former Braves farmhand and a Class AAA manager at Syracuse, is considered the frontrunner.

But Niekro said, "Lucas and Turner said nothing about it" (choosing Cox), and said he felt he was as much a contender as anyone.

"None have managed the big leagues, although you're looking at some AAA managing experience. We'll all keep our hopes up until they say who the manager is," he said. "I'll keep hoping until they make the final decision."

The new manager, no matter who it is, will not affect his pitching, Niekro said. "I'm going to pitch the same for one guy as the other. The manager has never made my play any different."

Powerlifting seminar set

Three members of the National AAU Championship powerlifting team will participate in a physical fitness seminar Saturday at 1 p.m. at the International Health Spa in Pomona.

The spa is located at 2449 N. Garey Ave. The event is free to the public.

Included in the powerlifters to be at the spa Saturday are locals Marvin Phillips, Louie Hernandez and Larry Kidney.

Phillips is the current world heavyweight record holder in the squat event with a lift of 810 pounds. Hernandez is the current state record holder in the 198-pound class deadlift, while Kidney is also a former record holder.

The three weight-lifters are all members of the Pomona Police Department.

For further information on the seminar, call 593-2583.

Market activity

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks turned mixed early Tuesday, although investors were encouraged by General Motors' record dividend declaration and indications the Federal Reserve Board has relaxed its credit policies. Trading was moderate.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off 1.99 points to 814.45 shortly before noon EST. The Dow has gained 15.59 points the past three sessions, including 6.50 Monday.

General Motors, a market pacesetter, heartened investors late Monday when it declared a $1 regular quarterly dividend, up from 85 cents, and a $2.25 extra dividend.

Early buying also was sparked by a growing belief the Fed, which has taken steps to force interest rates higher to counter a surge in the nation's money supply, has relaxed its hold.

But some investors were concerned about speculation OPEC nations would raise oil prices when they meet in Caracas, Venezuela in December. The increase is expected to be small, but it still would be inflationary.

Advances led declines, 611 to 480, among the 1,586 issues crossing the tape. The 495 unchanged issues reflected some investor uncertainty.

General Motors was the most active NYSE issue, up ½ to 68⅞. The stock gained 1½ Monday when it announced its dividend increase.

Middle South Utilities was the second most active issue, up ⅛ to 16½. Florida Power was third, unchanged at 30 in trading that included a block of 100,000 shares at 30.

Beech Aircraft, a 1⅝-point winner Monday, was ahead 1 and General Dynamics, which climbed ⅞ the previous session, was ahead ¾. The companies announced Monday they had terminated merger discussions.

PepsiCo was off ¼ in active trading. The firm Monday completed its acquisition of Pizza Hut.

Prices were higher in moderate trading of American Stock Exchange issues. Allied Thermal, trading for the first time since Friday, was ahead 4. Interpace Monday upped its tender offer for Allied to $30 a share. This was better than Jim Walter's $26-a-share bid.

Christiana Cos Inc.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (BW) — The Christiana Cos. Inc. announced earnings of $815,000, or 31 cents a share, for its first fiscal quarter ended Sept. 30.

Last year the company reported earnings of $335,000, or 12 cents per share, for the like period. Revenues for the quarter were $5,360,000 compared to revenues in the comparable 1976 period of $6,748,000.

"Christiana is pleased to report continued strong earnings following the record fiscal year ended June 30, said Martin Fenton Jr., chairman and president of Christiana. As long as the general economy remains steady, the company anticipates another record year in fiscal 1978, despite the inevitable quarterly earnings fluctuations which characterize our business."

Supreme Court to rule on nuclear liability

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, in a case the government says could determine the future of nuclear energy development in the United States, agreed Monday to decide whether power plant operators ever may be sued for more than $560 million for a nuclear accident.

The justices said they will review a decision by a federal judge in North Carolina that the liability ceiling approved by Congress is unconstitutional.

Congress passed the Price-Anderson Act in 1957 to help encourage private development of nuclear energy. Several amendments to the original legislation have upped the maximum amount of liability facing nuclear plant owners for a major nuclear accident or catastrophe.

U.S. District Judge James B. McMillan ruled last March that such a limit denies persons who might be injured in such a "nuclear incident" their right to due process and equal protection of the law.

Justice Department attorneys, appealing McMillan's ruling for the federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission, said it "could stand as a major impediment to further private development of nuclear energy in this nation."

Because available insurance is inadequate, the goverment said, power companies would not build plants if confronted with unlimited liability.

The trial judge's decision also was appealed by the Duke Power Co.

The controversy stems from a lawsuit filed by the Carolina Environmental Study Group against Duke Power involving two power plants under construction in the Charlotte, N.C., area.

The environmental group challenged the federal law limiting Duke Power's liability in accidents at the plants, and McMillan ruled that area residents "are threatened with certain injury of relatively minor nature, and with the reasonable likelihood of major or perhaps catastrophic injury, without assurance of adequate compensation."

In other matters Monday, the court:

DOUBLE CHARGES

The court ruled 6-3 that a man convicted in a state court of robbing safe-deposit boxes in a Miami Beach hotel should not have been forced later to stand trial on federal charges stemming from the same crime.

The defendant argued that the double prosecution violated established federal policy and he was supported in that view by top Justice Department officials.

LIBEL

The court declined to consider an appeal of a $214,000 libel award against TODAY, a newspaper published in Brevard County, Fla. The newspaper had asked the justices to rule that public officials and public figures are not entitled to punitive damages in libel suits.

FEDERAL REVIEW

The justices refused an Ohio prosecutor's request that it further limit the access of state prisoners to federal courts. The court declined to consider a case in which a federal appeals ordered a new trial for an accused rapist and murderer who contended he was denied the rights of legal counsel and protection against self-incrimination.

The Supreme Court ruled last year that prisoners who receive "full and fair" chances in state court to appeal convictions on claims that evidence against them was obtained through illegal searches do not have a right to carry such appeals to the federal level.

Business Mirror

Leisure time study revealing

NEW YORK (AP) — Many of us tenaciously believe the road to greater happiness is paved with leisure time, but a man who claims to know says the view is full of potholes.

John Robinson measured to the minute how people use their 24 hours. He convinced 1,244 urban and suburban individuals to keep diaries, and then he dissected and analyzed and correlated the results and asked for more.

The pattern is unmistakable: "Too much free time is a greater burden than to little free time." Robinson found that people least satisfied with life were those with the most time to exercise options or choices.

Further conclusions may be drawn from the evidence, but one that particularly intrigues Robinson, whose research was financed by National Science Foundation grants, is that free time might be an idolatrous god.

No, the work ethic isn't dead, but for many the goal of work is leisure — on evenings, weekends, vacations, retirement. It is the target of unions. Sociologists sometimes advocate it, advertising almost always. Leisure may in fact be the national ambition.

Robinson, a Ph. D., communications professor and director of communications research at Cleveland State University, maintains we ought to reflect more about what we do with our time. Perhaps keep a 24 hour diary.

His cross-section of Americans did that and then turned the sheets over to him. After years of computer analysis he recently produced "How Americans Use Time" (Praeger Publishers, New York).

While the individual respondents might have been surprised at their own revelations, Robinson probably wasn't any less so. Maybe you won't be either.

—The dominant difference in the way time-usage breaks down is along lines of sex. Only minimal differences result from age, income, region, education and the like. But 80 per cent of time given to housework-child rearing is by women.

The men simply do not contribute what seems to be a fair share aound the house. Even when the woman works outside the home, the man is unlikely to make a major contribution. And many women say they don't want his help.

With more women entering the labor force, there could be immediate consequences of this division of labor. If, for instance, women have less time for child rearing, and the men don't help, how will children be brought up?

—Americans are more likely than Europeans to spend time visiting, in sports activities and in watching television. About two to 2½ hours a day are spent before the TV set — strike that and make it read: With the TV set on.

There is a reason for the choice of phrasing. Robinson is an inquisitive and wary person who once attached cameras to home television sets. Monitoring them, he often found the set on and the room empty.

People also divide their TV time, as they do other activities, with knitting, eating and, contradictory though it seems to be, reading newspapers, books or magazines. Their eyeballs, he says, are not always aimed where you think they are.

One-half hour of that TV time, fact, is secondary viewing. Only the French measure higher in this category, and that's because TV has become part of the French dinner hour, or two or three.

American men spend 40 minutes with newspapers, which makes them more avid newspaper readers than men in other nations, Robinson finds. But 14 of those minutes are secondary. For housewives the numbers are 21 and 10.

There is no limit to John Robinson's computer facts. This is only a fragment. But an observation rising out of the statistical mass is that most of everyone's day is structured — by work, sleep and travel.

Walnut man promoted by bank

JOSEPH R. FRAIN, of Walnut, has been promoted to systems development officer in Security Pacific Bank's Automated Data Processing Department. Frain was formerly project manager in the bank's systems development division. A native of Illinois and an alumnus of Cal State Los Angeles, he joined the bank as a trainee in 1969.

Pesticide developed

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Australian scientists have developed a new range of insecticides which preliminary tests indicate are among the most potent in the world and yet are harmless to humans and animals, Science Minister James Webster announced today.

Webster's statement said scientists of the government-financed Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization synthesized 18 new biodegradable pesticides called insecticidal esters and are now seeking companies to collaborate with them on further development and testing.

The minister said early tests show the new compounds to be effective against a wide range of insect pests, including the housefly, bushfly, fruit fly, mosquito, hide beetle, cluster caterpillar, granary weevil and flour beetle.

RV dealers see increased sales

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Recreational vehicle sales, which declined sharply after President Carter announced tougher energy policies last April, expects 1978 to be a record year for dollar volume, a spokesman has said.

David Forward, president of the Recreation Vehicle Industry Association, said during the weekend that 1978 sales would top 575,000, making it the second best year behind 1975's 582,000 sales. Forward's association represents most makers of major recreational vehicles.

People who postponed buying such vehicles after Carter's energy announcement were "back in the market now, and that pent-up demand should carry over well into 1978," Forward said.

"We'll continue to grow because people will demand our products," he added. "Increasing recreation time has caused people to want more ways to get out and away."

Forward said that although manufacturers were redesigning their campers, motor homes and travel trailers to save fuel, they were not making them smaller. He noted, however, that smaller motor homes have gained in sales, perhaps at the expense of larger ones.

Forward made his remarks during an interview at the Recreation Vehicle and Manufactured Housing Show at Dodger Stadium.

Trustee fees waived on accounts opened now through December 31, 1977.

Take advantage of Money Saving Retirement Plans

Now with new added deduction for non-wage earning spouse

Effective 1977, contributions to Individual Retirement Accounts may be made up to $1,750 jointly between both wage earner and non-wage earning spouse (or 15% of annual earned income up to $1,750). The amount is divided equally into two accounts in the name of each individual. Even though contributions may be made as late as 45 days after the end of your tax year you must open your account by the end of the year to allow for income tax deductions.

Start taking advantage of tax savings immediately. In addition to IRA, there is the Keogh account for the self-employed person, allowing federal contributions of 15% up to $7,500 (10% up to $2,500 for state taxes). Another tax benefit in addition to deduction of contributions, is the deferment of taxes on interest earnings. So the sooner you deposit your money the more interest you will earn, thus increasing the amount you save on your income taxes.

Ask us now about special arrangements that must be made to meet deadline of December 31, 1977.

Earn 7¾% and realize an annual yield of 8.06% by compounding daily.

IRA/KEOGH—no minimum balance—3-year term.

Federal regulations permit withdrawals from certificate accounts before maturity, but there is a substantial reduction in interest earnings.

Foothill Committee awards to be given

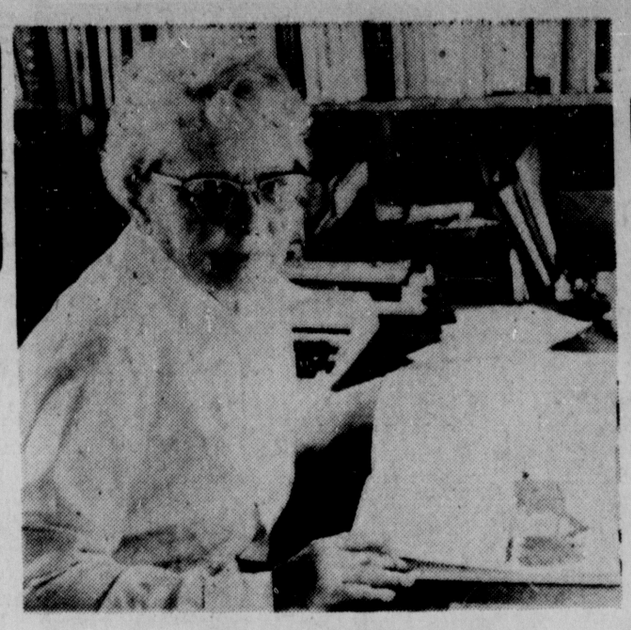
Two top awards will be the cause for celebration at the Foothill Philharmonic Committee's meeting at 10:30 a.m., Thursday in the home of Mrs. D. Kenneth Baker in Claremont.

The committee president, Mrs. Stanley Lawton of Glendora, will announce the Symphony Series Sweepstakes Connell Trophy award which was won for the third consecutive year by the Foothill membership for the largest number of new season ticket sales to the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra Music Center contests.

She will also acknowledge the achievement of Mrs. R. W. Weingartner, who individually sold more season tickets than anyone else in the 23 affiliate committees of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Association.

Mrs. Weingartner will receive an expense paid weekend for two in San Francisco with two box seats to the San Francisco Opera.

The pre-lunch program will be a lecture-recital by Sister Nancy Fierro, pianist and professor of music at Immaculate Heart College in Los Angeles. She has performed and lectured on women's music in Europe and in this country. She will speak briefly about women composers and the obstacles faced by them, and will follow with a performance of works written by celebrated women composers.



MRS. ESTHER BOULTON BLACK

Illustrated lecture planned Saturday

Pi Lambda Theta, Alpha Iota Chapter, will present an illustrated lecture at its Saturday meeting at Rancho Cucamonga County Library, 9191 Baseline Road, Cucamonga.

The lectures, which begins at 2 p.m. will feature Esther Boulton Black, who will impersonate Dona Merced of Rancho Cucamonga. Douglas Black will man the projector as Mrs. Black recounts the tragic and dramatic events of Dona Merced's life.

Mrs. Black wrote the historical account of Dona Merced in the book "Rancho Cucamonga and Dona Merced" which this year won the Ella Victoria Dobbs award for outstanding published research.

Following the presentation by the Blacks, chapter members will proceed by caravan to Casa de Rancho Cucamonga, 7869 Vineyard Ave., Cucamonga. Tea will be served by Ruth Goodrich, Edith Frances Eells, Margaret Regnery, Glenice Perrin and Rhea Wenger.

Members should call Louise Perkins at 626-1984 for reservations.

Joyce Brothers

Unhealthy environment

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: I've been married for ten years and my husband has always been a very excitable man. If something goes wrong at his office, or if there's a lot of traffic on the way home, he may explode if dinner isn't ready on time. When this happens, he sometimes hits me. He's never hit the children. I'd never stand for that and he knows it. I've gotten used to his mean streak. Not that I like it, but I don't see there's much I can do about it. Last week, he went on a rampage. I ended up with a black eye and a swollen arm. My neighbor was shocked when I told her. She said I should report him. Since he doesn't bother the kids, I don't know if I should. — A.Y.

DEAR A.Y.: Your husband's actions are very destructive to your children even though he may never hit them. After all, they are aware that a man they should love and respect is beating their mother. It's bound to have a profound emotional and psychological effect. This is an extremely unhealthy environment for your family.

I believe you should try to reason with your husband when he's not angry. Tell him that you will not tolerate physical abuse. If he attacks you, call for help. Call the police, and if they take no action, then take the children and get out of the house. Go to a neighbor's, to a hotel, to the police station, or to a community service organization in your area.

Children who witness violence in the home grow up believing that violence is the acceptable way to cope with problems. Children model themselves on their parents. Take action immediately to protect them and yourself.

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: My husband is a professional athlete and our 14-year-old son is also deeply involved in sports. They both suffer so much when they lose, it upsets me terribly and I find it difficult to handle. My husband often goes off by himself and won't talk to anyone in the family for days. His temper often gets out of hand when he loses. He becomes angry over the slightest thing, and verbally abuses me and our son. There's no joy living with this kind of rage and temperament. I can see my son taking on the same attitudes and I don't know if I can cope with two males who behave like children everytime they lose. M.J.

DEAR M.J.: Unless your husband changes his behavior, you can expect to have an increasing problem with your son. Children imitate their parents who are their role models. This is especially true when the father is in a profession the sun may aspire to.

It would be ideal if your son or husband could put more emphasis on competing against himself, but I realize this is something over which you have little control. A person's goal should be to do better than he did before as this provides the greatest impetus for growth. It's the pleasure of playing the game, of participating and stretching oneself that should provide the interest in almost any activity.

Dr. Lee Salk, professor of psychology in pediatrics and psychiatry at the Cornell University Medical College, says the attitude of the adult is the key to whether a child develops a sense of his own integrity. People have more difficult cooperating than competing in life.

Your husband is setting a bad example of sportsmanship and team play. Try to talk to him and let him know what he's doing to his son.

Hospital auxiliary schedules luncheon

Dr. Merle E. Hausladen, director of in-patient service, Mental Health Department of San Bernardino County Hospital, will be the speaker at the noon luncheon meeting of San Antonio Community Hospital Auxiliary when the group meets in Aita Auditorium, Nov. 21.

A graduate of the University of Texas-Medical Branch, Dr. Hausladen was formerly in private practice in Riverside and has served as a clinical instructor and consultant at various hospitals in Southern California.

His topic will be "Mental Health Delivery — Now and in the Future."

Interested persons in the community are invited to attend. Reservations should be made by Nov. 17 by calling the hospital auxiliary office at 985-2811.

Bazaar, luncheon planned

The Young Ladies' Institute of Pomona will hold its annual Christmas bazaar and luncheon Saturday at Orlando's in Pomona.

The bazaar and social hour will begin at 11:30 a.m. and a buffet luncheon will be served at 12:30 p.m.

A selection of handmade Christmas decorations, centerpieces, baked goods and gifts will be available for purchase.

In charge of the event are Mrs. William Crow and Mrs. Herbert Ehler. Other chairmen are Mmes. Matt Markey, Henry Bastien, Tony Recupero and Norman Reininger.

Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Andy Korientz, 629-6061, or Mrs. Carl Holzeberger, 622-4246.

Dinner charted by BPW

The Montclair Heights Business and Professional Women's Club has completed plans for a membership dinner to be held Thursday at the Phoenix restaurant, 9645 Central Ave., Montclair. The social hour will begin at 6:30 p.m.

The program will include three speakers. Janet Wilson, San Orco District membership chairman, will discuss membership. Debra Derho Misumi will discuss a unique approach to women's fitness and self protection. Michele Rosas, Girls Stat representative from Montclair High School, will outline her experiences while attending Girls State seminar.

For dinner reservations call 981-4811.

Snedeker-Logue vows are said

MRS. BRADFORD SNEDEKER

Miss Toni Joleyn Logue of Pomona and Bradford Wayne Snedeker of La Verne were married in the First Church of God in Pomona.

The daugnter of Eugene Logue and Mrs. Patricia Sanborn and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Snedeker were wed in an afternoon ceremony by the Rev. C. A. Peterson.

Honor attendant was Miss Roberta Franklin of Alta Loma. Bridesmaids were Miss Lee Ann Coogan of Agoura, Miss Betty Ann Snedeker of La Verne, Theresa and Diane Arballo of Pomona, Vicki Logue of Pomona and Susan Haynes of La Verne.

Standing as best man was Jeff Bennett of La Verne. Ushers were Ryss Tyner of Chino, Jeff Hill of La Verne, Terry Logue, Alex Arballo of Pomona and John Haynes of La Verne.

Following the rite, a reception was held at the church.

When the couple returns from a wedding trip to San Diego they will establish a home in La Verne.

Meeting planned

The subject, "Your Health, Who's in Charge?" will be addressed by Dr. Ruth Harmer when the Claremont Branch of the American Association of University Women meets at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, in the Bidwell Forum of Glendora Library and Cultural Center at 140 S. Glendora Ave., Glendora.

Arrangement for the program have been made by Muriel Sasaki and Patricia Prather.

Dr. Harmer has, through her writings, been instrumental in awakening a reconsideration of our attitudes toward our personal health and well being. She has also been a precipitating agent in the development of innovations in medical care delivery systems.

She has been a professor of English and modern languages for 17 years at Cal Poly Pomona. In 1977 Dr. Harmer was chosen Cal Poly's outstanding professor and in 1976 she was named volunteer of the year for her work in cooperatives by the Los Angeles Human Relations Committee. She earned her B.A. degree from Barnard College, her M.A. from Columbia University and her Ph.D. from the University of Southern California. All women holding baccalaureate degrees are eligible for membership in AAUW.

Piano recital slated

Pianist Alice Shapiro will perform at the Claremont Colleges' Faculty House, 701 North College Way, at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. This will be the third in a series of eight Sunday afternoon concerts covering the complete 32 Beethoven Sonatas. The series is appropriately called "Strictly Beethoven."

The program will include Sonata in A Major, No. 2, Sonata quasi una Fantasi in C Sharp Minor, No. 2, Sonata in G Major, No. 1 and Sonata in C Major.

Tea and conversation will follow the performance in the parlor-like atmosphere of the Faculty House Lounge.

TERESA ZYLIS-GARA will sing Richard Strauss' "Four Last Songs" with the Los Angeles Philharmonic in the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center Thursday, Friday and Sunday. Zubin Mehta will lead the orchestra in "Don Quixote," by Strauss, and "Till Eulenspiegel."

'Lady Julie'

LVC offers Strindberg

The Theater Company of La Verne College will present August Strindberg's "Lady Julie" in the Dailey Theater at 8 p.m. Nov. 18 and 19. Admission is 50 cents.

The cast, headed by Carole Harmer, Debra Steckel and David A. Glasa, includes a large dance chorus. John R. Woodruff directs.

Strindberg's tale is that of the confrontation of Lady Julie, the last of a played-out line of an aristocratic family, and Jean, her father's valet, who vacilates between love of the heights and hatred of those who have already achieved them.

Jean is played by Glasa, who is chairman of the Theater Company. In the past three seasons, Glasa has been seen in major and supporting roles in "The Enchanted," "The Devil's Disciple," "Desire Under the Elms," "Night Must Fall" and "An Inspector Calls." Glasa also designed the lighting for this performance of "Lady Julie."

Miss Harmer will alternate in the roles of Julie and Kristin. She is a LV-Capa student returning to the classroom this year after long training and practice in ballet. She was seen last month in the LVC production of "An Inspector Calls" and acts as the theater's wardrobe mistress.

Alternating with Harmer in the roles of Julie and Kristin is Debra Steckel. She is also a member of the Theater Company board of directors. She is a native of Anchorage, Alaska, where she is actively engaged in children's theater.

Andrea Wagner, the set designer, newly arrived from Bay Area theaters, has provided the setting for the play's eerie, night-long twilight of Midsumer Eve.

Gossett to star in cop film

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Louis Gossett Jr. and Joe Don Baker star in "To Kill a Cop," a four-hour movie for NBC.

Gossett plays an exiled radical leader who returns to the United States and hopes to start a revolution by killing policemen. Baker is a maverick chief of detectives.

Oscar Wilde

Oscar Wilde, British author-playwright, was born in Ireland in 1856.

PUBLIC NOTICE PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS CALLING FOR BIDS
POMONA UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT
ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT ADMINISTRATION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Pomona Unified School District of Los Angeles County, California, acting by and through its Governing Board, hereinafter referred to as the District, will receive up to, but not later than 3:00 P.M. on the 1st day of December, 1977 sealed bids for the award of a contract for:

MULTI-PURPOSE BUILDING AT MARSHALL JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

All bids shall be made on a bid form furnished by the Architect and shall include all EDA forms and requirements.

Bids shall be received in the office of the Assistant Superintendent of Business, Pomona Unified School District, 800 South Garey Avenue, Pomona, California and shall be opened and publicly read at the above stated time and place.

Each bid must conform and be responsive to the contract documents, copies of which are now on file in the office of the Architect, Cashion-Horle, Architects, Inc., 720 North Avenue, Pomona, California and the District Administration office, above address. Plans and specifications and all pertinent contract documents may be obtained for bidding at the office of the Architect, upon execution in writing the form "Acknowledgement of Receipt of Plans and Specifications." This form required the payment of $50.00 by the bidder to the District if bidder fails to return the plans and specifications in good condition within 10 days after the opening of bids.

Attention is directed to the provisions in Section 1777.5 (Chapter 1411, Statutes of 1968) and 1777.5 of the Labor Code concerning the employment of apprentices by the Contractor or any subcontractor under him. Pursuant to the California Labor Code, Part 7, Chapter 1, Article 2, Sections 1770, 1773 and 1773.1, the Director of Industrial Relations has ascertained the general prevailing rate of wages and employer payments for health and welfare, vacation, pension and similar purposes applicable to the work to be done. Said rate and scale are on file with the District, and copies will be made available to any interested party on request. The general prevailing wage rates as determined by the Secretary of Labor, U.S. Department of Labor, pursuant to the provisions of the Davis-Bacon Act wage decision applicable for this project location are incorporated herein by reference, a copy of which is included in the contract documents. The minimum wage rates for this project shall be not less than the higher of the Federal or State rate by trade. Contractor shall post a copy of the above wage rates at each jobsite.

Each bid shall be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check or bid bond for ten percent (10%) of the amount of the bid made payable to the order of the School District.

Said check or bond shall be given as a guarantee that the bidder will enter into the contract if awarded to him. In the event that bidder refuses to execute said contract, the use by the public of said structure will be delayed, and the public will suffer great damage. From the nature of the case, it would be extremely difficult and impractical to fix said amount of damage. Therefore, the District and the Bidder agree that the above sum shall be paid to the District under the condition above set forth as liquidated damages and not as a forfeiture. If a bond is submitted, the issuing company shall not exceed their United States Treasury limit.

The District reserves the right to reject any or all bids and waive any irregularities or informalities in any bid or in the bidding.

No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of sixty (60) days after the date set for opening thereof.

This project is wholly or partly funded by the Economic Development Administration (EDA) of the Department of Commerce under the Local Public Works Capital Development Act of 1977 (Pub. L. 95-28), and as such includes binding Federal requirements not normally a part of District's contracts. This law and EDA regulations thereunder require this agency to assure that at least ten percent of the amount of each grant of funds be expended for contracts with and/or supplies from minority business enterprises. The grant to this agency may be terminated by EDA for breach of any of the terms of this assurance. Therefore, by submitting a bid, the bidder agrees to comply strictly with the terms and conditions of this asurance. Total grant amount for this project is $212,600.00.

As an aid to bidders seeking minority subcontractors and suppliers, a copy of the OMBE (Office of Minority Business Enterprises) Funded Organizations Directory is included in the bid package.

A pre-bid conference to discuss the ramifications of the Federal requirements is scheduled as indicated on page 5 of "Minority Business Enterprises Requirements" in the contract documents. All interested parties are urgently advised to attend.

Bidders are advised that once underway, the Federal Government will monitor the contract to assure itself that its requirements are being complied with and will use its findings to determine if any portion of the grant due at the time will paid to the District. The Contractor shall understand that noncompliance may result in loss of any grant monies due and cancellation of the contract.
